

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

VISIONS OF THE PEOPLE

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

VISIONS OF THE PEOPLE

Industrial England and the question of class 1848–1914

PATRICK JOYCE

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

Published by the Press Syndicate of the University of Cambridge
The Pitt Building, Trumpington Street, Cambridge CB2 1RP
40 West 20th Street, New York, NY 10011-4211, USA
10 Stamford Road, Oakleigh, Melbourne 3166, Australia

© Patrick Joyce 1991

First published 1991

First paperback edition 1994

British Library cataloguing in publication data

Joyce, Patrick 1946-

Visions of the people: industrial England and the question of class, 1848-1914.

1. England. Social conditions, 1837-

I. Title

942.081

Library of Congress cataloguing in publication data

Joyce, Patrick

Visions of the people: industrial England and the question of class, 1848-1914 / Patrick Joyce.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references.

ISBN 0 521 37152 X

1. Social classes - England - History - 19th century. I. Title.

HN388.E53J69 1990

305.5'0942'09034-dc20 89-77387 CIP

ISBN 0 521 37152 X hardback

ISBN 0 521 44797 6 paperback

Transferred to digital printing 1999

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

This book is dedicated to the memory of
Catherine Joyce (1910–1982),
John Joyce (1907–1962),
Hugh Malone (1920–1988),
and to Elizabeth Malone,
my parents and my wife's parents

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

Contents

List of plates	ix
Acknowledgements	x
1 Introduction: beyond class?	1
PART I POWER AND THE PEOPLE: POLITICS AND THE SOCIAL ORDER
2 The languages of popular politics: from radicalism to Liberalism	27
3 Class, populism and socialism: Liberalism and after	56
PART II MORALISING THE MARKET: WORK AND THE SOCIAL ORDER
4 Civilising capital: class and the moral discourses of labour	87
5 Building the union: ‘the gospel of absolute and perfect organisation’	114
PART III CUSTOM, HISTORY, LANGUAGE: POPULAR CULTURE AND THE SOCIAL ORDER
6 Custom and the symbolic structure of the social order	145
7 The sense of the past	172
8 The people’s English	193
PART IV KINGDOMS OF THE MIND: THE IMAGINARY CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIAL ORDER
9 Investigating popular art	215
10 The broadside ballad	230
11 The voice of the people? The character and development of dialect literature	256
12 Dialect and the making of social identity	279
13 Stages of class: popular theatre and the geography of belonging	305
14 Summary and conclusion: the making of the English working class before 1914?	329

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

Appendices

1 J. R. Stephens, The Political Pulpit. A Sermon , 1839, (Extract)	345
2 From B. Grime, Memory Sketches (Oldham, 1887)	348
3 Ernest Jones, Speech on Blackstone Edge , 1846 (Extract)	354
4 John Bright, Speech at Manchester , 1866 (Extract)	355
5 W. E. Gladstone, Speech at the Public Hall, Warrington , 1868 (Extract)	357
6 McDouall's Chartist and Republican Journal , 1841 (Extract)	360
7 Short Time Committee Placards	362
8 'Our Merry Town', Pearson Collection	366
9 'Rich and Poor', Pearson Collection	368
10 Extract from the preface of the Weyver's Awn Comic Olmenack , 1881	370
11 Extract from the 1885 Weyver's Awn	372
12 Extract from Bob Stubbs' Yorksher Awmynack , preface and entry for March 1910	376
13 Cover and extract from Tommy Toddles' Comic Almenac , 1875	380
14 An example of Sussex dialect literature	384
15 Samuel Laycock, Welcome, bonny brid	386
16 B. Brierley, A Royal Visit , 1896	388
17 Edwin Waugh, Eawr Folk	393
18 Samuel Laycock, Bowton's Yard	395
19 Sam Fitton, Cotton Fowd	397
20 Allen Clarke, Title page and opening of a 'Tum Fowt' sketch	400
Bibliographical note	404
Notes	406
Index	445

