KANT'S METAPHYSICS OF MORALS

Immanuel Kant's Metaphysics of Morals (1797), containing the Doctrine of Right and Doctrine of Virtue, is his final major work of practical philosophy. Its focus is not rational beings in general but human beings in particular, and it presupposes and deepens Kant's earlier accounts of morality, freedom, and moral psychology. In this volume of newly commissioned essays, a distinguished team of contributors explores the Metaphysics of Morals in relation to Kant's earlier works, as well as examining themes which emerge from the text itself. Their topics include the relation between right and virtue, property, punishment, and moral feeling. Their diversity of questions, perspectives, and approaches will provide new insights into the work for scholars in Kant's moral and political theory.

LARA DENIS is Professor of Philosophy at Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Georgia, USA. She is the author of Moral Self-Regard: Duties to Oneself in Kant's Moral Theory (2001) and the editor of a supplemented edition of Kant's Groundwork of the Metaphysics of Morals (2005).

Acknowledgements

My thanks to Hilary Gaskin of Cambridge University Press for inviting my proposal for a Cambridge Critical Guide to the Metaphysics of Morals, and to others at the Press, including Joanne Tunnicliffe, Gillian Dadd, and Aline Guillermet, and to the anonymous external readers, for helping me bring the project to completion. Thanks also to this collection's contributors, whose excellent essays I have already benefited from reading. Allen Wood merits special appreciation for providing counsel and encouragement during the proposal preparation stage. I also appreciated Patrick Kain's correspondence with me about the provenance of Kant's lecture notes. Roger Wertheimer has, as ever, been a steady source of love and support, for which I am grateful.
