

Contents

| | |
|--|----------|
| Acknowledgments | page vii |
| Note on Translations and Citations | xi |
| Introduction | 1 |
| Part I Origins | |
| 1 Mendelssohn and Kant: One Source of the Critical Philosophy | 17 |
| 2 The Unity of Reason: Pure Reason as Practical Reason in Kant's Early Conception of the Transcendental Dialectic | 60 |
| 3 Freedom as the Inner Value of the World | 96 |
| Part II Principles | |
| 4 Kant's Morality of Law and Morality of Freedom | 129 |
| 5 The Possibility of the Categorical Imperative | 172 |
| 6 The Strategy of Kant's Groundwork | 207 |
| Part III Duties | |
| 7 Kantian Foundations for Liberalism | 235 |
| 8 Life, Liberty, and Property: Rawls and Kant | 262 |
| 9 Moral Worth, Virtue, and Merit | 287 |

Contents

Part IV Hopes

| | | |
|----|---|-----|
| 10 | From a Practical Point of View: Kant's Conception of a Postulate of Pure Practical Reason | 333 |
| 11 | Nature, Freedom, and Happiness: The Third Proposition of Kant's Idea for a Universal History | 372 |
| 12 | Nature, Morality, and the Possibility of Peace | 408 |
| | Index | 435 |