

Cambridge University Press

0521542111 - Joseph Banks and the English Enlightenment: Useful Knowledge and Polite Culture - John Gascoigne

Frontmatter/Prelims

More information

JOSEPH BANKS
AND THE ENGLISH
ENLIGHTENMENT

JOSEPH BANKS
AND THE ENGLISH
ENLIGHTENMENT
Useful Knowledge and Polite Culture

JOHN GASCOIGNE

School of History, University of New South Wales

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge University Press

0521542111 - Joseph Banks and the English Enlightenment: Useful Knowledge and Polite Culture - John Gascoigne

Frontmatter/Prelims

More information

PUBLISHED BY THE PRESS SYNDICATE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE
The Pitt Building, Trumpington Street, Cambridge, United Kingdom

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

The Edinburgh Building, Cambridge CB2 2RU, UK
40 West 20th Street, New York NY 10011-4211, USA
477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
Ruiz de Alarcón 13, 28014 Madrid, Spain
Dock House, The Waterfront, Cape Town 8001, South Africa

<http://www.cambridge.org>

© Cambridge University Press 1994

This book is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 1994

First paperback edition 2003

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress cataloguing in publication data

Gascoigne, John, Ph.D.

Joseph Banks and the English Enlightenment: useful knowledge and polite culture / John Gascoigne.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

1. Science - Great Britain - History - 18th century. 2. Banks, Joseph, Sir, 1743-1820 - Views on science. 3. Enlightenment - Great Britain. 4. Great Britain - Intellectual life - 18th century. I. Title.

Q127.G7G37 1994

508'.092-dc20

[B]

93-31696

CIP

ISBN 0 521 45077 2 hardback

ISBN 0 521 54211 1 paperback

Cambridge University Press

0521542111 - Joseph Banks and the English Enlightenment: Useful Knowledge and Polite Culture - John Gascoigne

Frontmatter/Prelims

More information

For Kate

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	1
1 JOSEPH BANKS: A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH	7
Public life	7
Personality and private life	15
2 THE LIMITS OF ENLIGHTENMENT	29
The character of the English Enlightenment	29
Enlightenment and human equality	37
Banks's stance towards the Established Church and its beliefs and values	41
3 FROM VIRTUOSO TO BOTANIST	57
The virtuoso tradition	57
The state of natural history in the mid-eighteenth century	73
Botany and the young Banks	83
The impact of Linnaeus in Britain	98
The pursuit of natural history in the late eighteenth century	107
4 FROM ANTIQUARIAN TO ANTHROPOLOGIST	119
Antiquarianism, natural history and the study of society	119
The contribution of natural history and medicine to the development of anthropology	134
The exploration of the Pacific and theories of human linguistic and racial development	160
The 'Science of Man' and non-European civilisations	176

5	THE PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE OF IMPROVEMENT	185
	The nature and extent of the improving creed	185
	The foundation of the Board of Agriculture	188
	Improvement at home and abroad	196
	Improvement and industry	207
	Improvement and society	224
6	THE WANING OF THE ENGLISH ENLIGHTENMENT	237
	The French Revolution and its ideological impact	237
	The Royal Society, its rivals and the eclipse of the ideal of useful knowledge	249
	Banks and the English Enlightenment: the declining years	261
	Notes	267
	List of Abbreviations	293
	Bibliography	295
	Index	310

Illustrations

Mrs William Banks	23
Sarah Sophia Banks	23
Lady Banks (Dorothea Hugessen)	25
Revesby Abbey	27
Title page of Instauratio Magna	59
The Fly Catching Macaroni	64
The Simpling Macaroni	65
Soho Square, Banks's residence	71
Plan of Chelsea Physic Garden	75
Joseph Banks as a boy	84
Carl von Linné (Linnaeus)	96
Thomas Pennant	97
Daniel Solander	102
The Antiquarian Society	122
Portrait of a New Zeland Man	161
Two of the Natives of New Holland	170
A Woman and a Boy, Natives of Otaheite	177
Sir John Sinclair	190
Joseph Banks, 1814	211
Matthew Boulton	211
James Watt	211
Boulton's Soho Works	212
Wedgwood's Etruria Works	215
The Parish of Tackley before and after enclosure	227
The Contrast	241
Joseph Banks as President of the Royal Society	250
Destruction of the Idols of Otaheite	263

Acknowledgements

In pursuing Banks and his scattered remains around the globe I have incurred many debts. I am grateful in the first place to my own institution, the University of New South Wales, for providing travel funds which made possible research trips to New Zealand, the United States and the United Kingdom as well as the purchase of photocopies of manuscripts housed in distant archives. The project would have taken even longer to complete without a grant from the Australian Research Council which made possible a semester's release from teaching. An invitation to participate in a conference on 'Visions of Empire', organised by John Brewer and Simon Schaffer and generously sponsored by the Andrew Clark Library at the University of California, Los Angeles, provided both an opportunity to share my Banksian interests with fellow specialists and a further opportunity to work in American libraries. I am also grateful to my colleague, David Miller, for his comments on Chapter Six.

This book has depended on the willing co-operation of librarians at the many different libraries noted in the List of Abbreviations, who either provided me with photocopies or personally assisted me in my attempts to piece together the scattered Banksian archive. I would like to thank all these libraries and their staff. In particular I am grateful to the staff of the Mitchell Library, Sydney, the British Library, the Royal Society, Mr Clyde Janes and the staff of the Sutro Library, San Francisco, and to Mr Rex Banks, Director of Library Services, and the staff of the General and Botany Libraries at the British Museum of Natural History. I am indebted, too, to Mr H.B. Carter for permitting me to consult material in the Banks Archive at the British Museum of Natural History and for making available to me a number of welcome typescript transcripts of Banks's often gout-ridden handwriting. To my editor, Jean Cooney, I am indebted for her meticulous attention to my text and I owe Alan Walker my thanks for compiling the index with such a careful eye to detail.

For their support during the long gestation of this book and for sharing with me its pains and privileges I would like to thank my family. I am grateful to my father for uncomplainingly acting as a reader and commentator. My wife, Kate, and my children, Robert and Catherine, have had to listen to interminable references to Banks and to follow me around the world in pursuit of his papers. For their companionship, both at home and abroad, on my voyage in search of Joseph Banks I owe them much thanks.