

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-46974-6 - Australian Television and International Mediascapes

Stuart Cunningham and Elizabeth Jacka

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

List of Illustrations, Figures and Tables	viii
Preface	x
Acknowledgements	xiv
Abbreviations	xviii
PART ONE Global Mediascapes: Theory and Industry
1: Theoretical Perspectives	3
Cultural imperialism	5
Globalisation of the media	7
The nation and national culture	14
Television ecology	16
Cross-cultural audience analysis	21
2: Globalisation and International Television Trade	25
Changes in world television	26
A new diversity in program sources	29
Post-fordism and the audiovisual industry	33
Financing and producing for the international market	38
PART TWO The Domestic Optic: Australian Industry, Culture and Production
3: The Australian Television Culture	49
The international face of Australian television	49
The television system	54
State intervention	58
Shifts in the ecology of Australian television	63
Cultural versus industry protection	63
Economic rationalism	66

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-46974-6 - Australian Television and International Mediascapes

Stuart Cunningham and Elizabeth Jacka

Table of Contents

More information

vi

CONTENTS

International influences	69
The current moment of culture industries	73
4: Production Companies I	76
The Australian Broadcasting Corporation	76
The Grundy organisation	81
The Village Roadshow group	87
Production activities of Village Roadshow Pictures	88
Production activities of Roadshow Coote and Carroll	90
Crawfords	95
5: Production Companies II	100
Children's television producers	100
The Australian Children's Television Foundation	101
Other producers of children's programs	104
The Beyond International Group	105
Southern Star	108
Film Australia	111
The Seven Network	116
PART THREE The International Optic: Television Ecologies and Australian Programs
6: The United Kingdom and the Irish Republic	121
The Australian nexus with the British system	122
The changing British television landscape	126
Cultural Neighbours : the post-colonial intertext and the industry window	129
The Irish Republic (Eire)	142
7: Europe	146
European television systems	148
Australian programs in France and Germany	151
Social values in a serious culture: The Flying Doctors in The Netherlands	160
8: The United States and Canada	168
Broadcast network	172
Broadcast syndication	172
Playing at being American: Paradise Beach	174
Non-commercial broadcast	179

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-46974-6 - Australian Television and International Mediascapes

Stuart Cunningham and Elizabeth Jacka

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS	vii
Cable	181
Pioneering in international magazine formats: Beyond 2000	181
The quality zone: Brides of Christ	184
Conclusion	188
Canada	189
9: East Asia	194
Television ecologies of the region	194
Dynamics of program trade	197
Star TV	199
Australian program trade: varying models	201
An ersatz Asian nation? ABC satellite television	205
10: New Zealand (Geoff Lealand)	214
The New Zealand television ecology	216
Australian programs on New Zealand television	217
The New Zealand experience of Grundys' parochial internationalism	220
Creating a trans-Tasman audiovisual space	224
Conclusion	227
11: Papua New Guinea and the South-West Pacific (Helen Wilson)	229
Television is introduced to the Pacific	231
Australian rules: Papua New Guinea and EM TV	235
Fiji: Australia's limited presence	239
Conclusion	241
PART FOUR Conclusion
12: Benefits and Drawbacks of Internationalisation	245
References	254
Index	271