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

Plates

1 Mirth in the mill: a homegrown postcard of the sort popular in Lancashire c. 1900	134
2 Mirth outside the mill: holiday postcard sent from a mother in Bolton to her daughter in Morecombe, c. 1920	136
3 Faces of poverty: woman and child, Crumpsall Workhouse Infirmary, Manchester, 1897	152
4 Faces of respectability: studio portrait of young Salford men in their best suits, c. 1905	153
5 Between respectability and roughness: man at ease outside Sale pub, c. 1905	154
6–8 Lancashire holiday postcards of the Edwardian period	168–9
9 Strategies of speaking: two women talking, Salford, c. 1900	197
10 Some uses of literacy: wares of a Salford newsagent, c. 1920	204
11 Elegy on the death of Sir Francis Crossley	253
12 Cover of a Yorkshire dialect almanac	261
13–14 Self-images of an unregenerate working class: holiday portraits taken in Blackpool, c. 1920	319, 321
15 Populism at play	322

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

Acknowledgements

A number of people read and commented upon drafts of parts of this book and I should like to take this opportunity of thanking them warmly. Among my own and colleagues' postgraduate research students at Manchester University, Tony Taylor and James Vernon gave me the benefit of their knowledge of popular politics. From Simon Gunn I learned much about class and the middle classes, and benefited from his friendship in perhaps more ways than he imagines. Of my Manchester colleagues, Iorwerth Prothero and John Breuilly have contributed much to this book over the years. Others who commented upon earlier versions of particular chapters were Peter Bailey, David Mayer, Dorothy Thompson, Rohan McWilliam, Dick Leith, Tom Paulin, John Belchem, Lesley and James Milroy, and Peter Burke. Edward Thompson did the same, and gave generously of his time during his 1988–89 tenure of a Simon Fellowship at Manchester. What value this book has owes much to the comment of those named. Its shortcomings are due solely to my own persistence in error.

I owe a special debt to Keith McClelland and David Vincent, who gave generously of their time and support at critical times. I also owe much to Robert Gray. My biggest debt is to my friend John Seed, whose critical intelligence, and enthusiasm for a serious and creative social history, have meant much to me. Others I should like to thank are David Harker, Paul Salvesen, Louis James, K. C. Phillips and Douglas Reid. Parts of this book were presented as research papers at seminars at All Souls College, Oxford; the Institute of Historical Research, University of London; Manchester University and the Max-Planck-Institut für Geschichte, Göttingen, which I visited in 1988. To all who listened and spoke at these meetings, my thanks. I owe special thanks to Alf Lüdtkke, not least for his Göttingen hospitality; from his colleagues Hans Medick and Jürgen Schlumbohm I learned about the sense of the past and about the history of language.

John Coles of the Local Studies Library, Rochdale; Joe Gingham, Museums Officer of Tyne and Wear County Council; and above all Alice Lock of Tameside Local Studies Library, Stalybridge, were more than generous with their time and expertise. I should like to thank the staff of the British Library and of the many north of

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-44797-3 - Visions of the People: Industrial England and the Question of Class
1848-1914

Patrick Joyce

Frontmatter

More information

England libraries I visited, especially the Manchester Central Reference Library, Newcastle-upon-Tyne Central Library, and the central libraries of Leeds, Bradford, Bolton and Oldham. The helpfulness and efficiency of the staff of the John Rylands University Library of Manchester at all times smoothed the way. Tina Reid and Liz Dyckhoff of the Manchester History Department Office and Margaret Riley of Broadbottom word-processed my laborious hand with remarkable speed, accuracy and good humour. My warmest gratitude is due to them. It is due to others not mentioned here. All academic labour is unoriginal, the product of a thousand borrowings. Authors are often the least well placed to know what has mattered in the gestation of their work. In the nature of things much of what really mattered is lost. To all those not mentioned here who contributed to this book I extend my thanks and apologies.

This book is based on research funded by the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) reference number GOO 23 21643, and by the award of a Nuffield Foundation Social Science Research Fellowship. Research was also facilitated by the award of study leave by Manchester University.

Acknowledgements and thanks for the photographs are due to the following: Chris E. Makepeace, Edith Olive, Manchester and Leeds Central Libraries, Tameside Local Studies Library, Audrey Linkman and the Documentary Photography Archive, Manchester. Cover photography kindly supplied by Chris E. Makepeace of Disley, Cheshire. Thanks also to Trudi Tate of Cambridge University Press.

My undying thanks to Rosaleen, who kept the pot boiling.

Patrick Joyce
Department of History
University of Manchester