

---

Contents

---

List of figures	page	vi
Acknowledgements		vii
1 Personalised medicine – a revolution in healthcare		1
2 Pharmacogenetics, expectation and promissory science		9
3 Genetics, moral risk and professional resistance		29
4 Clinical resistance to Alzheimer’s pharmacogenetics		56
5 Research, industry and pharmacogenetic literacy		78
6 Engineering the clinic – getting personalised medicine into practice		99
7 The fourth hurdle – cost-effectiveness and the funding of pharmacogenetics		122
8 Disappointment and disclosure in the pharmacogenetic clinic		147
9 The personalised is political		175
Bibliography		182
Index		205