

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More information

Index

- age criteria for retirement, replacement by functional criteria, 24
- age dependency ratio in Germany, 214
- age discrimination by employers
 - in the Netherlands, 119
 - prohibition in the United States, 371
 - reasons for, 15–16
 - reinforcement by measures
 - compensating older workers for lost jobs, 380
- age of pension eligibility. See retirement age
- age structure
 - in agriculture, 67–8, 75
 - within industries, 69, 75–7, 80–1
- ageism in the United States, 280
- “aging” of an industry, causes of, 68–9
- Australia, labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
- Austria, ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
- bargaining between employers and unions. See trade unions
- Belgium
 - age structure of employed men
 - excluding agriculture, 75
 - industry-age mix for men in, 70
 - male employment by economic sector, 74
- blue-collar workers
 - age of entry into the pension system in Germany, 204
 - early, ordinary, and delayed retirement in Hungary, 349–50
 - mortality rates in Hungary, 340
 - participation in guaranteed-income programs in France, 163
 - participation in preretirement programs in France, 159
 - retirement age in Sweden, 301
 - unemployment of, in the Netherlands, 101
 - use of exit routes by or for, in the Netherlands, 116–17
- bridges between work and retirement. See intermediate phase between exit and retirement; pathways of exit
- Canada
 - labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
- cash support principle in Sweden, 294
- cohort analysis
 - of employment data by industry, 91
 - of labor force participation, 61–5
- companies. See firms and corporations
- contractual insurance schemes in Sweden, 294, 299–303
- corporations. See firms and corporations
- corporatist structure of the Dutch social security system, 98
- cultural meaning of retirement. See social stratification
- declining industries, 93
- deficit model of aging
 - pressure to abolish, 42
 - use by firms, 15
- deinstitutionalization of the life course, 21, 382–4
- demographic factors
 - affecting “aging” of an industry, 68
 - affecting retirement policy in the United States, 278
 - effect on cost of preretirement programs in France, 157
 - outlook for, in Germany, 214–17
 - size of individual birth cohorts, 61, 192n
- Denmark
 - age structure of employed men
 - excluding agriculture, 75
 - industry-age mix for men, 70–1
 - male employment by economic sector, 74
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
- disability pensions
 - consequences of use as a means of regulating definitive exit, 381
 - redefinition of eligibility in economic rather than medical terms, 377–9
 - special rules for older workers, 25–6

- disability pensions (cont.)
 use as a pathway of exit attempts to discourage, 26n
 in France, 143
 in Germany, 188–90, 199, 203–4, 377–8
 in Hungary, 346–9
 in the Netherlands, 26n, 101–2, 105–6, 107, 108–9, 377
 in Sweden, 294, 295–6, 311–13, 378
 in the United Kingdom, 234–5, 378
 in the United States, 266–8
- Disabled Workers Employment Act (WAGW) in the Netherlands, 116
- Disablement Insurance Act (WAO) in the Netherlands, 102
- early exit from the labor force. See also exit from the labor force consequences of, in Sweden, 317–20 effects on labor market and social policy in Germany, 205–6 effects on social stratification, 27–9 effects on stages of the life course, 21, 382–4 effects on the welfare system in France, 171–4 future prospects, 31, 384–6
 incentives for, in the United States, 254, 264–6 industry-mix hypothesis of. See industry-mix hypothesis of early exit institutional arrangements for, in France, 129–54
 institutionalization of, in the United Kingdom, 226–7 measures to restrain in the United States, 278–9 moral dimensions of, 27
 obligation in the Netherlands, 99
 pathways of. See pathways of exit redistribution of work from elderly to young by, 30 role of pull and push factors in, 9–10 social right to, in the Netherlands, 98, 99 social stratification of, in France, 158
- early retirement for those in physically demanding jobs
 in France, 139
 in Hungary, 345–6
 in the United Kingdom, 246
- economic downturns as cause of pressure to reduce work force by early exit, 68
- economic sectors
 categories of employment included in, 69, 73 differences in age of exit among, 67–8 employment share in different countries, 73–4
- education-to-work transition, 22n
- employer-pension pathway of exit in the United States, 262–4
- employment activity
 difference from labor force participation, 53–9
 rates in different countries
 France, 128–9
 Hungary, 357, 359
 United Kingdom, 227–8
 United States, 259–60
 rates of men aged 55 to 64, 56, 57
 rates of women aged 55 to 64, 58
- employment protection in Sweden, 306, 309, 310
- employment ratio
 in Hungary, 330–1
 in the Netherlands, 97
 in Sweden, 286
- exit from the labor force. See also early exit from the labor force controversy over policies in the Netherlands, 118, 119–23 distinguished from exit from work in Hungary, 324–5 distinguished from retirement, 6
 lowering the age of, in France, 129, 141–3
 by socioeconomic category in France, 160
 trends in long-term, 36–42
 over the last two decades, 42–66
- Finland, labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
- firms and corporations
 early-exit policy in the United Kingdom, 236 reasons for trying to rid themselves of older workers, 15–16
- retirement programs sponsored by
 in France, 139
 in Germany, 196
- use of social policy regulations for labor-market purposes
 in Germany, 201, 203
 in the Netherlands, 106–7
- flexible retirement
 at age 63 in Germany, 192

