

Contents

Contributors	page vii
Preface	ix
Part I Personality traits and intelligence
1 Personality and intelligence: psychometric and experimental approaches H. J. Eysenck	3
2 Intelligence, personality, and prudence Nick Haslam and Jonathan Baron	32
Part II Personality development and intelligence
3 A life-span perspective on the interface between personality and intelligence Anna G. Maciel, Jutta Heckhausen, and Paul B. Baltes	61
4 Toward an integrative model of personality and intelligence: a general framework and some preliminary steps Chi-yue Chiu, Ying-yi-Hong, and Carol S. Dweck	104
Part III Personality and the manifestations of intelligence
5 Social intelligence and personality: flexible life-task pursuit Nancy Cantor and Robert Harlow	137
6 Thinking styles: theory and assessment at the interface between intelligence and personality Robert J. Sternberg	169
7 A living systems approach to the integration of personality and intelligence Martin E. Ford	188

vi		Contents
Part IV Personality, intelligence, and culture
8	Intelligence and personality in the psychological theory of activity Sergei D. Smirnov	221
9	Cultural meaning systems, intelligence, and personality Patricia Ruzgis and Elena L. Grigorenko	248
10	Morality, authoritarianism, and personal agency in cultural contexts Elliot Turiel	271
Part V Integration
11	Some final thoughts about personality and intelligence Peter Salovey and John D. Mayer	303
	Name index	319
	Subject index	329