Comet Designation Index

This index contains all comets with formal designations given in this volume. The well-known periodic comets are listed first, since their designation does not include a year, and the remaining comets are listed chronologically thereafter. There are four prefixes that were adopted by the International Astronomical Union in 1994 as part of the new designation system. These are as follows:

- "P/" represents the predictable comets and these have well-established orbits. When a number precedes this letter, it indicates astronomers have either seen it at more than one apparition or are confident the comet can be followed throughout its orbit.
- "C/" indicates comets observed well enough for an orbit to be determined. Sometimes this orbit is only parabolic, indicating that the observations were either too few or too imprecise to allow the computation of an elliptical or hyperbolic orbit. Elliptical orbits indicate the comet will eventually return, while hyperbolic indicate the comet will likely never return.
- "D/" indicates comets observed well enough for a short-period orbit to be determined, but which have either ceased to exist or may suffer from a large enough uncertainty in the orbit to seriously hamper future recovery. Some of these comets have a number in front of them because they were once returning and being observed at regular intervals.
- "X/" indicates comets which were very likely real, but whose positions are too few for or so poor that a reliable orbit cannot be determined. In this volume, there are no comets that qualified as "X/" comets. Several objects listed in Appendix 1 may seem to qualify, but the confirming observations are of considerable doubt.