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More informationIndex

391

- support for, in the United Kingdom, 244–6
- FNE (Fond National pour l'Emploi), 137
- forced exit of older workers
 - in France, 163–6
 - in the Netherlands, 101–2, 106–8
 - protection from, 17–18
 - in the United Kingdom, 225–6
- France
 - actors influencing early-exit arrangements, 154–5
 - age of definitive exit, 129
 - age structure of employed men excluding agriculture, 75
 - costs of preretirement and unemployment benefits, 149–50
 - denial of retirees' right to work, 166–7
 - development of the public retirement system, 130–1
 - disability as a pathway of exit, 143
 - effects of early exit in
 - on organization of the life course, 167–9
 - on the welfare system, 171–4
 - employment activity rates, 57–8, 128–9
 - forced exit of older workers from the labor force, 135–6
 - guaranteed-income schemes for the aging unemployed, 136–41
 - industry-age mix for men in, 71
 - institutional arrangements providing for early exit, 130–54
 - labor force participation rates
 - for female birth cohorts by age, 64
 - for male birth cohorts by age, 62
 - of men by age group, 44–6, 50–2, 128
 - of men by single age years, 59, 129
 - of women by age group, 47–9, 52–4
 - male employment by economic sector, 74
 - preretirement programs, 139–40
 - prospects for early exit in the future, 174–9
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
 - rationale for reworking early-exit arrangements, 155–8
 - removal of retirement decision from older wage earners, 163–6
 - retirement age, 127, 131, 141–6
 - review of dismissals made for economic reasons, 151–2
 - right to work while receiving a pension, 131
 - shift from preretirement to unemployment pathway of exit, 149–54
 - social stratification of early exit, 158–63
 - solidarity contracts, 146–9
 - unemployability indexes by sex and age group, 142
 - Unemployment Compensation Fund (UNEDIC), 127, 128, 131, 136, 139
 - unemployment insurance as a pathway of exit, 131, 135–6
 - unemployment rate by age group, 141
 - vulnerability indexes by sex and age group, 142
 - wage/pension ratio, 131, 135, 173
 - full employment as the goal in Hungary, 327, 329
- General Disablement Act (AAW) in the Netherlands, 102
- generational contract, 30–1
 - in Germany, 207
- German unification, 213–14
- Germany
 - age structure of employed men excluding agriculture, 75
 - comparison of industry-age mix with that in the Netherlands and Sweden, 77–93
 - demographic changes, 214–17
 - disability pensions, 188–90
 - employment activity rates, 57–8
 - entry into the pension system before age 65, 183–92
 - firm pensions, 196
 - flexible retirement at age 63, 192
 - government policy on early exit, 200–1
 - industry-age mix for men, 71–2
 - labor force participation rates
 - for female birth cohorts by age, 65
 - for male birth cohorts by age, 63
 - of men by age group, 44–6, 50–2
 - of men by single age years, 60
 - phases of exit process as reflected in, 196–7
 - of women by age group, 47–9, 52–4
 - labor market, influence of firms on, 201
 - life course and retirement, 204–5
 - male employment by economic sector, 74
 - old-age dependency ratios, 214–17
 - partial pension system, 217–18
 - pension reform of 1992, 218–19
 - phases of early exit, 196–7
 - Preretirement Act, 194, 203
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
 - retirement age of blue- and white-collar workers, 204

