
CONTENTS

Trade and colonialism in the near east	page 1
Introduction	1

PART I

THE DEBATE CONCERNING ANCIENT ECONOMY

1. The first great debate: primitivists versus modernists	7
Introduction	7
The modernist-primitivist controversy	9
The Marxist alternative	12
2. Karl Polanyi and his view of ancient economy	17
Introduction	17
Theoretical thinking	21
Critique of the classic economy: substantivism	23
The place of the economy in society	26
Integration mechanisms: reciprocity, redistribution, and exchange ...	28
The notion of market	29
Money, currency, and prices	32
Trade and traders	34
Long-distance exchange and ports of trade	36
Polanyi today	37
3. Colonialism and cultures in contact: theorisings and critiques	41
Introduction	41
Legacy of Greek and Roman colonialism	44

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-51417-0 - Commerce and Colonization in the Ancient Near East

Maria Eugenia Aubet

Table of Contents

More information

vi CONTENTS

Deconstruction of classical colonialism	47
New theoretical perspectives	49
Postcolonial theory and native communities	72
4. The place of trade in ancient economies	79
Exchange and trade	79
Systems and mechanisms of exchange	83
Production, circulation, and consumption	84
Typologies of exchange and of trade	86
Reciprocity and gift exchange	91
Long-distance trade	97
Archaeology of inter-regional trade	105

PART II

TRADE AND COLONIALISM IN THE NEAR EAST

5. State trade versus private initiative	117
Centralised economy or market economy?	117
The temple-state theory	120
The new modernists	122
The role and status of the merchant	126
The Sumerian dam-gār	127
The merchants of Umma	131
Trade in the days of Sargon of Akkad	134
The Assyrio-Babylonian tamkarum	136
Markets, prices, and equivalences	144
A futile debate?	155
6. Uruk and the first colonialism	157
Introduction	157
Unequal distribution of resources and colonial expansion	161
Creating peripheries: the colonisation of the Susa valley	163
The colonial network of North Mesopotamia and Anatolia	167
Uruk's colonial model	178
The lapis lazuli and stone vessel route	182
The Myth of Enmerkar and the Lord of Aratta	192
7. Byblos and Egypt: reciprocity and shared ideologies	201
Introduction	201
Byblos and pre-dynastic Egypt	202

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-51417-0 - Commerce and Colonization in the Ancient Near East

Maria Eugenia Aubet

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS vii

Byblos and the first Egyptian Dynasties (3050–2650 BC)	218
Byblos and the Old Kingdom in Egypt (2650–2300 BC)	221
Institutionalisation of international contacts (2050–1550 BC)	238
Shared ideology, reciprocity, and colonialism	257
8. The Assyrian trade network in Anatolia: the metropolis	267
Introduction	267
The metropolis: the city-state of Assur	270
Assur: centre of inter-regional trade	286
9. The Assyrian trade network in Anatolia: the colonies	307
Introduction	307
Archaeology of the karum Kanesh	312
Organisation of the karum Kanesh	331
Ways of financing and organising trade	336
Relations with the local population	343
Colonial society	347
The colonial system	360
10. Final thoughts	365
Abbreviations	371
Bibliography	373
Index	409