

Contents

| | |
|---|----------------|
| Preface | page ix |
| Acknowledgements | xii |
| 1 The microscopic horse | 1 |
| 2 What steers evolution? | 9 |
| 3 Darwin: pluralism with a single core | 26 |
| 4 How to build a body | 40 |
| 5 A brief history of the last billion years | 54 |
| 6 Preamble to the quiet revolution | 67 |
| 7 The return of the organism | 76 |
| 8 Possible creatures | 88 |
| 9 The beginnings of bias | 105 |
| 10 A deceptively simple question | 117 |
| 11 Development's twin arrows | 128 |
| 12 Action and reaction | 140 |
| 13 Evolvability: organisms in bits | 152 |
| 14 Back to the trees | 159 |
| 15 Stripes and spots | 175 |
| 16 Towards 'the inclusive synthesis' | 191 |
| 17 Social creatures | 201 |
| Glossary | 211 |
| References | 223 |
| Index | 231 |