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More information

392

Index

- Germany (cont.)
 sick pay, 199
 social policy of the firm, 201
 unemployment of the elderly, 192–4, 195 work-time reduction, 208–9, 211
 government influence on private-sector retirement policy in the United States, 255 participation in the debate over early exit in France, 154–8 policies supporting the work principle in Sweden, 284 policies to contain the costs of retirement in France, 176–9 policies toward retirement age in the United Kingdom, 246–9 policy on early exit in Germany, 200–1
 Government Unemployment Benefit Act (RWW) in the Netherlands, 103
 gray economy. See informal economy
 GRD (garantie de ressources démissions), 137
 Great Britain. See United Kingdom
 Grey Panthers, 202n
 GRL (garantie de ressources licenciement), 136 guaranteed-income schemes for the aging unemployed in France, 135–41 health pathway of exit. See disability pensions, use as a pathway of exit
 Hungary
 definition of terms, 324n development and extension of the informal (second) economy, 332–8 disability pathway of early exit, 346–9 early exit from the formal labor force but not from work, 324–5 early exit trends, 356–60
 early retirement for those in extra-hard jobs, 345–6
 employment activity rates, 357, 359
 forced employment, 329–30
 full employment as the goal of a socialist economy, 327, 329 health care system, 338–9
 health consequences of second-economy participation, 337 level of pensions, 326
 mortality rates, 338–41
 part-time work, 325
 participation of pensioners in second-economy activities, 336–7 pension system, 342–5
 postwar commitment to heavy industry, 328–9 prewar social structure, 327–8 reasons for early exit, 326 retirees' way of life, 349–56
 retirement age limits, 360–1 retirement in the context of a former peasant society, 326 second-economy participation in agricultural production and construction, 334 working conditions, 333
 income replacement principle in Sweden, 294
 Individual Retirement Accounts in the United States, 260 industrial structure, 67
 industry-mix hypothesis of early exit age structure of employed men in six European Community countries, 75–6 age structure within industries in Germany, the Netherlands, and Sweden, 80–1 assumptions of, 67–8
 changes that contribute to trend toward early exit, 68 changes that explain the difference in age of exit between countries, 68 employment changes by age in Germany, the Netherlands, and Sweden, 84–6 employment share of economic sectors in different countries, 73–4
 future prospects, 95
 industry-age mix for men in six European Community countries, 70–3 male employment by economic sector in six European Community countries, 74 shift-share analysis, 82–3 informal economy
 development and extension in Hungary, 332–8 participation of retirees in, 23, 366 institutionalization of the life course, 20, 37 integration of older workers
 in the Netherlands, 115–16, 371
 in Sweden, 371
 intergenerational conflict caused by early exit, 29–31
 in the United States, 280
 intergenerational redistribution, 29–31
 intermediate phase between exit and retirement. See also pathways of exit

