CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

Index

Abelard, Peter, 18
Aelred of Rievaulx, 158–160, 163
Anglicans, turn-of-the-twentieth-century, 60–66, 82–83, 86, 100–104 see also Gore; Temple, William; Weston Anselm, 19, 24, 26, 30–32, 41, 44, 55–56, 80, 142, 151, 172–173, 175, 177 anti-realism, 7–8
Apollinarianism, 123
Apostolicae curae, 308
Appelfeld, Aharon, 46
Aquinas, 14–15, 18, 24, 27, 56, 59, 98, 172, 175–176, 188, 188n.55, 220, 221, 288, 300 Aristotle, 3, 14, 18, 26, 29, 107n.68, 110–112, 123–143, 150, 220 Ashby, Godfrey, 244, 260n.45 assertions, qualified, 130–138, 303–307
Augustine, 29–32, 55, 151, 188

Bäck, Allan, 112, 132–133, 132n.30 balancing-off, 45–46
Beattie, J. H. M., 244–245
Berengar of Tours, 296–297
Bernard of Clairvaux, 220–221 Bible, the not a library of philosophy, 26 types of interpretation of, 21, 57 whether or not an historical record, 21–22 whether or not infallibly true, 20 blood
  as absorber of negative and positive supranatural force in sacrifice, 252, 254, 256, 259 as the locus of life, 251 see also sacrifice
Boethius, 55, 80, 109, 152
Bonaventure, 18, 24, 27, 59, 157, 174–176, 180, 184–188, 220–221
Brown, Raymond, 69
Bultmann, Rudolf, 206, 214

Calvin, John, 286, 297–299, 307–308 Carnap, Rudolf, 10
characterization, 123–138, 193, 198, 302–304 Christ
  as center, 157, 170–171, 185–187
  as explanatory posit, 1–2 as horror-participant, 69–71 as judge, in Divine or human nature?, 240–241 God's principal end in creation, 180–184 human carnal knowledge of, 222 holds the cosmos together, 170–171, 178–179, 190 holds together the three stages of horror-defeat, 71–72, 189–190 integrates God's friendliness to humans, 157–158, 167–168 limited horror-participation, 72 the primacy of, 171, 179, 190–191 the role of Inner Teacher appropriated to, 166–169 unites God's mothering of humans, 168–169 Christology, in general Alexandrian/Cyrillene vs. Antiochene approaches, 84–85 data of, 18–21
  "from above" vs. "from below,", 27–28

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

Christology, in general (cont.) fundamentally divisive, 3–4 least-common-denominator versions, 5–6 materially low, 2, 78–79 metaphysically high, 2, 8, 123–143 modified Word-flesh, 118–121 reductive vs. eliminative, 5–10 scandal of, 2–10
Christology, kenotic abandonment vs. restraint, 91–93 absolute, critiqued, 87–90 emptying vs. veiling, 86 makes Gospel career criterial, 86 modified, critiqued, 94–95, 98–100 modified, relativized to spheres of operation, 90–94 ownership of human nature, a problem for, 98–100 total vs. partial absolute, 87–89 understands "person" psychologically, 83 Weston's psychological analogies of, 95–98 see also Gore; Weston Christology, medieval metaphysics of advantageous account of hypostatic union, 138–140 Divinity and humanity both real essences, 123 metaphysical distinction between the two natures, 139, 143 non-mutual relations, 126–128 ontological dependence without potency-actualization, 126 per accidens union, 124–125 reifies individual natures, 123 three types of denomination, 124 see also communicatio idiomatum Church
as horror-perpetrator, 203–204 as household including God's adopted children, 176–177 as joined to Christ in marriage, 177–178 as mediocosm, 200–204 as mystical body of which Christ is the head, 177, 200 congregating, 201 functions of, underdetermine institutional frame, 202–203 human as well as Divine, 203 missionary, 201–202
universal, 201
wrestling, 201
Cicero, 102, 155–156
Clarke, Samuel, 3
Clement of Alexandria, 26
Coakley, Sarah, 53, 89
communicatio idiomatum as implying that the natures share each other's predicates, 85–86, 302–303 as implying that the person shares the predicates of both natures, 86 as licensing limited denomination, 124, 128–129 gives rise to the Contradiction Problem, 113–114 see also Contradiction Problem conceptualities different kinds of, furnishing different theoretical frames, 16–17 many used in soteriology, 29–30 Constantinople, Council of, 54, 122 consubstantiation, 299, 305n.42 Contradiction Problem, the arises from the communicatio idiomatum, 113–114 qualified assertions as a solution?, 130–138, 303–304 reduplication, no help, 130 specification, doubly interpreted, 130–138 Swinburne's response to, 121–123 courtesy, 217–218
creation
an organic body?, 179–181, 192, 195–197 contingent vs. necessary, 172 motivated by Divine desire to be Christ for the world, 190–191 motivated by Divine love of material creation, 39–41, 150, 221 really distinct from God?, 171–172 criticism, biblical, 3–4 Cross, Richard, 112, 127n.25, 133–134

