

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-46627-1 - Men in Women's Clothing: Anti-theatricality and Effeminization,
1579-1642

Laura Levine

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

Acknowledgements	page x
Introduction	1
1 Men in women's clothing	10
2 Troilus and Cressida and the politics of rage	26
3 "Strange flesh": Antony and Cleopatra and the story of the dissolving warrior	44
4 Theatre as other: Jonson's Epicoene	73
5 The "Nothing" under the puppet's costume: Jonson's suppression of Marlowe in Bartholomew Fair	89
6 Magic as theatre, theatre as magic: Daemonologie and the problem of "entresse"	108
7 Magic as theatre, theatre as magic: the case of Newes from Scotland	120
Epilogue	134
Notes	137
Works cited	174
Index	181