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More information

Index

393

- emergence of, 6
- employers' role in drawing up programs
 - for use during, 366–7
- summary of pathways used during, 364–6
- types and uses of programs for, 25
- International Labor Organization, 28n
- Ireland, labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
- Italy, ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
- Japan
 - labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
 - reemployment practices, 22n
- job loss as a cause of early exit in the United States, 268–70
- Job Release Scheme (JRS) in the United Kingdom, 225, 228–31
- Keogh plans in the United States, 260
- labor force participation
 - data available on, 36–7
 - developments in the last two decades, 42–66
 - long-term development of, 37–42
 - OECD definition of, 6n
 - rates of
 - by birth cohorts, 61–5
 - comparison with employment activity rates, 56
 - differences for women and men, 52–3
 - in France, 128–9
 - in Germany, 196–7
 - links to economic development, 52
 - for men, 37–41, 44–6, 49–51
 - in the Netherlands, 97–8
 - by single age years, 59–61
 - in Sweden, 285–92
 - in the United States, 256–8, 268
 - for women, 38–42, 53, 54
 - relation to unemployment in the United States, 258–9
- labor shortage, potential for, as a result of population aging, 31
- labor unions. See also trade unions
 - demand for work-time reduction in Germany, 208–9
 - participation in the debate over early exit in France, 154–6
 - protection of older workers from dismissal in Germany, 202
- labor market
 - effects of early exit on, in Germany, 205–6
 - social policy and, 7–12
- labor-market programs in Sweden, 284, 294, 304–6
- labor-market rehabilitation in Sweden, 305
- life course
 - attitudes toward retirement in Germany, 204–5
 - changing patterns of, 1, 18–27
 - de-institutionalization of, 22, 382–4
 - effect of early exit on organization of, in France, 167–9
 - effect of early-exit policies on, 373–5
 - institutionalization of, 20, 37, 377
 - linking of stages to chronological age, 20
 - tripartition of, 21, 22, 37, 374, 383–4
- mandatory retirement
 - age of, in Sweden, 294
 - legislation against, in the United States, 43
- marital status
 - need for consideration in retirement policy research, 275–7
 - of retirees exiting early in the United States, 262–3
- NACE (Nomenclature générale des activités économiques dans la communauté européenne), 69
- Netherlands
 - age ceiling for personnel recruitment, 119
 - age structure of employed men excluding agriculture, 75
 - changes in social policy caused by increased unemployment, 108–9
 - comparison of industry-age mix with that in Germany and Sweden, 77–93
 - comparison of labor force participation with that of Sweden, 12
 - controversy over exit policies, 118, 119–23
 - development of the arbeidsbestel, 100
 - employment activity rates, 57–8
 - firms', use of social policy regulations for labor-market purposes, 106–7
 - forced exit of older workers, 101–2, 106–8
 - industry-age mix for men in, 72
 - integration and reintegration of older workers, 115–16

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More information

394

*Index*Netherlands (cont.)

- labor force participation rates
 - of men by age group, 44–6, 50–2
 - reasons for low level of, 97
 - of women by age group, 47–9, 52–4
 - male employment by economic sector, 74
 - organizations of the elderly, 122–3
 - preretirement schemes, 98, 109–14
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
 - redefinition of “old age,” 119
 - sickness and disability pathway of exit, 101–2, 105–6, 108–9
 - social security system, 100–1, 104, 108
 - socioeconomic stratification resulting from exit from the labor force, 116–18
 - unemployment pathway of exit, 102–4, 106
 - working versus nonworking population, 97
- occupational injury insurance in Sweden, 298–9
 - occupational injury pathway of early exit in Sweden, 313–15
 - occupational pensions in the United Kingdom, 235–8
 - OECD Labour Force Statistics, 49n
 - “old age,” redefinition in the Netherlands, 119
 - old-age dependency ratios in Germany, 214–17
 - old-age insurance, controversy over, 2
 - old-age pensions. See public pensions
 - older workers
 - compensation versus integration as policies for dealing with, 369–71
 - debate on position in the United Kingdom, 223–4
 - forced exit from the labor force
 - in France, 135–6, 163–6
 - in the Netherlands, 101–2, 106–8
 - protection from, 17–18
 - in the United Kingdom, 225–6
 - labor force participation and unemployment in Sweden, 289–92
 - obligation to exit early in the Netherlands, 99
 - reasons firms try to rid themselves of, 15–16
 - reintegration in the Netherlands, 115–16
 - stimulation of exit by existence of exit opportunities in the Netherlands, 98, 106
 - unemployment among
 - effect on labor force participation rates, 55
 - responses of different countries to, 369–73
 - work performance and earnings of, 16
 - organizations of the elderly
 - in Germany, 202
 - in the Netherlands, 119, 122–3
 - part-time pathway of early exit in Sweden, 315–16
 - part-time work
 - in Hungary, 325
 - in Sweden, 284, 293, 319–20
 - partial pensions
 - in Germany, 217–18
 - in Sweden, 297
 - pathways of exit. See also intermediate phase between exit and retirement
 - costs of, 368
 - cumulation of, 369
 - definition of, 6–7
 - development from institutional arrangements constructed for other purposes, 13, 363–4
 - disability pathway
 - in France, 143
 - in Hungary, 346–9
 - in the Netherlands, 101–2, 105–6, 108–9
 - in the United States, 266–8
 - employer pensions in the United States, 262–4
 - as “exit opportunities” for older workers in the Netherlands, 98
 - health pathway
 - in Germany, 199
 - in Sweden, 311–13
 - in the United Kingdom, 234–5
 - institutions and actors in, 12–18
 - Job Release Scheme in the United Kingdom, 228–31
 - occupational injury pathway in Sweden, 313–15
 - part-time pathway in Sweden, 315
 - preretirement programs
 - in Germany, 198
 - in the Netherlands, 98, 109–14
 - private versus public, 371–3
 - sickness pathway in the Netherlands, 101–2, 105–6, 108–9
 - summary of pathways in seven countries, 365–6
 - unemployment pathway
 - in France, 149–54
 - in Germany, 198

