

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

Index

---

- adjutants, 63–4
- adversarial politics, 305, 329, 337
effect on Prussian decision-making, 314
- Alexander I, Emperor of Russia (1770–1825), 104, 212, 254, 261
meeting with Frederick William, 198
- Allgemeines Landrecht*, 306
as Ersatzverfassung, 60–2
- Alopeus, Count Magnus von, Russian ambassador to Berlin (1770–1840), 183, 257
and Rumbold affair, 160
dispute with Haugwitz, 265
- Altenstein, Karl von, Prussian bureaucrat (1770–1840), 65, 147, 325
on primacy of foreign policy and domestic reform, 316
memorandum of 1805, 274
- Alvensleben, Philip Karl von, Prussian foreign minister (1745–1802), 55, 146
biographical details, 49
'northerner' in annexation debate, 78, 80 opposition to war of intervention against France, 92
opposition to Second Coalition, 96
supports French alliance, 98, 151
fears geopolitical exposure of Prussia, 104
and peasant unrest, 119
opposition to reform, 126
on the organisation of the executive, 132
sidelined by Haugwitz, 133, 138–40
death, 133
on importance of foreign policy, 137
- Amiens, treaty of (1802), 70
- Ansbach-Bayreuth, 71, 278, 282
French invasion of, 191,
antechamber of power, 16–18, 46–55,
136, 137, 305, 323, 345, 330, 338,
340
- Armed Neutrality (1800–1), 64, 69, 76, 83–4, 103–4, 110
- Austerlitz, battle of (1805), 191, 222, 224–5
effect on Prussian high politics, 285–6
- Austria, 67–9, 72, 78–9, 91, 96, 98–9, 204, 212, 214–15, 217, 228, 230
- Austro-Prussian dualism, 105–8
Prussian fears of separate peace, 211
- Basle, Treaty of (1795), 67–8
- Bavaria, 113, 277
and collapse of Prussian power, 187
- Beyme, Karl Friedrich, Prussian cabinet
councillor (1765–1838), 18, 21, 51, 144, 219
biographical details, 48,
on need for reform, 122
opposes abolition of military exemptions
for middle class, 125
on the organisation of the executive, 132–3
on French offer of Hanover, 178–9
and French infringements at Ansbach-Bayreuth, 196
and treaty of Paris, 233
on geopolitical exposure of Prussia, 234
on closure of the ports, 249
sidelined by secret policy, 256
resigned to Napoleonic dominance, 273–4
on reform of the executive, 322–3
- Britain, 83–5, 88, 230–1, 284, 294, 328
and Prussia, 208–11, 225–9
commercial tensions with, 108–11
trade with, 125
attempts to exploit Rumbold affair, 163, 166
attempts to force Prussia into alliance, 170–6
and subsidy negotiations with Prussia, 197

