This series is devoted to an attempt to comprehend capitalism as a world-system. It will include monographs, collections of essays and colloquia around specific themes, written by historians and social scientists united by a common concern for the study of large-scale long-term social structure and social change.

The series is a joint enterprise of the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme in Paris and the Fernand Braudel Center for the Study of Economies, Historical Systems, and Civilizations at the State University of New York at Binghamton.

Other books in the series

Marie-Claire Bergere: The Golden Age of the Chinese bourgeoisie 1911–1937

Ivan T. Berend and Gyorgy Ranki: The European periphery and industrialization, 1780–1914

Ferenc Feher: The frozen revolution: An essay on Jacobinism

Georges Haupt: Aspects of international socialism 1871–1914

Huri Islamoglu-Inan (ed.): The Ottoman empire and the world-economy

Caglar Keyder: The definition of a peripheral economy: Turkey 1923–1929

Luisa Passerini: Fascism and popular memory: the cultural experience of the Turin working class

Lucette Valensi: Tunisian peasants in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries

Immanuel Wallerstein: The capitalist world-economy: essays

Immanuel Wallerstein: The politics of the world-economy: the states, the movements and the civilisations

This book is published as part of the joint publishing agreement established in 1977 between the Fondation de la Maison des Sciences de l'Homme and the Press Syndicate of the University of Cambridge. Titles published under this arrangement may appear in any European language or, in the case of volumes of collected essays, in several languages.

New books will appear either as individual titles or in one of the series which the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme and the Cambridge University Press have jointly agreed to publish. All books published jointly by the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme and the Cambridge University Press will be distributed by the Press throughout the world.