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More informationIndex

395

- in the Netherlands, 102–4, 106
 - in Sweden, 310–11
 - in the United Kingdom, 232–4
 - variety of, in France, 132–4, 140
- pensions. See private pensions; public pensions
- physical strain on workers
 - as cause of early exit, 68
 - retirement programs related to
 - in France, 139
 - in Hungary, 345–6
- political discourse on retirement policy
 - in Germany, 208
 - in Sweden, 320–2
 - in the United Kingdom, 244
 - in the United States, 277–82
- Portugal, labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
- poverty among the elderly in the United Kingdom, 239–41
- preretirement
 - abandonment as a pathway of early exit, 381–2
 - acceptance by workers in Germany, 209
 - in France, 139–40
 - in Germany, 194, 198, 203, 209–10
 - impact on unemployment among youth
 - in France, 169–71
 - imposition on older wage earners in France, 163–6
 - Job Release Scheme in the United Kingdom, 228–31
 - VUT in the Netherlands, 98, 109–14
- private pathways of exit from the labor force in the Netherlands, 98
- private pensions. See also public pensions
 - employer pensions in the United States, 260, 262–4, 272–5
 - firm pensions in Germany, 196
 - individual pension accounts in the United States, 260
 - occupational pensions in the United Kingdom, 235–8
- public pensions. See also private pensions
 - age of eligibility for. See retirement age
 - changes in the system that ease withdrawal from work, 24–5
 - disability pensions. See disability pensions
 - levels of
 - in France, 131
 - in Hungary, 326, 343–4
 - international comparison of, 135
 - partial pensions
 - in Germany, 217–18
 - in Sweden, 297
 - receipt as defining beginning of retirement, 5
 - reform of 1992 in Germany, 218–19
 - right to work while receiving
 - in France, 24n, 131, 166–7
 - in Germany, 24n
 - in Hungary, 350–4
 - in the Netherlands, 24n
 - in Sweden, 315
 - in the United Kingdom, 24n
 - in the United States, 24n
 - split pension-age regimes, 28–9
- public sector
 - changed age structure in Germany, the Netherlands, and Sweden, 88
 - role in slowing the exit of older workers, 94
- pull and push factors, role in early exit, 9–10
- Redundancy Payments Act in the United Kingdom, 225
- reentry into the work force, 22
- reintegration of older workers in the Netherlands, 115–16
- retirement
 - as a new period of life, 23
 - benefits during. See public pensions, levels of
 - changes resulting from lengthening of, 23
 - combination with work
 - in France, 24n, 131, 166–7
 - in Germany, 24n
 - in Hungary, 350–4
 - in the Netherlands, 24n
 - in Sweden, 315
 - in the United Kingdom, 24n
 - in the United States, 24n
 - definition of, 5
 - distinguished from exit from the labor force, 6
 - evolution as a stage of life, 19
 - regarded as a right, 21n
 - replacement of age criteria by functional criteria, 24
- retirement age
 - decline in, 50
 - effect on relationship of workers and employers, 18
 - in France, 127, 131, 141–6
 - in Germany, 183, 218
 - in Hungary, 360–1
 - raising in response to intergenerational conflict, 2, 218
 - in Sweden, 294
 - in the United States, 254–5, 278–9