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

384 Index

- Britain (cont.)
 and Prussia during the Hanoverian Crisis (1806), 230–40, 245–54
 policy of forcing Prussia, 278
 Prussian suspicion of, 279–80
 attempted Prussian rapprochement with, 300–2 war with Britain prompts reform of Prussian executive, 318–19
- Brockhausen, Carl Christian von, Prussian envoy to Saxony (1766–1829), 87, 100
 regrets Hardenberg resignation, 242
 fear of Napoleonic universal monarchy, 272
- Brunswick, Karl Wilhelm Ferdinand, Duke of, Prussian Field Marshal (1765–1806), 67, 79, 194, 217, 225
 biographical details, 50
 on geopolitical exposure of Prussia, 72
 fear of Russian power, 102
 on link between external threat and internal structure, 126–7 response to French infringements at Ansbach-Bayreuth, 192
 on Schönbrunn, 215
 mission to Russia (1806), 233, 255
 and secret policy, 256–7
- bureaucracy, 56–66, 305–12, 336
 ‘dictatorship of the bureaucracy’, 56
 political weakness of, 269
 as a ‘surrogate bourgeoisie’, 309
- Campoformio, Treaty of (1797), 68
- Castlereagh, Robert Stewart Viscount, British statesman (1769–1822), 29, 227
- Clausewitz, Carl von, Prussian general (1770–1831)
 on Generaldirektorium, 45
 on dangers of reform, 127
 on organisation of the executive, 317
- Cowling, Maurice, 13–14, 17, 18
 court
 negligible role of, 52–3
- Czartoryski, Count Adam Jerzy (1770–1861), 19, 104, 208
 on secret policy with Prussia, 263
 and Moráplan against Prussia, 271–2
- Duroc, Giraud Christophe Michel, French Grand Marshal (1772–1813), 187, 192 mission to Hanover (1803), 85
 and French alliance overtures, 181
- Emden, 71, 81
- Enghien, Duc de, 155
 kidnapped and murdered, 70, 75 estates, 329
 exclusion from foreign policy, 64
 political weakness of, 270
 Stein on limited political role of, 319
- Evergetenbund*, middle-class conspirators in Prussia, 119
- Finckenstein, Karl Wilhelm Count von, Prussian statesman (1714–1800), 55
 sources on, 29
 biographical details, 49
 death, 133
 political timidity of, 149
- France, 67–80, 78, 81–3, 67, 135, 210–11, 213, 230, 283
 French threat, 89–101, 304
 French threat as opportunity as well as a danger, 98, 341 alliance overtures to Prussia, 176–82
 Prussian fear of, 234–5
 Prussian attempt to disengage from territorial contact with, 282
- Frankfurt, 75
- Frankfurt Union, 113
- Frederick II, 38–43, 71, 75, 101, 118, 130, 339
 suspicion of Britain, 110
 on Machiavelli, 338
- Frederick William I, King of Prussia (1688–1740), 44
 and Kabinett, 40
- Frederick William II, King of Prussia (1744–97), 43, 67–8, 76, 129, 137, 142, 149
- Frederick William III, King of Prussia (1770–1840), 18–19, 23, 28, 30, 43, 45, 59–60, 68, 71, 74, 85, 88–9, 103, 137, 147, 150, 152, 174, 189, 199, 210, 212, 218, 228, 232–33, 235, 240, 297–8, 300, 302–3
 and Kabinett, 40
 and antechamber of power, 46–55
 character, 54
 ‘passivism’ of, 81, 100
 and occupation of Hanover (1803), 86
 and moral objections to territorial exchanges, 85, 87
 and organisation of the executive, 130
 opposes reform of the executive, 134–5
 and Rumbold affair, 160, 163
 and French infringements at Ansbach-Bayreuth, 191–3, 196

