

Contents

Preface	page	vii
1 The Commedia and Medieval Modes of Reading		i
(i) Allegory and Vision		i
(ii) Alan of Lille: Poetry and Creativity		8
(iii) Image and Metaphor		14
(iv) Symbol and Myth		24
2 The Giants in Hell		32
(i) Umbriferi prefazii		32
(ii) Illusions		34
(iii) Demythologisation		37
(iv) Nimrod		43
(v) Invented Languages		46
(vi) The Parity of Biblical and Classical Giants		50
3 The Phantasmagoria in the Earthly Paradise		55
(i) Hidden Comparisons		55
(ii) Dante's Tree		59
(iii) Eagle and Chariot		65
(iv) Dragon, Giant, and Prostitute		69
(v) Modicum, et vos videbitis me		73
4 The First Circle in the Solar Heaven		82
(i) Knowledge and Love		82
(ii) Quelli ardenti soli		90
(iii) Boethius and Siger		96

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-37960-1 - Dante and Medieval Latin Traditions

Peter Dronke

Table of Contents

More information

vi Contents

Excursus

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| (i) The Epistle to Cangrande and Latin prose rhythm   | 103 |
| (ii) Nimrod: his character, ambitions, and thoughtsabout God. The evidence of the Liber Nemroth | 112 |

Notes	125
-------	-----

Bibliographical Note	148
----------------------	-----

Index	149
-------	-----