

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-76551-0 - Egypt and the Limits of Hellenism

Ian S. Moyer

Table of Contents

More informationContents

List of figures and table	page vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction: the absence of Egypt	I
Representing Egypt: ethnography and Orientalism	2
Representing Egypt: imperial and colonial histories	11
The plan of this book: sources and histories	36
1 Herodotus and an Egyptian mirage	42
Approaching the mirage	43
The priests say, the priests say . . .	51
The Egyptian mirage: priestly genealogies	63
The Egyptian mirage: Late Egyptian relations with the past	68
Herodotus' use of the Egyptian mirage	74
Conclusion	82
2 Luculentissima fragmenta : Manetho's Aegyptiaca and the limits of Hellenism	84
Manetho in context(s)	85
Structure and chronology	103
"Egyptian narrative history"	114
"The content of the form": king-list, prophecy, and pharaonic ideology	125
Conclusion	140
3 The Delian Sarapis aretalogy and the politics of syncretism	142
Sarapis and syncretism	144
The story according to Apollonios and Maiistas	153
A priest's tale: narrative patterns and Egyptian identity	157
The genealogy of the priests	161
Dreams, divine commands, and the Egyptian Königsnovelle	165
The trial	175
Hellenism and the hymn of Maiistas	179
The aretalogy and the history of Egyptian religion on Delos	194
Conclusion	205

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-76551-0 - Egypt and the Limits of Hellenism

Ian S. Moyer

Table of Contents

More information

vi	Contents
4	Thessalos and the magic of empire	208
	Who is Thessalos? The author and his dates	211
	Interpreting Thessalos, locating magic	219
	The king and I: Thessalos and the Nechepso tradition	228
	Thessalos' magical initiation into the Egyptian priesthood	248
	Betraying the secret: the appropriation and marketing of esoteric wisdom	264
	Epilogue	274
	Appendix I Text and translation of the Delian Sarapis aretalogy (IG XI. 1299)	282
	Appendix II Translation of the Madrid manuscript of Thessalos, De virtutibus herbarum (Codex Matritensis Bibl. Nat. 4631)	287
	Appendix III Dating the composition of Thessalos, De virtutibus herbarum	293
	Bibliography	298
	Index	340