

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-35721-0 - The Common Writer: Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street

Nigel Cross

Frontmatter

More information

THE COMMON WRITER

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-35721-0 - The Common Writer: Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street
Nigel Cross

Frontmatter

More information

THE COMMON WRITER

Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street

NIGEL CROSS

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge
New York New Rochelle
Melbourne Sydney

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-35721-0 - The Common Writer: Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street
Nigel Cross
Frontmatter
More information

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
Cambridge, New York, Melbourne, Madrid, Cape Town, Singapore,
São Paulo, Delhi, Dubai, Tokyo

Cambridge University Press
The Edinburgh Building, Cambridge CB2 8RU, UK

Published in the United States of America by Cambridge University Press, New York

www.cambridge.org
Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9780521357210

© Nigel Cross 1985

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 1985
Reprinted 1988
Re-issued in this digitally printed version 2010

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Catalogue Card Number: 84-29247

ISBN 978-0-521-24564-7 Hardback
ISBN 978-0-521-35721-0 Paperback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication, and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is,
or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-35721-0 - The Common Writer: Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street

Nigel Cross

Frontmatter

More information

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments page vi

Introduction: The Common Writer 1

1 Literature and Charity:
The Royal Literary Fund from David Williams to Charles Dickens 8

2 From Prisons to Pensions:
Grub Street and its Institutions 38

3 Bohemia in Fleet Street 90

4 The Labouring Muse:
Working-Class Writers and Middle-Class Culture 126

5 The Female Drudge:
Women Novelists and their Publishers 164

6 Gissing's New Grub Street, 1880–1900 204

Notes 241

Index 253

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-35721-0 - The Common Writer: Life in Nineteenth-Century Grub Street
Nigel Cross

Frontmatter

More information

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I must first thank the Committee of the Royal Literary Fund for employing me to catalogue the Fund's archive and for generously allowing me to make full use of it for this book. I owe especial thanks to the Fund's former secretary, Victor Bonham-Carter, whose encouragement has been invaluable, and to Janet Adam Smith, former president, for her close and constructive attention to the project.

Particular thanks to Caroline Dakers and John Sutherland for reading the manuscript and offering helpful advice, also to Andrew Brown who is that rare thing, an editor who understands my subject.

My thanks to Sibylla Flower for material on the Guild of Literature and Art; to Ann Palmer for giving me her extensive notes on Civil List pensions, and to Peter Evans of the Newspaper Press Fund, Air Commodore Saunders of the National Benevolent Institution, and the governors of the Charterhouse for allowing me access to their respective records.

Others who have kindly supplied me with references, clues and advice are: James Dybikowski, Simon Eliot, K.J. Fielding, Peter France, Elizabeth Gotch, N. John Hall, Julia Harding, Elizabeth James, Whitney R.D. Jones, Leanne Langley, Robin Myers, Thomas Pinney, R.L. Purdy, Charles E. Robinson, Michael Sheldon, Anthony Mackenzie Smith, Graham Storey and Robert H. Super.

For the past four years I have fitted the writing and much of the research for this book into the schedule of an itinerant journalist. As so much of The Common Writer pries into the finances of literary production, it would be cheating not to reveal my own accounts. To the Leverhulme Trust I am immensely grateful for the award of a Fellowship worth £2,500. To my publishers I am grateful for the promise (made in 1980) of £250 on receipt of typescript and £250 on publication; I understand that this – for an academic press – is a noble gesture.