

Successor journal to Theatre Quarterly (1971–1981)
 VOLUME XIII NUMBER 49 FEBRUARY 1997

Editors
 CLIVE BARKER
 SIMON TRUSSLER

Advisory Editors: Arthur Ballet, Eugenio Barba, Susan Bassnett, Tracy Davis, Martin Esslin, Maggie Gale (Book Reviews Editor), Lizbeth Goodman, Peter Hepple, Ian Herbert, Jan Kott, Brian Murphy, Sarah Stanton, Ian Watson

Contents

- |  |           |   |
|--|-----------|---|
| VOLKER SCHACHENMAYR                                      | 3  | Emma Lyon, the 'Attitude',and Goethean Performance Theoryart, archeology, and the dramaturgy of the living picture                     |
| RONALD TAVEL   | 18 | Disputing the Canon of American Dramatic 'Literature'pithy ridicule from the founder of the Theatre of the Ridiculous                      |
| NADINE HOLDSWORTH  | 29 | Good Nights Out: Activating the Audiencewith 7:84 (England)politicizing theatre in the changing climate of the 'eighties               |
| GABRIEL EGAN   | 41 | Myths and Enabling Fictions of 'Origin'in the Editing of Shakespearecontinuing the debate on the politics of editing Elizabethan texts |
| CICELY BERRYPATSY RODENBURGAND KRISTIN LINKLATER | 48 | Shakespeare, Feminism, and Voice:Responses to Sarah Wernerthree leading voice teachers take the offensive                              |
| TONY HOWARD  | 53 | Behind the Arras, though the Wall:Wajda's Hamlet in Krakow, 1989a memorable female Hamlet under martial law – and beyond               |
| DAVID BRADBY   | 69 | Bernard-Marie Koltès:Chronology, Contexts, Connectionsfirst full English analysis of the major French playwright's life and work       |
|  | 91 | NTQ Book Reviewsedited by Maggie Gale  |