

Contents

---

List of plates	page x
Preface	xi
Acknowledgements	xiv
Transliteration and references	xv

Introduction Marginalisation of gender and approaches to women in Middle Eastern Studies	I
Marginalisation of Gender	I
Approaches to women in Middle Eastern Studies	4
Orientalism	5
Modernisation theory	8
Dependency theory	II
Political defence of Islam	15
Feminism	18
Towards specific analysis of Iranian women	21

Part I The discourse of modernity	25
1 Social diversity on women's issues in nineteenth-century Iran	30
Minority communities	31
Islamic diversity	32
Socio-economic diversity	37
Diversity arising from contact with the West	41
2 Women and the era of constitutionalism	50
The demand for a constitution	50
The civil war	56
The Russian ultimatum	58
The debate on women in the National Assembly	60
Establishment of women's societies and schools	67
Summary	70
3 Women and the era of nation building	78
The state as instrument of social reform	80
National unification	82
Post-constitutional political proliferation and control	88

Cambridge University Press

052159572X - Women and the Political Process in Twentieth-Century Iran

Parvin Paidar

Table of Contents

More information

viii	Contents
	Women's emancipation and national progress	103
	Women's social participation	106
	Women's legal status in the family	109
	Patriarchal consensus in the era of nation building	112
4	Women and the era of nationalism	118
	Social diversification and economic depression	119
	Post-dictatorship proliferation of political parties	120
	Transition from state nationalism to liberal nationalism	128
	The rise and fall of nationalist government	130
	Women and the nationalist government	132
	Consolidation of the modernising state	134
	The rise of cultural nationalism	138
	Women's political rights	140
5	Women and the era of modernisation	147
	State and society in 'The Great Civilisation'	147
	Modernisation of the family	150
	Modernisation of women's social position	157
	Response to 'The Great Civilisation'	166
	Secular opposition to modernisation	168
	Islamic opposition to modernisation	172
	Part 2 The discourse of revolution	183
6	Gender as a revolutionary discourse	190
	Political liberalisation and protest	190
	The revolutionary takeover of the state	197
	The development of revolutionary leadership	198
	Organisation, mobilisation and participation	207
	Revolutionary demands and symbols	212
	Male–female interaction in the revolution	217
	Summary	219
7	Women and the political transition from modernisation to Islamisation
	Transitional leadership and political culture	221
	The establishment of the Islamic republic	221
	Elimination of Islamic diversity and secular opposition	226
	Rapid Islamisation	228
	Women's spontaneous response to Islamisation	231
	The Islamic nationalist response	234
	The secular nationalist response	237
	The Islamic left response	242
	The secular left response	249
	Women, family and nation in the Constitution of the Islamic Republic	256

Cambridge University Press

052159572X - Women and the Political Process in Twentieth-Century Iran

Parvin Paidar

Table of Contents

More information

Contents	ix
Part 3 The discourse of Islamisation	263
8 The Islamic construction of family	267
The socio-political context in the first decade of the Islamic Republic	267
Development of legal institutions	271
Marriage	277
Family planning	286
Divorce	290
Child custody	294
Women without men	297
9 Women and national participation in the Islamic Republic	303
Political participation	303
Education	312
Employment	322
10 Policing the family	336
Gender segregation	337
Islamic punishment of secular gender relations	344
Summary	353
Conclusion Summary of themes and issues	356
Glossary	364
References	368
Index	391