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

Index

385

- meeting with Alexander, 198–9
 on French offer of Hanover, 179–80
 on Treaty of Paris, 233
 on geopolitical importance of Hanover, 236
 and secret policy, 256–65, 289–90
 opts for Russia, 262
 resigned to Napoleonic dominance, 273–4
 and maintenance of neutrality policy, 275
 opposes French alliance, 283
 fear of abandonment by Russia, 279
 attachment to Ansbach-Bayreuth, 282, 284
 and Napoleon, 291
 effect of character on Prussian decision-making, 314 resists reform of executive, 316 placed at centre of executive reform plans, 323, 324, 327 rejects war party demands, 324, 332–3 wary of intrigues, 330–1
 suppresses criticism, 342
 character, 342–3
- Geheimer Rat*, 35
Generaladjutantur, 47
 Generaldirektorium, 36, 39, 45, 47, 58–9
 and Kabinett, 44
 Marxists and alleged noble dominance of, 57
 Hardenberg demands abolition of, 326
 Gentz, Friedrich, Prussian writer and polemicist (1764–1832), 30, 55, 100 positive attitude to Britain, 109
 on the primacy of foreign policy, 128
 on the organisation of the executive, 128–9
 and ‘war party’, 287
 geopolitics, 17–18, 27, 71–81, 99, 194, 167, 171, 173, 201, 205, 226–8, 234, 238, 261, 273–5, 278, 294, 296, 300, 338–9, 340
 in general, 9–12
 geopolitical position of Prussia transformed by French occupation of Hanover, 86, 92 dangers of determinism, 114
 undermines neutrality policy, 277
 geopolitical aspects of annexation debate on Hanover, 280–4 effect on reform of executive, 305
 Kant on possible geopolitical justifications for monarchy, 315–16
- George III, king of England and Elector of Hanover (1738–1820), 82, 215, 234, 298
 dual role of, 82
 re planned Prussian annexation of Hanover, 202–5 Gneisenau, August Neithardt von, Prussian officer (1760–1831), 110
 and ‘war party’, 287–8
 Goltz, Friedrich August Ferdinand von der, Prussian diplomat (1759–1834), 104, 238, 259, 263
 and secret policy, 256
 Great Elector, of Brandenburg, 35, 51, 64, 73
 Grenville, William Wyndham Lord, British statesman (1759–1834), 29
 and attempted British-Prussian rapprochement, 302 Gustavus IV, King of Sweden (1778–1837), 88, 171
 during Hanoverian Crisis, 259–60
- Halberstadt conference (1805), 181–2
 Halle, rioting in (1805), 270–1
 Hanover, electorate of, 69–70, 100, 167, 169, 183, 186–7, 189, 230, 239, 277, 295, 302 acquisition by exchange, 79 ‘neuralgic spot’, 81–9
 demilitarisation of, 82
 first occupation of (1801), 83
 Prussian withdrawal from (1801), 85
 French occupation of (1803), 85, 141
 Prussian plan for acquisition through exchange, 87
 French offer of, 177–81
 occupation recommended, 192–3
 and Treaty of Potsdam (1805), 201–6 Prussian occupation of (1805), 209
 and Schönbrunn debate, 213–17
 and Treaty of Paris (1806), 232–7
 and secret policy, 258, 260–1
 annexation debate, 280–5
 rumoured return of to George III, 298
 as an obstacle to Anglo-Prussian rapprochement, 302 Hanoverian crisis (1806), 230–65
 high politics of, 240–5
 Hardenberg, Karl August von, Prussian statesman (1750–1820), 18–19, 28, 59, 105, 150, 173, 336–7
Denkwürdigkeiten (memoirs), 30–1
 biographical details, 49
 diary 31

