

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-65173-8 - Nature and the English Diaspora: Environment and History in the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand

Thomas R. Dunlap

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS

	List of Figures	page xi
	Preface and Acknowledgments	xiii
	Introduction: Invaders, Settlers, Inhabitants	1
	SECTION ONE: MAKING THE LAND FAMILIAR	19
1	Natural History and the Construction of Nature	21
2	Remaking Worlds: European Models in New Lands	46
	SECTION TWO: BEYOND CONQUEST	71
3	Reaching Limits, 1850–1900	73
4	National Nature, 1880–1920	97
5	Changing Science, 1880–1930	139
	SECTION THREE: FINDING FIRM GROUND	165
6	Reaching Limits, 1920–1940	167
7	National Nature, 1920–1940	190
8	An Ecological Perspective, 1920–1950	219
	SECTION FOUR: NEW KNOWLEDGE, NEW ACTION	245
9	New Ideas, Old Problems: The Diffusion of Ecology, 1948–1967	247
10	The New World of Nature: The Debate Transformed	275
	Epilogue: The Upshot	307
	Bibliography	317
	Index	343

Photo Section appears following page 127

ix

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-65173-8 - Nature and the English Diaspora: Environment and History in the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand

Thomas R. Dunlap

Table of Contents

More information

FIGURES

1	North American population distribution.	128
2	Australian population distribution.	128
3	North American annual precipitation.	129
4	Australian annual precipitation.	129
5	Thomas Cole, View from Mount Holyoke, Northhampton, Massachusetts after a Thunderstorm (The Oxbow) .	130
6	Frederic Edwin Church, The Heart of the Andes .	131
7	Edward Landseer, The Monarch of the Glen .	132
8	David Davies, A Hot Day (Golden Summer) .	133
9	Frederick McCubbin, Lost (1886) .	134
10	Hans Heysen, Sunshine and Shadow .	135
11	Tom Thomson, The Jack Pine .	136
12	A. Y. Jackson, Terre Sauvage (1913) .	137
13	A. Y. Jackson, Algoma Rocks, c. 1923 .	138