

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations xiii

Preface xvii

Introduction • i

1. The Forked Road to Modernity: Ambiguities of the Renaissance Facade • 12

Prelude, 12 • The Facade as Composition, 13 • Representation and Identity: The Place(s) of Heraldry, 14 • The Facade as Screen: Between Tectonics and Rhetoric, 16 • The Roman House: Itinerary and Representation, 16 • The Agonistic Facade: Facing Off in the Court Enclave, 17 • Triumphal Architecture: Syntax and Schema, 18 • Frames and Meaning, 20 • Serlio and the Limits of Architecture, 21 • Architectural Assemblage and the Emblematic Turn, 26 • Between Architecture and Physiognomy, 29 • Vitruvius, De architecto: Transparency and Professionalism, 30 • The Building as Body and the Subject of Architecture, 31 • Virtues of Transparency; Advantages of Opacity, 32 • Face and Pre-Face in Renaissance Culture, 33 • Telling Stories: Antiquarianism, Ideology, and Nostalgia, 35 • Memory and Monsters: The Facade as Terminus, 38

2. Domestic Architecture and Boccaccian Drama: Court and City in Florentine Culture • 43

Between Opacity and Expression, 43 • Toward the Renaissance City: Shifts in Social Space and Architectural Framing, 47 • The Facade: Metaphoric Intersections, 48 • Body/House, 49

3. Between Opacity and Rhetoric: The Facade in Trecento Florence • 51

Cultural Overlay and the Face of the City, 51 • The City as Symbol:
The Florentine Oligarchy and the Sea of Stone, 54 • Facade
Architecture and the Ideal of Consensus, 58 • Reading the Binary Facade, 64 • The Campaign against Jetties and the Emergence of the Planar Facade, 65 • Discriminations: Looking Beyond Uniformity in the Florentine Streetscape, 69 • Composing Urbanity: Design and Representation in Siena and Florence, 73

4. The Facade in Question: Brunelleschi • 77

Toward a New Architecture: The Disputed Founder, 77 •
“Vernacular” Brunelleschi?, 79 • Faces/Facets: Abstraction at the Cathedral, 80 • Brunelleschi and the Place of Housing, 81 •
An Ant’s View of Architecture: Palace Design and the Domestic Uncanny, 84 • Frame and Screen: The Palazzo Busini, 86 •
Prudential Architecture, 88 • Threshold and Itinerary: Beyond the Facade, 90 • Brunelleschian Principles of Design: Corporeal
Grammar, 91

5. The Bones of Grammar and the Rhetoric of Flesh • 94

Legibility in the Environment: Learning from Alberti, 94 • The Face of the Water and the Face in the Water, 96 • Albertian Antinomies, 98 • The Parade of Artifice and the Paradox of Authenticity: Alberti and the Palazzo Rucellai, 102 • In Between:
The Palazzo Medici, 104 • The Rhetoric of the Corner, 105

6. Setting and Subject: The City of Presences and the Street as Stage • 108

Perspectives in the Palace: Image and Self-Image in Urbino, 108 •
The Window Model and the Doors of Perspective: Design and Rule,
114 • Apollo and Minerva: From Frame to Stage, 117 • Jutting
Images, 119 • The Subject of/in Perspective: Brunelleschi’s Panels, 121 • Brunelleschi and the Palazzo della Signoria: Questions of Viewpoint, 124 • On an Implicit Paragone: Architecture as Statue and Surrogate Subject, 127

7. Bramante and the Emblematic Facade • 133

Avoiding Antithesis: Late Fifteenth-Century Florence, 133 •
Compound and Palace: Exceptional Rome, 134 • Bramante’s Exordium in Rome: The Orders Displayed, 136 • An Architecture of Dissimulation: Built Structure and Ideological Structures, 139 •
Architectural Allegory: The Building and the State, 143 • Architecture and its Others: The Emblematic Graft, 144 • Art and Nature, 146 • Origins in Architecture, 148

CONTENTS

xi

8. Facades on Parade: Architecture between Court and City • 151

The Via Alessandrina: The Street as Stage, 151 • Facing Off: A Battle of Style and Its Implications., 155 • Raphael's Critique of Bramante: Medium and Message, 160 • The Scene of the Court and the Space of the City, 165 • Architectural Culture and Social Structure: Fluidity and Rigidity in the Roman Cityscape, 166 • Patrician Architecture: Cross-Town Consistency and the Interests of Rome's Citizen Elite, 167 • A House for Hercules: Architectural and Genealogical Lineage, 171 • The Walking Bull and the Madonna in the Tree, 173

9. From Street to Territory: Projections of the Urban Facade • 176

Transcended Contrasts, 176 • Roman Itineraries: The Campidoglio as Laboratory and Exemplum, 178 • Garden Iconography and Projections of Architectural Meaning, 181 • "And Nature Is the Architect"—Artifice and Landscape at the Rotonda and Other Palladian Villas, 183 • Giants Beneath: "Thus Are the Monsters Tamed", 188 • Ideology and Landscape, 190 • Coda: Architectures of Power, and the Powers of Architecture 192

Notes 195*Select Bibliography* 271*Index* 283