Contents

List of illustrations [page viii]
Acknowledgements [viii]
Notes on contributors [ix]
Chronology [xii]
Preface [xix]

Part I · Stages of creative development and reception
1 Brahms the Hamburg musician 1833–1862 Kurt Hofmann [3]
2 Years of transition: Brahms and Vienna 1862–1875 Michael Musgrave [31]
3 Brahms and his audience: the later Viennese years 1875–1897 Leon Botstein [51]

Part II · The music: genre, structure and reference
4 Opposition and integration in the piano music John Rink [79]
5 Medium and meaning: new aspects of the chamber music David Brodbeck [98]
6 Formal perspectives on the symphonies Kofi Agawu [133]
7 ‘Veiled symphonies’? The concertos Malcolm MacDonald [156]
8 The scope and significance of the choral music Daniel Beller-McKenna [171]
9 Words for music: the songs for solo voice and piano Michael Musgrave [195]

Part III · Brahms today: some personal responses
10 Conducting Brahms Roger Norrington with Michael Musgrave [231]
11 The editor’s Brahms Robert Pascall [250]
12 A photograph of Brahms Hugh Wood [268]

Notes [288]
List of works [307]
Bibliography [312]
Index [318]