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More information

396

Index

- retirement decade, proposal for, in the United Kingdom, 248
- seniority of retiring and unemployed workers in France, 159, 161
- service sector, changed age structure in Germany and the Netherlands, 83
- severance pay in Sweden, 300
- shadow economy. See informal economy
- sheltered workshops in Sweden, 304–5
- sickness, use as pathway of exit. See disability, use as a pathway of exit
- Sickness Benefits Act (ZW) in the Netherlands, 102
- sickness benefits in Sweden, 291, 298
- social policy
 - changes caused by increased unemployment in the Netherlands, 108–9
 - of the firm in Germany, 201
 - and the labor market, 7–12
 - use by firms for labor-market purposes, 106–7
- Social Security Act
 - in Hungary, 343
 - in the United States, 253
- social security system. See also welfare system
 - in the Netherlands, 100–1, 104–6, 108
 - in the United States, reform of, 280–1
- social stratification
 - of early exit in France, 158–63
 - effect of early exit on, 27–9
 - effect of retirement on, in Germany, 204–5
 - resulting from exit from the labor force in the Netherlands, 116–18
- solidarity contracts in France, 146–9
- Spain, labor force participation of men aged 55 to 64, 4n
- state. See government
- stratification. See social stratification
- Sweden
 - cash support principle, 294
 - comparison of industry-age mix with that in Germany and the Netherlands, 77–93
 - comparison of labor force participation with the Netherlands, 12
 - consequences of early exit, 317–20
 - contractual insurance schemes, 294, 299–303
 - difference from other countries in response to older workers, 370–1
 - disability pensions, 294, 295–6, 311–13
 - employment activity rates, 57–8
 - employment protection, 306, 309, 310
 - employment ratio, 286
 - health pathway of early exit, 311–13
 - income replacement principle, 294
 - labor force participation rates
 - development of, 285–92
 - of men by age group, 44–6, 50–2
 - of men by single age years, 60
 - of older workers, 289–90
 - of women by age group, 47–9, 52–4
 - labor-market programs, 284, 294, 304–6
 - labor-market rehabilitation, 305
 - mandatory retirement age, 294
 - National Social Insurance Act, 294–5
 - occupational injury insurance, 298–9
 - occupational injury pathway of early exit, 313–15
 - old-age pensions, 295
 - part-time pathway of early exit, 315–16
 - part-time work, 284, 293, 319–20
 - partial pensions, 297
 - political discourse on retirement policy, 320–2
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
 - retirement age, 321
 - severance pay, 300
 - sheltered workshops, 304–5
 - sickness benefits, 291, 298
 - unemployment insurance, 294, 303–4
 - unemployment pathway of early exit, 310–11
 - unemployment rates, 287–8, 291–2
 - wage subsidy, 305
 - work principle, 284
 - work time, 293
- Switzerland, ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
- technological change as cause of early exit, 68
- trade unions. See also labor unions
 - in the Netherlands
 - acceptance of preretirement schemes in place of wage increases, 99
 - bargaining with employers, 121–2
 - influence on economic and social policy, 99
 - involvement in implementing social security regulations, 101
 - reasons for accepting forced exit of older workers, 107–8
 - in the United Kingdom, demands of, 245

