

Cambridge University Press

0521407273 - Vienna and the Jews, 1867-1938: A Cultural History - Steven Beller

Frontmatter

More information

Vienna and the Jews, 1867–1938

Vienna and the Jews
1867–1938

A cultural history

STEVEN BELLER

Cambridge University Press
 0521407273 - Vienna and the Jews, 1867-1938: A Cultural History - Steven Beller
 Frontmatter
More information

Published by the Press Syndicate of the University of Cambridge
 The Pitt Building, Trumpington Street, Cambridge CB2 1RP
 40 West 20th Street, New York, NY 10011-4211, USA
 10 Stamford Road, Oakleigh, Melbourne 3166, Australia

© Cambridge University Press 1989

First published 1989
 First paperback edition 1990
 Reprinted 1993, 1995

British Library cataloguing in publication data

Beller, Steven
 Vienna and the Jews, 1867-1938: a cultural history.
 1. Austria. Vienna. Jews. history
 I. Title
 943.6'13004924

Library of Congress cataloguing in publication data

Beller, Steven, 1958-
 Vienna and the Jews, 1867-1938: a cultural history/Steven Beller.
 p. cm.
 Bibliography.
 Includes index.
 ISBN 0-521-35180-4
 1. Jews-Austria-Vienna-History. 2. Jews-Austria-Vienna-
 Intellectual life. 3. Austria-Civilization-Jewish influences.
 4. Vienna (Austria)-Civilization. 5. Vienna (Austria)-Ethnic relations. I. Title.
 DS135.A92V5213 1989
 943.6'13004924-dc19 88-29971 CIP

ISBN 0 521 40727 3 paperback

Transferred to digital printing 2003

Contents

List of tables	page vi
Preface	ix
Introduction ‘ Fin-de-siècle ’ Vienna and the Jewish question	1
PART I JEWS IN VIENNESE CULTURE AND SOCIETY: THE STATISTICAL PERSPECTIVE	9
1 Who was a Jew in Vienna at the turn of the century?	11
2 How Jewish was fin-de-siècle Vienna?	14
3 The social context	33
4 Education and class – the position of the Jews in Viennese society	43
PART II THE JEWISH BACKGROUND TO VIENNESE CULTURE	71
5 Jewish consciousness: Jewish mind?	73
6 The distance from tradition	84
7 Education	88
8 Ethics and the individual	106
9 The Enlightenment	122
10 German culture	144
11 Vienna	165
12 Antisemitism	188
13 The ethics of outsiders: the cultural response	207
Conclusion Vienna and the Jews in perspective	238
Bibliography	245
Index	259

Tables

1 The proportion of Jews in the student body of Vienna University 1881–1904	34
2 The proportion of Jews in the separate faculties 1880–1926	34
3 The Jewish presence, by descent, in the teaching faculties of Vienna University in the summer semester 1910	36
4 The Jewish presence, by religion, in the groups of lawyers and doctors	37
5 The Jewish population of Vienna	44
6 Highest density of the Jewish population in Vienna in 1910, by district	44
7 The proportion of Jews among independents in the economic sectors in Vienna according to the census of 1910	48
8 The proportion of Jews among male independents in the economic sectors in Vienna according to the census of 1910	48
9 Distribution of father's occupation against son's religion (and/or ethnic descent) among the Maturanten of Vienna's central Gymnasien 1870–1910 (sample)	54
10 Distribution of father's occupation against son's religion (and/or ethnic descent) among the Maturanten of Vienna's central Gymnasien 1870–80 (sample)	56
11 Distribution of father's occupation against son's religion (and/or ethnic descent) among the Maturanten of Vienna's central Gymnasien 1885–95 (sample)	57
12 Distribution of father's occupation against son's religion (and/or ethnic descent) among the Maturanten of Vienna's central Gymnasien 1900–10 (sample)	58
13 Percentage distribution of the career (subject) choice of Viennese Maturanten by father's occupation 1870–1910 (sample): Jews	60
14 Percentage distribution of the career (subject) choice of

Cambridge University Press

0521407273 - Vienna and the Jews, 1867-1938: A Cultural History - Steven Beller

Frontmatter

More informationTables

vii

Viennese Maturanten by father's occupation 1870–1910 (sample): non-Jews	61
15 Percentage distribution of son's achieved career against father's occupation for Maturanten of the Mariahilfergymnasium 1872–3, 1875–85, 1892–1907: Jews	62
16 Percentage distribution of son's achieved career against father's occupation for Maturanten of the Mariahilfergymnasium 1872–3, 1875–85, 1892–1907: non-Jews	63
17 Percentage distribution of son's achieved career against father's occupation for Maturanten of the Wasagymnasium 1876–88: Jews	64
18 Percentage distribution of son's achieved career against father's occupation for Maturanten of the Wasagymnasium 1876–88: non-Jews	65

Preface

Since I began researching the subject of the Jewish rôle in Viennese culture I have incurred the debt of so many people it is difficult to know where to begin (and where to end). In anticipation of their omission, I would like to thank all those not mentioned here who, nevertheless, helped me in my task.