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

cult, 242
Cupitt, Don, 8–9, 80

data, entrenched vs. marginal, 17–19 death depersonalizes the material, 208 horrendous vs. good for persons, 207–212 natural to animals, 208 the focal soteriological problem in patristic theology, 205 defeat
  contrasted with balancing-off, 45–46 Divine power needed for Stage-II and Stage-III, 72, 166–167, 213 of horrors, how related to justification and sanctification, 52 of horrors as the Savior's job, 52, 66 of horrors required for Divine goodness to horror participants, 46 post-mortem survival required for Stage II and Stage III, 71, 211–212 three stages of, 47–48, 66–71 definition, Chalcedonian affirms two distinct and unconfused natures and one person, 2, 27, 54–55, 80, 108–109, 122, 303 alleged to have no clear meaning, 80, 108 central to Stage-I horror defeat, 108 merely negative vs. some positive content, 81–83, 105–106, 164 not explicit in the New Testament, 26–27 quoted, 53–54
  underdetermines Christology, 54, 89
De Lugo, Joannes, 271 dependence, ontological, 125–129, 304–307 Descartes, 3, 114
dispensationalism, biblical, 219
Dodd, C. H., 206, 213
domestication, 218–219, 227–228
Douglas, Mary, 272n.56, 278nn.58–59, 279nn.63–64
Dunnill, John, 243, 249–250 dysfunction, human social made permanent by the doctrine of hell, 229–230 must end for God to make good on the human condition, 228–230 produces systemic evils in humanly contrived social systems and institutions, 203–204, 228

"Ego Berengarius,", 296–297, 302, 306–307 eschatology, futuristic vs. realized, 206, 282 essentialism, 111–112
eucharist
  as fostering Stage-II horror defeat, 282, 308–313 as one-flesh union with Christ, 178 consubstantiation, 299
  how worthily received, 284–286 impanation, 304–307, 305n.42, 308–309 reformed critiques of corporeal presence, 289–291 spiritual eating, flesh-and-blood food, 297–299 the second sacrament, 282–283 transubstantiation, 299–302
  ubiquity, 85, 302–304, 305n.42
  where embodied persons meet an embodied God, 292–296 whether or not and what sort of sacrifice, 307–309 evil
  as disorder or failure of fit, 48 as falling short, 48
  as non-being or privation, 48–49 see evils, horrendous; horrors evils, horrendous
  as commonplace, 35
  defined, 32–34
  exampled, 32–34
  see horrors

fides quaerens intellectum, 26–27 forms of life, 13
Forsyth, P. T., 60n.9, 61–64, 67, 147–148, 152–153, 163–165
Francis of Assisi, 218, 236

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

free will, 31–32
  created misuse of as originating human non-optimality problems, 31–32 what enables angels and humans to be as Godlike as a creature can be, 31 Freud, Sigmund, 120
friendship
  as a model for God's relation to the Church, 156n.38, 158–160, 183 as a model for Trinitarian relations, 156–158 as a model of functionally inclusive personality, 155–160 as analyzed by Cicero, 102, 155–156 between human body and human soul?, 220–221 of the Divine persons and the soul of Christ, 102, 181

Gandhi, Mohandas K., 236
Gerrish, Brian, 297, 301 gift, 278–281
God
  as having which essential properties?, 87–89 as maximally well-organized lover, 181–184 as really distinct from creatures, 171 as sacrificer, priest, and victim, 274–278 as self-diffusing Goodness, 174–176 beatific personal intimacy with, incommensurately good for created persons, 40 creates in order to be Christ for a world such as this, 191 for medievals, the unitary ultimate explainer in a different ontological category from the explananda, 172–173 in the Divine nature, not radically vulnerable to horrors, 142 preferably passible, 141–142 the incommensurate good, 40 the One-over-many, 171–173 whether prioritizing independence vs. functional collaboration in creatures, 150–152 whose horror-participation defeats ours, 41 whose love for material creation expresses itself in assimilative and unitive aims, 39–41, 150, 190, 212, 221 see also immanence, Divine; love, Divine; omnipotence, Divine; predestination, Divine; purpose, Divine Godot, 87
Goodness, Divine
  alone valuable enough to defeat horror-participation, 46–47 dimensions of, 44–45
  incommensurate with created goods and evils, 40 Gore, Charles, 20, 55, 60–65, 83, 90–91 see also Christology, kenotic Gregory Nazianzen, 54–55
Gregory of Nyssa, 49, 102
Grosseteste, Robert, 174, 180–181