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More informationIndex

397

- transition from work to retirement. See intermediate phase between exit and retirement
- tripartition of the life course, 21, 22, 37, 374, 383–4
- UNEDIC (Unemployment Compensation Fund) in France, 127, 128, 131, 136, 139, 172
- unemployment
- consequences of use as a means of regulating definitive exit, 381
 - early exit as a way of coping with, 11–12
 - impact of French preretirement programs on, 169–71
 - link to early exit
 - in the United Kingdom, 226–7
 - in the United States, 258–9
 - among older workers
 - effect on labor force participation rates, 55
 - in Germany, 192–4, 195
 - responses of different countries to, 369–73
 - in Sweden, 291–2
 - as a pathway of exit
 - in France, 149–54
 - in Germany, 198, 202–3
 - in the Netherlands, 102–4, 106
 - in Sweden, 310–11
 - in the United Kingdom, 232–4
 - programs tying benefits to age, 25
 - rate of
 - in France, 141
 - in Sweden, 287–8, 291–2
- Unemployment Benefit Act (RWW) in the Netherlands, 103
- Unemployment Compensation Fund (UNEDIC) in France, 127, 128, 131, 136, 139, 172
- unemployment insurance
- in France, 131, 135–6
 - in Sweden, 294, 303–4
- Unemployment Insurance Act (WW) in the Netherlands, 102
- Unemployment Provisions Act (WWV) in the Netherlands, 102
- United Kingdom
- age structure of employed men excluding agriculture, 75
 - debate on position of older workers, 223–4
 - employment activity rates, 57–8, 227–8
 - growth of early exit, 224–6
 - health pathway to early exit, 234–5
 - how those who leave employment early define their status, 241–3
 - industry-age mix for men in, 73
 - institutionalization of early exit, 226–7
 - Job Release Scheme (JRS), 225, 228–31
 - labor force participation rates
 - of men by age group, 44–6, 50–2
 - of women by age group, 47–9, 52–4
 - link between unemployment and early exit, 226–7
 - male employment by economic sector, 74
 - poverty among the elderly, 239–41
 - ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
 - reasons given by workers for early exit, 238–9
 - Redundancy Payments Act, 225
 - state policies toward retirement age, 246–9
 - support for a flexible retirement system, 244–6
 - unemployment as a pathway to early exit, 232–4
- United States
- Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 278
 - age of exit, 262
 - age of pension eligibility, 254–5
 - ageism, 280
 - demographic forces affecting retirement policy, 278
 - disability pathway of early exit, 266–8
 - employer-pension pathway of exit, 262–4
 - employment activity rates, 57–8, 259–60
 - findings of the New Beneficiary Survey, 270–2
 - government influence on private-sector retirement policy, 255
 - historical background of retirement programs, 252–4
 - incentives for early exit, 254, 264–6
 - job loss as a cause of early exit, 268–70
 - labor force participation rates
 - for female birth cohorts by age, 65
 - for male birth cohorts by age, 64
 - of men by age group, 44–6, 50–2
 - of men by single age years, 61
 - trends in, 256–8, 268
 - of women by age group, 47–9, 52–4
 - marital status of retirees exiting early, 262–3
 - measures to restrain early exit, 278–9

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-42364-9 - Time for Retirement: Comparative Studies of Early Exit from the Labor Force

Edited by Martin Kohli, Martin Rein, Anne-Marie Guillemard and Herman van Gunsteren

Index

More information

398

Index

- myopia in retirement policy research, 275–7
- policy toward older workers, 371–2
- politics of early exit, 277–82
- ratio of old-age pensions to average wages, 135
- reasons for exit given by early exiters, 271–2
- reform of the Social Security system, 280–1
- Social Security Act, 253
- unemployment and labor force participation, 258–9
- unemployment benefits, duration of, 14
- volunteer work, 24, 169
- wage subsidy in Sweden, 305
- wage/pension ratios
 - in France, 131
 - international comparison of, 135
- wages and salaries as a percent of GNP, 329n
- Welfare Exit and Entry Project (WEEP), 3n
- welfare system. See also social security system
 - effects of early exit on, in France, 171–4
 - strain caused by population aging, 2
- white-collar workers
 - age of entry into the pension system in Germany, 204
 - coverage by resignation schemes in France, 159
 - early, ordinary, and delayed retirement in Hungary, 349–50
 - mortality rates in Hungary, 340
 - retirement age in Sweden, 301
 - use of exit routes by or for, in the Netherlands, 116–17
- work societies, 19
- work time
 - changes in Sweden, 293
 - demands of German labor unions for reduction of, 208–9, 211
 - reduction in response to labor-market pressures, 43