Contents

Preface xi
Sources of extracts used in the text xv

1 Introduction 1
1 The main elements in academic writing 2
2 You and your writing task 4
3 You and your subject matter 7
4 You and your reader 12
5 Your language: form and structure 15

Part I Reflection and Research 19

2 Reflection: asking questions and proposing answers 21
1 Speculative thinking and writing 22
2 Choosing a topic 24
3 Kinds of question 27
4 Coming to terms with an essay topic 35
5 Summary 51

3 Interpretation: reading and taking notes 53
1 The ‘problem’ of reading 54
2 Evidence, interpretation and fact 57
3 What an author does 65
4 An author’s major motives 69
5 Modes of analysis 77
6 An author’s structural intentions 79
7 Interpreting a difficult text 82
viii – Contents

Part II The Dynamics of an Essay 89

4 Introductions 91
1 The constituents of an essay 92
2 The constituents of an introduction 94
3 The use and misuse of introductory material 95
4 Setting out your case 98
5 Writing an introduction to a research paper 107

5 Middles 111
1 Some common problems 112
2 The uses of outlines 116
3 Expanding a case 117
4 Summary 133

6 Endings 134
1 Recapitulation 134
2 Mood: suggestion and implication 136
3 Variations on a theme 140

Part III Language 145

7 You, your language and your material 147
1 Subjective and objective: the uses of ‘I’ and ‘we’ 148
2 Confusing yourself with your material 151
3 Quoting – and not quoting 161
4 Some verbs of enquiry: how to use them 163

8 Analytical language 1: sentences 167
1 Discrimination and confusion 168
2 Elements of sentence structure 169
3 Participants, processes and circumstances 177

9 Analytical language 2: rhetorical strategies 194
1 Analysing versus describing 194
2 Defining 199
3 Comparing and contrasting 207
Contents – ix

10 Cohesion and texture 215
   1 Determinants of cohesion and texture 215
   2 Revising and improving text 221

11 Conventions of academic writing 230
   1 Academic culture 230
   2 A skeleton key to stylistic conventions 232

Appendices
   1 Writing book reviews 240
   2 Sample analyses of essay topics 243
   3 A revised manuscript 252

Index 257