Hall, Francis J., 84n.8, 85
Hartshorne, Charles, 193–194
Henry of Ghent, 172
hermeneutics
  a philosophical subject, 25 medieval, 21, 57–58
Hick, John, 7–10, 24, 80, 100n.44
Honorius of Autun, 174
horrors
  Adam's fall doesn't explain human radical vulnerability to, 36 ante-mortem, hell enough without post-mortem extension, 230 balancing off vs. defeat of, 45–46 contrasted with outrageous injustices and cold-bloodedness, 34 defeat of, requires God to make good on the Divine project of embodied persons, 212 defined, 32–34
  not defeated by any package of merely created goods, 46–47 not well managed by moral categories, 36–37, 148

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

participation in, a form of bloody sacrifice, 270–278 prima vs. ultima facie reasons to doubt positive meaning, 211 rooted in metaphysical mis-matches, 37–38, 48–50, 194–195 soteriological problems reformulated in terms of, 37, 66, 212 Stage-I and Stage-III defeat of requires changes on the outside, 47, 148–149
Stage-II defeat of requires changes on the inside, 47–48, 149
Stage-II defeat of requires life after death, 71, 211
Stage-III defeat of ends radical vulnerability to horrors, 48
Stage-III defeat of requires human immunity to death, 71, 212 Hubert, Henri, 247–249, 271 human beings
as having a vocation to personalize the material, 40–41, 208–11 as hybrid – personal animals, enmattered spirits, embodied persons, 142–143, 161, 221–223 as not robust enough to take full blame for horrors, 50–51 as political animals, 207, 228–230 for latin medievals, happiness of involves both body and soul, 221 for Swinburne, essentially souls, only contingently embodied, 115 many philosophical theories of, 115, 118, 219–221 whose souls have a natural inclination for their bodies, 220–221 hypothesis, cosmological, 39–41, 150–151, 190, 212, 216–219, 221 idealisms

allow for a high degree of Divine immanence, 191–194 and the problem of evil, 193–194 bundle or stream of consciousness theories of, 164 Hartshornean, 193–194
panentheistic, 191–198
pantheistic, 191–198
sometimes forward the organic unity of the universe, 192, 194 Whiteheadian, 193–194
Illingworth, J. R., 61n.15 immanence, Divine better accommodated by pantheism or panentheism than by Incarnation, 191–192 impanation, 304–307 Incarnation
an end in itself vs. a means to cosmic perfection, 179–181, 183, 185 even if humans hadn't sinned?, 174–181, 183, 187–188 for Scotus, logically independent of redemption, 183–184 freely and contingently chosen by God, according to medieval Latin theology, 188–189 inevitable given human non-optimality problems and God's creative aims?, 187–190 multiply possible?, 198–199 necessary for solving the sin-problem?, 183 see also Christ; Christology, in general; Christology, kenotic; Christology, medieval metaphysics of infallibility of Christ's human nature?, 64–65 of which authorities?, 20

James, William, 164
Jesus, the historical, 4, 23–28
Judgment, Last
establishes a juridical connection between ante-mortem and post-mortem careers, 237–239 how final?, 237–240
how public?, 238
a New Testament emphasis, 224 not congruent with Stage-II and Stage-III horror defeat, 239–240 Julian of Norwich, 156n.38, 160–161, 168–169, 222, 278n.57, 282 justification vs. sanctification, 52

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

Kant, Immanuel, 145, 148
Kaufmann, Gordon, 5–6 knowledge, carnal, 222, 234–236

language games, 7, 13
Lawton, John, 81, 85, 99, 164, 164n.72
Leach, E. R., 249
Leibniz, Gottfried, 3
Lewis, C. S., 218
Lombard, Peter, 55–57, 59, 80
love, Divine
  assimilative aim prima facie self-defeating, 39 targets material creation with twin aims, 39 unitive aim drives towards personal intimacy and Incarnation, 39–40 would defeat horror-participation within the frame of the individual horror-participant's life, 45 would not subject some individual created persons to horrors simply for the benefit of others or to enhance cosmic excellence, 45 see also hypothesis, cosmological Luther, Martin, 35–36, 85–86, 286n.16, 302–304, 307