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

386 Index

- Hardenberg, Karl August von (cont.) memoirs, 26
 on geopolitical situation of Prussia, 72
 'southerner' in annexation debate, 77, 80, 81
 hatred of Austria, 106
 dismisses Reich, 112
 on the organisation of the executive, 131–2
 clashes with Lombard, 134, 144–5
 professes friendship for Haugwitz, 136 on the importance of foreign policy, 137
 early career, 142
 relationship with Haugwitz, 143–4, 198
 suppression of nobles in Franconia, 146–7 on importance of access to king, 149 champions neutrality policy, 154–5
 and Rumbold affair, 160–2
 enlists Russian support against Haugwitz, 199–200
 on Schönbrunn debate, 213–16
 political manoeuvres at Schönbrunn, 218–24
 response to French infringements at Ansbach-Bayreuth, 192, 194–6
 subsidy strategy towards Britain, 197
 and Rumbold affair, 164–65
 on French offer of Hanover, 179–81
 clashes with Haugwitz, 184–5
 and ratification of Schönbrunn, 231
 on treaty of Paris, 232
 resigns, 241–2
 falls out with Beyme, 242–3
 and closure of ports, 246
 and secret policy, 256–65
 abjures ideological opposition to France, 272
 resigned to Napoleonic dominance, 273–4
 geopolitical thinking of, 282
 advocates territorial aggrandisement, 281 attempts to sideline Haugwitz, 286–7
 and 'war party', 289–90
 and centrality of Frederick William, 312
 on organisation of the executive, 313, 319–21, 325–6
 demands removal of Haugwitz, Lombard and Beyme, 320 attacks Kabinett, 320, 326
- Harrowby, Dudley Ryder, First Earl of (1762–1847)
 mission to Berlin, 30, 201–6, 225–7
- Haugwitz, Christian von, Prussian statesman (175–1832), 18–19, 21, 28, 66, 92, 95–96, 115, 138, 147, 259, 262–4, 296–300
 biographical details, 49
 'northerner' in annexation debate, 78, 80, 85
 on French occupation of Hanover (1803), 86
 and fear of France, 94
 supports Second Coalition, 95, 152
 brief 'activist' phase of, 100–1
 hatred of Austria, 105
 fear of Russia, 103
 on need to use peace for reform, 124–5 tries to consolidate hold on the executive, 133–5
 on importance of foreign policy, 137
 prevails over Alvensleben, 138–40
 'passivism' of, 151
 political decline of, 152–3
 and Rumbold affair, 159, 164–6
 on Wintzingerode mission, 171–2
 mission to Napoleon, 207–8
 on Schönbrunn treaty, 212–13
 clashes with Hardenberg over Schönbrunn, 218–24
 uses Schönbrunn treaty to topple Hardenberg, 222–3
 and ratification of Schönbrunn, 231
 and debate on the Treaty of Paris, 231–6
 deploys French support to personal advantage, 240–1 sees off challenge from Keller, 243–4 under attack from public opinion, 244–5 faces down economic interest groups, 252–4
 sidelined by secret policy, 256
 dispute with Alopeus, 265
 fears Polish designs on Prussia, 271
 resigned to Napoleonic dominance, 273–4
 sidelines Hardenberg, 286–7
 turns against Napoleon, 293–5
 attempts to join 'war party', 299
 and attempted rapprochement with Britain, 301–2
 on centrality of Frederick William, 312
 on dangers of indecision, 315
 on reform of the executive, 321–2
 manipulates executive reform debate, 330–1, 334
 on Stein's memorandum, 331
 supported by queen, 332

