

Contents

Preface	page ix
List of abbreviations	xi
Chronology of early Romanticism	xvii
Introduction I
1 Formation and main representatives of early Romanticism in Germany 13
Jena and early Romanticism 14
The words 'romantic' and 'romanticism' 24
The members of the early Romantic School 33
EXAMPLE: Early Romanticism and the French Revolution 54
2 Poetry in the early Romantic theory of the Schlegel brothers 72
The theory of the imagination 74
The poetic unity of the literary work 87
Ancient and modern, classical and Romantic poetry 95
EXAMPLE: A. W. Schlegel and the early Romantic damnatio of Euripides 110
3 The theory of Romantic poetry 131
Transcendental poetry and double reflection 134
Irony and fragment 141
Romantic poetry and the new mythology 154
EXAMPLE: Goethe's Wilhelm Meister and the early Romantic theory of the novel 165

4	Novalis and the mystical dimension of early Romantic theory	181
	Friedrich Schlegel's and Novalis' critique of Fichte	184
	Absolute idealism	195
	The nature of the truly poetic	201
	EXAMPLE: Novalis' Heinrich von Ofterdingen	211
5	Wackenroder's and Tieck's conceptions of painting and music	222
	The approach to art in the Outpourings	225
	The conception of painting	232
	The conception of music	241
	EXAMPLE: Tieck's novel Franz Sternbald's Wanderings	248
6	Theory of language, hermeneutics, and encyclopaedistics	260
	Theory of language	263
	Theory of understanding and interpretation	273
	The early Romantic notion of encyclopaedia	282
	EXAMPLE: Friedrich Schlegel's Lucinde	289
	Conclusion: early German Romanticism and literary modernity	299
	Notes	306
	Select bibliography	323
	Index of works cited and primary sources	327
	Index of subjects and names	334