McEvoy, James, 174n.9
martyrdom, 264–270, 277
Mascall, Eric, 105, 166n.73 matter
  good vs. an evil to be left behind, 49–50 Mauss, Marcel, 247–249, 271, 278, 281 Milgrom, Jacob, 245–246, 248n.21. 251–259 miracles
  Christ as the greatest of, 4 Divine power to perform?, 58–59, 76–78, 214–215 excluded by Divine policies?, 77, 214, 216–219 performed by Christ?, 4, 58–59, 64–65 required by Stage-III horror defeat, 215 Moberly, R. C., 144–148, 152–153, 164–167 Moltmann, Jürgen, 75, 106n.67 monophysitism, 123
Morris, Thomas, 129n.27

nature, Christ's human according to Chalcedon, complete and not confused with the Divine nature, 2, 54, 139 as having emotions, 58 characterized a priori or on the basis of historical facts?, 60 compatible with what sort of defects?, 57, 72–79 how full of grace?, 56–58 how much and what kind of knowledge?, 56, 60–65 radically vulnerable to horrors, 66–67 sinlessness vs. impeccability of, 57–58, 64–66, 79 source of miracle-working power?, 58–59, 64–65 subject to human development, 61–65, 67–68 neo-scholastics, 3
neo-Thomists, 3
Nestorianism, 84, 114, 122–123

Ockham, William, 27, 135, 135n.37, 140, 221, 305–306
Ogden, Shubert, 107n.68
omnipotence, Divine minimally measured as power to enable a wholesome integration of human personality into bodily life, 50 Origen, 49

Paul of Samosata, 102
panentheism, 191–198
pantheism, 191–198
person, metaphysically construed Boethius' definition of, 80, 109 bundle- or stream-theories of, 164 Duns Scotus' theory of, 123–128
  Richard of St. Victor's definition of, 152 person, psychologically construed meaning-making an essential function of, 195 one vs. two subjects of consciousness in Christ, 83–85, 94–95

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

personality
childhood development of, 92–94, 154–155, 161–162 human, designed for collaboration with an Inner Teacher, 149–152, 161 inclusive vs. exclusive, 145–148, 152–153 metaphysical and psychological as logically independent and complementary, 163–166 Phillips, D. Z., 7, 25
Pike, Nelson, 42
place, ways of being in circumscriptively, 300, 302 definitively, 300, 302
repletively, 302
Plantinga, Alvin, 42
pluralism
as retaining the symbolic richness of world religions, 6–7 endorsed by Schleiermacher and Tillich, 8 forwarded by Hick and Cupitt, 8 Porphyry, 262
positivism, logical denied cognitive content to religious systems of thought, 7–8 forwarded a verifiability criterion of meaning, 7 predestination, Divine for Scotus, prior in the order of explanation to Divine consideration of sin, 183–184 presumptions against Incarnation, 55–56 assign rebuttable burdens of proof, 55–57, 68 of maximally shared Goodness, 175–176 of messy human development, 67–68 of perfection in Christ's human nature, 56–57 of perfection relativized to stages of human development, 63, 65 of vulnerability to and actual horror-participation, 66–67 see also nature, Christ's human priesthood
after the order of Melchizedek, 312–313y everlasting, 312–313
its function to sacrifice?, 307–308 martyr, after the order of Job, 309–312 of all believers, 308
of bold believers, 311–312 of Christ, 310–313
problems, non-optimality, 1 as defining soteriology, 29 differently conceptualized, 17, 29–30 reformulated in terms of horrendous evils, 37, 52 Pseudo-Dionysius, 56
purpose, Divine analyzable into assimilative and unitive aims in creation, 39–41, 150, 190, 212, 221 analyzable into successive instants of nature, 181 consistency of, 175, 295–296 finds focus in human being, 212, 221–222 structured by means and ends, 180–183

Rahner, Karl, 231
realism, sceptical
a motive for rejecting historicism, 106–107 as breaking the link between cognitive content and epistemic decidability, 10 as counting many well-developed positions rational, 11–12 undercuts arrogance, 12 reasons
a priori vs. a posteriori, 60, 61–62, 66 global, inadequate where horrors are concerned, 42–44 justifying vs. explanatory, 42–44 reduplication, 130
relations, non-mutual, 126–128, 126n.25 renewal, cosmic biblical portraits, 223–224 horror-defeating criteria, negative vs. positive, 226–237 medieval Latin criteria, ontological vs. juridical, 224–226