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

Index

387

- Heinrich, Prince of Prussia (1726–1802)
 on Poland, 73
 supports French alliance, 98–9
 political decline of, 147–8
 on dangers of inaction, 156
Herrschaftskompromiß, 56, 270
 Hesse-Darmstadt, 75, 187, 277
 high politics, 12, 17–18, 285–91, 329–37, 340–1
 Hintze, Otto, German historian, 9, 18, 21,
 46, 60, 305, 341
 Holland
 Prussia offered, 206, 226
 Holtzmann, Johann Herrmann, Major,
 adjutant to Frederick William III, 48 Hoym, Count Karl George Heinrich von, governor of Silesia (1739–1807), 52
 crocodile tears of, 242
- Immediatrecht*, 44, 50, 326
 interest groups, economic, 25, 269
 during Hanoverian Crisis, 245–54
- Jackson, Francis, British ambassador in Berlin (1770–1814), 195–7, 207, 234–5, 238, 240
 and Rumbold affair, 163–4
 on policy of forcing Prussia, 170
 Jackson, Sir George, British diplomat in Berlin (1785–1861)
Diaries and letters 30–1
- Jacobi-Kloest, Baron von, Prussian ambassador to London, 197, 202,
 205, 228, 235–6, 238–9, 233, 246–7, 259
 protests against annexation of Hanover, 239
 considered as Hardenberg's successor, 243
 contacts with Stein, 250
 fear of Napoleonic universal monarchy, 273
 and 'war party', 288–9, 290
- Jacobins
 in Prussia, 117
- Jena, battle of (1806), 18–19, 32
- Kabinet, 47–8, 128–36, 336–7
 secretaries, 39–44
 sclerotic effects of, 45–6
 alleged class divisions in, 145
 attacked by Stein, 318–19
 attacked by Hardenberg, 320
 Hardenberg demands abolition of,
 326
- Kabinettsministerium, 36, 47, 49, 72, 79
 and Kabinet, 44
 alleged noble dominance of, 57
 poor coordination with Generaldirektorium, 317
- Kehr, Eckart, German historian, 22, 25, 306–12, 336
- Keller, Count Dorotheus, Prussian diplomat (1757–1827), 264
 aborted ministerial candidature, 243–4
- Kleist, von Nollendorf, Friedrich
 Heinrich, military adjutant (1762–1823), 63
 biographical details, 49
 on Schönbrunn, 218
 joins 'war party', 299
 on organisation of the executive, 314
- Knobelsdorff, Friedrich Wilhelm von, Prussian general (1752–1820), 275
 mission to Paris (1804), 163, 168
- Köckritz, Karl Leopold von, confidant of the king (1744–1821), 51, 63
 as a bloodless eminence, 54–5
 biographical details, 49
- Laforest, Antoine René Charles, French
 ambassador to Berlin (1756–1846), 195, 220
 alliance overtures, 176–82
- Lombard, Johann Wilhelm, Prussian cabinet councillor (1767–1812), 18, 20, 21, 40, 89, 186
 biographical details, 51
 mission to Brussels (1803), 87
 and Second Coalition, 95, 152
 fear of Russia, 102
 hatred of Austria, 106
 political rise of, 134–5, 139–40, 152–3 sidelined Haugwitz, 141–2
 and Rumbold affair, 161–2, 164–5
 on Hanover, 167, 187
 response to French infringements at Ansbach-Bayreuth, 196
 on Schönbrunn, 217
 temporary eclipse of, 222
 reemergence of, 223
 and Treaty of Paris, 233
 sidelined by secret policy, 256
 on geopolitical imperatives confronting Prussia, 274–5
 on organisation of the executive, 313–14
- Louis Ferdinand, Prussian Prince (1772–1806), 53
 increased political activity of, 200, 222
 and 'war party', 288–9

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

388 Index

- Louise, Queen of Prussia (1776–1810)
 letters to Frederick William III, 30 on geopolitical implications of Polish partitions for Prussia, 74
 increased political activity of, 200, 222,
 intervenes to support Hardenberg, 223
 and secret policy, 257
 and ‘war party’, 288
 alliance with Hardenberg against Kabinett, 332
- Lucchesini, Girolamo, Marquis de,
 Prussian diplomat (1751–1825), 105,
 223–4, 241, 244, 275–6
 hatred of Austria, 106
 and Treaty of Paris, 233
 considered as successor to Hardenberg, 243
 on Hanover, 280–1
 fears repeat of nightmare of 1756, 297–8
- Lusatia
 Prussian ambitions towards, 79
- malice, 12
- Malta, 70, 110
- Marwitz, Friedrich August von der, professional Junker (1777–1837)
 on political passivity of the estates, 269–70
- Marx, Karl, 18
- Massenbach, Colonel Christian von,
 military adjutant (1758–1827), 73, 79, 98, 104
 on encirclement of Prussia, 72 ‘activism’ of, 81
 on annexation of Hanover, 84
 fear of Russia and France, 103
 on the organisation of the executive, 132, 323
 admiration for Napoleon, 273
- Memel, 69
- Mencken, Anastasius Ludwig, cabinet
 councillor (1752–1801), 131
 ‘passivism’ of, 81
 biographical details, 48
 opposes abolition of military exemptions
 for middle class, 125
 on the organisation of the executive, 131
 on the nature of Prussian high politics, 149
- Metternich, Count Clemens Wenzel von,
 Austrian ambassador to Berlin
 (1773–1859), 194–5, 201–2, 212, 220, 235, 272, 313
 on Rumbold affair, 165
- Möllendorf, Wichard Joachim Heinrich
 von, Prussian Field Marshal (1724–1816), 106
 peace initiative with France 1794, 65
Mordplan, Polish designs on Prussia, 121, 271–2
- Mulgrave, Henry Phipps, Lord, British
 foreign minister (1755–1831), 182
 on aggrandisement of Prussia, 204, 226–7
- Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of France
 (1769–1821), 69, 90, 94, 96–7, 102,
 181, 231, 241, 291–2, 294, 295, 302
 Prussian admiration for, 273
 Napoleonic hegemony a fact of life, 294
 confronted by Prussia, 291
 plans to return Hanover to George III, 298
 fear of prompts reform of Prussian executive, 304
 as a constitutive force in Prussian politics, 388
- Neufchâtel
 abandonment of, 78, 282
 neutrality policy, 80, 275
 as a protective carapace for reforms, 116–22
 ‘enfant chér’ of Haugwitz, 151
 Frederick William III’s commitment to, 153
 as precondition for high-political success, 154
 neutrality zone, 70, 111
 established, 68
 geopolitical justification for, 74–5 nobility
 role of 56–66
- North German League (1806), 292–3
- Novosiltzov, Igor, Russian diplomat
 mission to Berlin, 174–6
- Nuremberg
 attempted annexation of (1796), 77
- Paris, Treaty of (1806), 230
 debate on, 231–6
- Paul I, Emperor of Russia (1754–1801), 104
 death of, 85
- Poland, 67
 geopolitical implications of Polish
 partitions for Prussia, 73–4, 100, 339
 domestic impact of partitions on Prussia, 121

