

Cambridge University Press
 0521617065 - Canada and the Gold Standard: Balance-of-Payments Adjustment,
 1871-1913

Trevor J. O. Dick and John E. Floyd

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

List of tables and figures	page vii
Preface	xi
1 Introduction	1
2 The standard neoclassical specie-flow mechanism	10
3 A new view of gold standard adjustment	15
The Canadian monetary system before World War I	18
Price level determination in Canada	20
The Canadian money supply and Canadian prices	25
Modifications to incorporate Dominion notes	27
Comparison of the new view with Viner's theory	28
Purchasing-power parity and the monetary approach to the balance of payments	28
4 An empirical overview	32
The data	35
An empirical overview of the 1871-1913 period	36
5 Statistical tests of goods and asset market adjustments	47
Real adjustments	47
Asset adjustments	57
6 Evidence on the process of balance-of-payments adjustment	75
Tests of restrictions implied by the two theories	79
Estimation of the portfolio theory balance-of- payments equation	82
Nonnested hypotheses tests	83
Capital flows and interest-rate differentials	85
7 Some further evidence on structure and timing	89
Formal specification of the alternative theories	89
Causal versus statistical relationships between money and prices	94
Some suggested statistical tests	99
8 "Canada's balance": Viner and his critics	110
9 The theoretical implications of capital mobility	128

Cambridge University Press
 0521617065 - Canada and the Gold Standard: Balance-of-Payments Adjustment,
 1871-1913

Trevor J. O. Dick and John E. Floyd

Table of Contents

More information

vi	Contents
	Review and refinement of the perfect capital mobility analysis	129
	Extension to include imperfect capital mobility	134
	Appendix: Perfect capital immobility	144
10	“Canada’s balance of indebtedness”: reinterpreting the historical evidence	147
	The nineteenth century: 1871–1895	148
	The twentieth century: 1896–1913	152
	The evolution of economic thought	155
11	Conclusions: How the gold standard worked	158
	Review of the statistical evidence	159
	The determinants of interest-rate differentials when capital is internationally mobile	165
	Purchasing-power parity and the monetary approach to balance-of-payments theory	169
	How the gold standard really worked	170
	Appendix A: The data sources	175
	Canadian data	175
	Foreign country data	183
	Appendix B: The data	189
	Appendix C: Price indexes for Canada	199
	The Michell index	208
	The DBS index	209
	The Urquhart index	210
	References	217
	Index	229