Acknowledgments

I wrote this book while holding the Richard F. Stockton Bicentennial Preceptorship at Princeton University. I thank John Darley, John Harechmak, Jonas Langer, George A. Miller, Sylvia Sugarman, Cathy Urwin, and especially Raymond Geuss for comments on the manuscript. I thank Ageliki Nicolopoulou for her help in locating some of the sources cited in chapter 4 and Arlene Kronewitter for typing the manuscript. I thank Jean E. Tulis for suggesting that I write the book.

To Helen Wheeler, Edith Feinstein, and the staff at Cambridge for the care and dispatch with which they prepared the book for publication and Mary Nevader for a sensitive and penetrating copyediting job, many thanks.

I am most grateful to the Family Resource Infant Center of Princeton for allowing me to observe the children at the center as I began work on the book. I thank Annie Ballou for her suggestion that watching children might provide the impetus for writing.