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

Index

389

- Pomerania, unrest in, 120
- Potsdam, Treaty of (1805), 200–1, 207, 272
- Pressburg, Treaty of (1805), 228, 230
- primacy of domestic politics, 7–8
- primacy of foreign policy, 18, 115–28, 269, 305
- and domestic reform, 128
- prompts reform of the executive, 305, 310, 312, 216,
- Ranke, Leopold von, German historian (1795–1886), 15, 18, 24, 26, 28
- Rastatt, Congress of (1797), 68, 112
- Reich*
- and Prussia, 111–14
- Reichsdeputationshauptschluss* (1803), 70, 80, 82, 83, 110, 339
- Rheinbund* (1806), 291–2, 294
- Rosenberg, Hans, German historian, 25, 306–12, 336
- Rüchel, Ernst Friedrich von, Prussian officer (1754–1823)
- on Prussian political system, 46
- on dangers of reform, 122, 127
- on organisation of the executive, 131 and Treaty of Paris, 233
- and ‘war party’, 288, 295
- advises war with France, 295
- Rumbold, Sir George, British envoy to Hamburg (1764–1807)
- Rumbold affair, 159–67, 277, 285
- high-political dimension, 164–6, 285–6
- Russia, 67–9, 72, 75, 78, 83, 88–9, 91, 96, 204, 212, 294
- Prussian fear of, 101–5
- threatens to invade Prussia, 182–90
- rapprochement* with Prussia, 254–65
- importance of, 275–6
- policy of forcing Prussia, 278
- drops objections to Prussia annexation of Hanover, 284
- Sandoz-Rollin, Daniel Alfons von, Prussian ambassador to Paris, 90, 93
- Scharnhorst, Gerhard Johann David, Prussian officer (1755–1813)
- and ‘war party’, 287
- Schmalz, Theodor, Prussian professor (1760–1831)
- compares British and Prussian politics, 315
- Schmitt, Carl, German lawyer, 15–16, 60, 304, 319, 342
- Schönbrunn, Treaty of (1805)
- debate on, 209–18
- high politics of debate, 218–24
- Schrötter, Friedrich Leopold von, Prussian bureaucrat (1743–1815), 52
- on riots in Halle, 270–1
- Schulenburg-Kehnert, Friedrich Wilhelm von der, Prussian statesman (1742–1815), 59, 133, 135, 146
- on Prussia as a federal state, 37
- sources on, 29
- biographical details, 50
- and invasion of France in 1792, 91
- and peasant unrest, 119
- on the organisation of the executive, 128, 132
- on the nature of political enmity, 147
- political opportunism of, 149–50
- and Rumbold affair, 160
- response to French infringements to Ansbach, 192
- tough stance during Rumbold affair, 165
- shows restraint against Britain, 237
- and Schönbrunn debate, 210–11, 215
- on centrality of Frederick William, 312
- on dangers of indecision, 315
- on royal fears of council of state, 316
- Second Coalition, war of (1798–1801), 68, 278
- Prussian debate on, 94–6
- high-political dimension to, 152–3
- Seegebarth, Prussian postmaster-general
- role in secret policy, 257, 263
- Sièyes, Emmanuel Joseph, Abbé, French statesman (1748–1836), 80, 90, 93, 99, 148
- on Hanover, 80
- characterisation of Haugwitz, 151
- Silesia, unrest in, 119–20
- Staatsrat*, 37–8
- falls into disuse, 45
- defunct in 1806, 318
- Stein proposes revival, 318–19
- Hardenberg and Haugwitz on, 319–22
- Stein, Heinrich Friedrich Karl, Baron von, Prussian bureaucrat (1757–1831), 18, 52, 247
- on Prussia as a federal state, 37
- ‘westerner’ in annexation debate, 77
- opposition to France, 146
- intervenes on behalf of economic interest groups, 249–50
- and Prussian mobilisation in 1805, 209

