
Contents

Preface iii

Foreword v

Part 1

Background* 1

1 Conscious and Unconscious Motives* 3

Motives as One of Three Major Determinants of Behavior 4

Conscious Intents 6

Unconscious Intents 15

Experimental Study of Unconscious Motives 22

Are Unconscious Motives Important? 25

2 Motives in the Personality Tradition* 31

Motives as Reasons for What People Spend Their Time Doing 32

Motives as Reasons for Abnormal Behavior 35

Motives as Reasons for Creativity and Growth 40

Measuring Human Motives 42

Stages in Motivational Development 48

Other Views of Developmental Stages 57

Checking the Validity of the Motivational Stage Theory 58

Contributions of the Personality Tradition 64

3 Motivation in the Behaviorist Tradition* 68

Thorndike's Studies of Animal Motivation 69

Hull's Model of How Drives Facilitate Adaptation or Learning 73

Excitatory Potential in Behavior Theory and the Meaning of the Term
Motivation 84

The Behaviorist Model of Motivation Applied to Humans by Spence and Others 85

Reinterpreting the Behaviorist Studies of Human Motivation in Terms of
 What Goes On in People's Minds 95

Comparison of the Psychoanalytic and Behaviorist Contributions to the Study of Motivation 97

Limitations of the Behaviorist Model 99

x Contents

Part 2	The Nature of Human Motives 105
	4 Emotions as Indicators of Natural Incentives 107
	Early Attempts to Find a Biological Basis for Motives 108
	Sign Stimuli in Ethology as a Basis for Natural Incentives 109
	The Case for Natural Incentives in Humans 110
	Emotions as Indicators of Natural Incentives 116
	Positive Natural Incentives in Infants 122
	Classification of Natural Incentives in Terms of the Primary Emotions 124
	Relation of Emotion to Motivation 128
	5 Natural Incentives and Their Derivatives 130
	How Natural Incentives Influence the Development of the Hunger Motive 131
	Natural Incentives, Emotions, and Motives 136
	The Variety Incentive 139
	The Impact Incentive 147
	The Contact or Sexual Incentives 153
	The Consistency Incentive 162
	Interaction of Incentives 165
	The Role of Cognition in the Development of Incentives 166
	Symbolic Incentives, or Values 167
	6 Measures of Human Motive Dispositions 172
	The Motivational Sequence 173
	Arousing Motives to Detect Their Unique Effects on Behavior 185
	Measuring the Strength of Social Motive Dispositions 190
	Alternative Measures of Motive Strength Evaluated According to the Criteria for Good Measurement 199
 Part 3	 Important Motive Systems 221
	7 The Achievement Motive 223
	Measuring the Need for Achievement 224
	Evidence That the Need for Achievement Score Measures a Motive 226
	What Is the Incentive for the Achievement Motive? 227
	How High Need for Achievement Affects Performance 238
	Other Characteristics of People with a Strong Need to Achieve 246
	Social Consequences of a Strong Need to Achieve 251
	Relationship of the Achievement Motive to the Protestant Ethic and the Rise of Capitalism 255
	Other Influences Affecting the Achievement Motive Early in Life 260
	8 The Power Motive 268
	Measuring the Need for Power 269
	Evidence that the n Power Score Measures a Motive 271

	Outlets of the Need for Power	280
	Catharsis	292
	Role of the Power Motive in Drinking	296
	How Maturity Modulates the Expression of the Power Motive	302
	Controlled and Impulsive Assertiveness in Organizational Behavior	312
	Inhibited Power Motive Syndrome and Susceptibility to Illness	320
	Origins of the Power Motive	325
9	The Affiliative Motives	333
	The Meaning of Love	334
	The Sexual Motive	335
	Measuring the Sexual Motive in Fantasy	341
	The Need for Affiliation	346
	Characteristics of People with a Strong Need for Affiliation	348
	The Intimacy Motive	359
	The Affiliative Motives and Health	366
	Origins of the Affiliative Motives	368
	Relationship of Sexuality to Affiliation and Intimacy	369
10	The Avoidance Motives	373
	Generalized Anxiety as a Motive	374
	Fear of Failure	381
	Measuring Fear of Failure in Fantasy	386
	Comparison of Measures of Fear of Failure	391
	Origins of the Fear of Failure	392
	Fear of Rejection	393
	Fear of Success	397
	Fear of Power	404
	Other Fears	408
	Conclusion	410
Part 4	Contextual Effects on Human Motives	413
11	Motivational Trends in Society	415
	Analyzing the Reasons for the Growth and Decline of Civilizations	416
	The Collective Concern for Achievement, Entrepreneurship, and Economic Growth	423
	The Collective Concern for Affiliation and Civil Rights	438
	The Collective Concern for Power	441
	Historical Shifts in Collective Motive Levels	444
	Origins of Collective Motivations	456
	Difficulties in Interpreting Motive Trends in Society	464
12	Cognitive Effects on Motivation	473
	Cognitive Influences on Motive Arousal	474
	Motive-related Cognitions	488
	Cognitions Affecting the Translation of Motivation Into the Impulse to Act	504

- 13 How Motives Interact with Values and Skills to Determine What People Do 514
- Drives, Habit Strength, and Incentives as Determinants of Response Strength 515
 - Motives, Expectancies of Success, and Values as Determinants of Performance 516
 - How the Achievement Motive, Skill, and Achievement Values Affect Performance 522
 - How Motives, Skills, and Values Jointly Determine Success as a Naval Officer 527
 - Factors Influencing Affiliative Acts and Choices 527
 - The Distinction Between Motives and Intents 544
- 14 Motivation Training 547
- Applying Expectancy-Value Theory to Improving Academic Performance 548
 - Achievement Motivation Training for Entrepreneurs 553
 - Achievement Motivation Training in Schools 567
 - Origin Training in the Classroom 569
 - Power Motivation Training 577
- 15 Milestones in the Progress Toward a Scientific Understanding of Human Motivation 587
- Measuring Motives 588
 - Definition of a Motive 590
 - Accumulated Knowledge About Three Important Human Motive Systems 595
 - Understanding How Motives Combine with Other Characteristics to Determine Action 598
 - Some Issues Needing Further Clarification 601
 - The Relationship of Progress in Psychology to Its Role in Society 606
- Bibliography* 609
- Acknowledgments* 641