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

resurrection
  conditionally necessary on Divine love for material creation and for human being(s), 212 enjoys biblical and credal support, 213–14 into the same enough body?, 221 part of the earliest Christian kerygma, 213 Richard of St. Victor, 152, 156–158 rites of passage, 249–250 roles, soteriological both demand and limit perfections in Christ's human nature, 57 many and overlapping, 15–17, 57
  see also soteriology Rupert of Deutz, 174

sacrament
  ease of access for developmental creatures, 287–289 material vs. personal, bogus dichotomy, 283–284, 286–287 means of grace, 282
  two dominical, 282
  worthiness to receive the, 284–286
  see also eucharist sacrifice
  biblical reservations, 262–263 biblical types of, 251–259 conceptuality of, religiously entrenched, 242–243 eucharistic, 308–309 Greek types of, 259–260 horror participation as type of, 270–278 logics of, 244–250
  martyrdom as type of, 266–270 philosophical objections to, 261–262 role of blood in, 251–252 role of scapegoat in, 248, 256–257 transaction as material transfer of negative or positive religious force, 247–249, 254–257 salvation, universal, 49, 51
Schleiermacher, Friedrich, 8, 138
Scotus, John Duns, 27, 56, 126–128, 126n.25, 132–133, 135n.37, 140, 172–173, 181, 183, 188, 221, 304–305 sin
  Adam's as the origin of evil, 31–32 high-handed vs. unwitting, 253, 255–257 violation of God's prohibitive vs. performative commands, 253 Sophists, 262
soteriology Adam's fall vs. Job's complaint, 32 focussed on death, sin, or meaning?, 32, 205 in Western Christianity, focussed on the problem of sin, 31–32 neo-orthodox focus on meaning, 206 ontological analyses of, 48–49, 79 point of departure for Christology, 1–2 twin non-optimality problems, 1–2, 18, 29–30, 37, 52 specification, 130–133
Spiegel, Shalom, 266n.51
Stoicism
  admirable but elitist, 206, 269–270 counselled by Tillich, 205 recognizes the material order as indifferent to personality, 273 Suarez, Francisco, 271
Swinburne, Richard, 114–123, 140–141, 143

Taylor, Jeremy, 284–285
Temple, Frederick, 82
Temple, William, 13n.9, 65, 100–104, 138, 152, 162, 164 terrorism, 210–211
theism, restricted standard, 1 theology
  as tradition-based creativity, 20 Barthian and Yale-school "narrative,", 24–25 correlation as a method of, 26 dogmatic vs. explanatory, 26–27 liberation, 206
  natural vs. revealed, 3 neo-orthodox, 205–206

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-68600-6 - Christ and Horrors: The Coherence of Christology
Marilyn McCord Adams
Index
More information

questioning and disputing as a method of, 20 whether philosophy has a role in, 24–28 theory
as explanation, 1–2, 14–15, 29 as fostering conceptual adjustments, 16–17 as positing explanatory roles, 1–2, 15–17, 29 construction of, 13–18
criteria for evaluating, 2, 11, 29, 89, 106 Thomasius, 86
Tillich, Paul, 8, 138, 205–206 tradition
whether or not consistent, 20–21 whether or not infallible, 20
transubstantiation, 299–301
Trinity argued for from Ciceronian friendship, 156–158 defended from perfect productivity, 185–186 doctrine of appropriation, 167–169 Social, 89, 116–118
Western doctrine of posits one action, one will ad extra, 90, 150, 166–167 truth
as correspondence with Reality, 7, 11 literal vs. metaphorical or mythological, 7–8 pursued by the method of coherence, 11 unity of, 24–26
Tübingen, school of, 86
Turner, Victor, 249

ubiquity, 85–86, 302–304, 305n.42
union, hypostatic cashed as ontological dependence without potency-actualization, 125–129, 139 contrasted with dynamic or functional union, 165–166 universe, the unity of the organic in the idealist sense?, 192, 194–197 secured by God as One-over-many, 171–173, 199

Weston, Frank, 60, 62–65, 90–99, 119, 121, 152, 164
Wiles, Maurice, 80
Wolf, Christian, 3
worldviews
biblical, 24–25
religious, 14
scientific, 4

Young, Frances, 250–251, 260–262

Zwingli, Huldrych, 290–291, 302–303

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org