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-45360-8 - The Impact of Napoleon: Prussian High Politics, Foreign Policy and the Crisis of the Executive, 1797-1806

Brendan Simms

Index

More information

390 Index

- Stein, Heinrich Friedrich Karl (cont.)
 and 'war party', 287, 290
 alleged leader of 'revolt' of senior bureaucrats, 306–7
 memorandum of April 1806, 310
 sparks debate on the executive, 318–20, 324
 memorandum of 1806 misunderstood, 328–9
 personal motivations behind April memorandum, 335, 337
- Suarez, Carl Gottlieb, Prussian legal expert (1746–1798)
 on Allgemeines Landrecht, 60–2
- Sweden
 Prussian tensions with, 171, 259–60
- Swedish Pomerania, 88–9, 171
 rumoured exchange of, 275
- Talleyrand (-Périgord), Charles Maurice,
 Duke of, French foreign minister (1754–1838), 80, 99, 231, 223
- Third Coalition (1804–5), 221
 embarrasses Prussia, 278
 and Hanover, 280
- Treitschke, Heinrich von, German historian, 18, 20, 24
- Ulm, battle of (1805), 198
- Valmy, battle of (1792), 67
Vorspann, 123
 and primacy of foreign policy, 127
- 'war party', 293
 emergence of, 287–91
 attack on Kabinett, 323–5
 failure of, 332–3
- Weber, Max
 on collegial principle 37
 on Kabinett, 50
- Wintzingerode, Baron von, Russian general
 mission of, 171–3
- Wittgenstein, Prince Ludwig Adolf von,
 Prussian diplomat (1759–1843),
 53,
 ally of Hardenberg, 331
- Wöllner, Johann Christoph von,
 confidant of Frederick William II (1732–1800)
 on organisation of the executive, 129
 fall of, 138
- Wolff, Christian, philosopher
 (1679–1754), 60
 on obedience, 116–17
- York von Wartenburg, Johann David
 Ludwig, Count, Prussian general (1759–1830), 65
- Zastrow, Friedrich Wilhelm von, military adjutant (1752–1830), 63
 on Second Coalition, 95
 biographical details, 48
 mission to St Petersburg, 173–4