Much of my work depends on the insights I gained from listening to the accounts of people who were part of the cultural and social phenomenon studied in the following pages. I am thus indebted to the following for their generosity in giving of their time and memories: in Vienna, Erika Czuczka, Milan Dubrovic, Marcel Faust, Ernst Federn, Bruno Frei, Ernst Fuchs, Dr Hans Goldschmidt, Iwan Hacker, Ernst Häussermann, Professor Walther Kraus, Professor Albert Lauterbach, Paul Neurath, Lily Schnitzler, Dr Michael Stern, Heinrich Sussmann, Graf Tamare, Dr Hans Thalberg and Emmy Wellesz; in England, Stella Ehrenfeld, Bettina Ehrlich, Frieda von Hofmannsthal, Rudolf Ray-Rappaport, Hilde Spiel and, in passing, Professor Frederick Wyatt; in California, Ella Heinz and Ann Unger; in New York, Professor Martha Steffy Browne; and in Venice, Manina Tischler.

For their advice and encouragement I would like to thank: in England, Sir Isaiah Berlin, Dr Tim Blanning, Richard Calvocoressi, Dr Christine Carpenter, Maurice Cowling, Dr Nicholas de Lange, Robert Evans, Professor Alexander Goehr, Martin Golding, Sir Ernst Gombrich, Dr Boyd Hilton, Dr Harold James, Daniel Johnson, Lionel Kochan, John Leslie, Dr Jan and Herta Palme, Dr Jon Parry, Laszlo Peter, Robert Pynsent, Dr Miri Rubin, Yehuda Safran, Dr Anil Seal, Dr David Sorkin, Dr Jonathan Steinberg, Professor George Steiner, Professor J. P. Stern, Trevor Thomas and Peter Vergo; in Austria, Dr Helmut Andics, Viktor Anninger, György Bence, Professor Kurt Blaukopf, Dr Wolfdieter Bihl, Dr Breicha, Dr Bernhard Denscher, Fritz Endler, Dr Peter Eppel, Professor Kurt Rudolf Fischer, Dr Hacker, Dr Hodik, Dr Hanns Jäger-Sunstenau, Dr Lothar Höbelt, Mr and Mrs Charles Kessler, Dr Eckehart Koehler, Henryk

Krzeczkowski, Dr Helmut Leitner, Dr Harald Leupold-Löwenthal, Dr Klaus Lohrmann, Dr Lunzer, Dr Viktor Matejka, Jonny and Gwynn Moser, Dr Werner Neudeck, Silvio Neumann, Dr Obermayer, Dr Alfred Pfabigan, Professor Walther B. Simon, Professor Spitzzy, Desider Stern, Dr Nikolaus Vielmetti, Dr Robert Waissenberger, Professor Erika Weinzierl, Ulrich Weinzierl and Margot Winge; in Frankfurt-on-Main, Dr Renate Heuer; from the United States, Professor Gary Cohen and Professor Harry Zohn; from Israel, Professor Dr Sol Lypcin and Dr Herbert Rosenkrantz; in Paris, Professor Eugène Fleischmann and Victor Karady; and, wherever he may be, Allan Janik.

I am indebted to Trinity College, Cambridge, the British Academy and the Master and Fellows of Peterhouse for their financial support over the period of my research, and here I would especially like to thank Lord Dacre of Glanton for his encouragement. Oberrat Dr Wieser and after him Dr Anzböck at the Stadtschulrat of Vienna kindly permitted me to view the school records which are so central to the following study. I am therefore especially indebted to them.

While in Vienna life was made much more enjoyable by the Institut für die Wissenschaften von Menschen, and I would like to thank its members, particularly Klaus Nellen, Cornelia Klinger and the Institute's director, Krzysztof Michalski, for their great hospitality. For similar reasons I am indebted to Christian and Renée Nebehay, Francesca Fuchs, Elisabeth de Gelsey, Dr Mascha Hoff and Christl Fabrizii. Of all people in Vienna, I owe most to Ingeborg Lau, whose readiness to assist me in my researches has been virtually boundless.

There are four people who deserve particular mention. Professor Peter Pulzer of All Souls College, Oxford, has given me much of the shrewdest advice concerning my research. George Clare has been a constant source of help, advice and encouragement. Professor Ivar Oxaal of Hull University has been especially important in shaping (and reshaping) my ideas regarding the question of how to approach the sociological aspects of the subject, and in encouraging me in that direction. Above all, however, I wish to thank my supervisor, Norman Stone, for his inimitable advice (academic and otherwise), his moral support at times of crisis, and all the effort he has expended on my behalf over the last seven years.

It remains to thank the people to whom I owe the deepest debt of gratitude: my parents, for putting up with me for so many years, and Esther Brimmer, for being.

While I am indebted to all the above in one way or another, none is responsible for the views presented in this work. That responsibility is mine alone.