

Index

- A Boat Leaving Harbour* 18
A Certain Tendency in French Cinema 80
A Man With a Movie Camera 17, 42–3, 128
A Runaway World? 149
A Wife Among Wives, and: Colin Young on 140; David MacDougall on 136; metaphor of the anthropological task 136; techniques 135; theme of marriage 135–6
 Abu-Lughod, Lila 152 aesthetics, and visual anthropology 2
 Agee, James, on D.W. Griffith 27, 138
 Amin, Idi 133
 Anderson, Lindsay 78
 Andrew, Dudley 73, 74, 84 anthropological cinema 78, and: Jean Rouch 90–1, 91–2, 97–8, 118–20; To Live with Herds as turning point 124–5; MacDougall, David and Judith 122, 123; ways of seeing 90–1 anthropological television: and Melissa Llewelyn-Davies 170; nature of 151; see also Llewelyn-Davies, Melissa; Maasai film cycle anthropology, and: attitude towards images 5; attitude towards role of vision 5–7; changes in 170; conservatism of 2, 85; contemporary practice 10; critique of scientific ethnography 149–50; David Turton on changes in 169–70; demise of perspectival visual mode 39; development of modern 29; development of scientific ethnography 17; dismissal of visual anthropology 4; early cinema 16, 25; emergence of inter-war ‘British’ school 63–4; enlightenment way of seeing 66; establishment in universities 86; evolution of modern British 9–10; form of art or cinema 9; influence of First World War on development of 29; modernism and development of 16–17; objectivity, Victorian concerns over 21–2; postwar clarification of national traditions 85; postwar consolidation of 85–7; postwar expansion of 1, 72; postwar fragmentation of 86; postwar relationship with cinema 31, 71–2, 74; postwar withdrawal from society 72; professional legitimisation 5; professionalisation of 63–4; public image of 149; rejection of industrial civilization 28–9; salvage 23–4; symbolic birth of modern 15; text-based tradition 3; vision, centrality of 171; visual material, disappearance of 25; visual, 171–2; visualist bias of 6–7, 67; visualizing, and; Malinowski 45; wariness of television 150; ways of seeing 7–8 anthropology of women 157; and Masai Women 157
 Antonioni, Michelangelo 72, 77, 78, 79, 112
Argonauts of the Western Pacific 29, 43, 44, 47, 129, and: publication of 46; visual quality of 45 art, and: visual anthropology 2; as form of anthropology 9; development of modern 37–8; diagram as emblem of modern 38; nature of abstract 38; see also Cubism Asch, Tim 88
 attractions, cinema of 19, 23
 Auden, W.H. 61
 Aurukun films 140–5, and: content 142; conversation 141–2, 143; David MacDougall on 141; Familiar Places 142–3; Fred Myers on 141; methodological innovations 141–2; participatory cinema 141–2; political context of 141, 142, 143; relationship between film-makers and subjects 141; Take-Over 142, 143–5; voice 144, 144–5
 Australian Institute of Aboriginal Studies 140

214 Index

- Balikci, Asen 88
Balinese Character 87–8
 Banks, Marcus 2
 Barker, Pat, and: eyes metaphor 33–4;
 First World War trilogy of 33
 Barthes, Roland 119
 Bateson, Gregory 87; influence on of W.H.R. Rivers 43
 Baudelaire, Charles, and photography 60 Bazin, André 78, 129, 131 and: cinema as process of exploration and discovery 73;
 direct cinema 83–4; on Flaherty's vision 49–50; Italian neorealist cinema 74–6;
 notion of deep-focus photography 73
 B.B.C. 150
 Benjamin, Walter 56
 Bentham, Jeremy 59
 Berger, John 36, 56, 100, and: on Cubism 38, 39; on photography and films 24, 50; on seeing 44; 'ways of seeing' 34
 Bergman, Ingmar 77
Berlin – Symphony of a Great City 113, 128
 Boas, Franz 5, 21
 Bondanella, Peter, and Italian neorealist cinema 75
 Bouquet, Mary 65; on Rivers' kinship method 36
 DeBouzek, Jeanette 99
 Braque, Georges 39
 Bresson, Robert 50
 British Free Cinema, see Free Cinema, British
 Britten, Benjamin 61
Broken Blossoms 26, 28, 42
 Buñuel, Luis 5
- Calder-Marshall, Robert, on Robert Flaherty 46
 camera, and: Jean Rouch's use of 98; privileged camera style 138; use of by Margaret Mead 87–8
 Cavalcanti, Alberto 61, 128 Cézanne 9, 32, 40; and doubt 37; as transitional figure 37
 Chagnon, Napoleon 88 Chronique d'un été 92, 112–117, and: as key test of New Wave 112; as new departure for Rouch 112; central preoccupation of 114; collaboration with Edgar Morin 112; confinement 115; happiness 114; isolation 115;
 'mechanical civilization' as the focus 112–13, 115; Melville's The Confidence Man 117; noise 115; structure 114;
 style of 113; summary 113; technique 116; the city 114; themes of 117; truth
 114, 116; vision of 113; voice 113–14, 117; work 114–15
 cinéma vérité 77, 78–82, and:
 characteristics of 80–1; context of 81–2;
 Jean Rouch 79–80, 80; roots of 79;
 techniques 81; technological innovation 81; see also Chronique d'un été cinema, and: anthropological interpretation of 100; anthropology 9, 12, 25; as expression of modern era 28;
 as site for Romantic project 120; Berger on contrast with photography 24; birth of 15, 16; cinema of attractions 19, 23; city symphony 128; D. W. Griffith 25–8; despised by intellectuals 60;
 development of documentary film 17, 29; development of early 25–6; exhibitionism of early 19; film-maker/audience relationship 73–4; modernism and development of 16–17; postwar development of 71–2; postwar divergence from anthropology 31;
 postwar European renaissance 72;
 postwar relationship with anthropology 71–2, 74; post-war and engagement with social reality 72; reality 73–4; subversive nature of postwar 85; techniques, development of 26–7; theatrical influence on early 18–19, 22–3, 26;
 Torres Straits expedition 15, 22, 23, 24 cinema, anthropological, see anthropological cinema cinématographe 26, and: Torres Straits expedition 15, 22–3; first use of 15;
 Lumière's use of 18
Citizen Kane 76
 city symphony 128
 classificatory method, and: ways of seeing 9
 Clifford, James 24, 29, 46, 97
Coalface 61
 comparative sociology, and: Radcliffe-Brown 65; normative stance of 66
Conflict and Dream 42 continuous space 12
 conversation, and: Aurukun films 141–2;
 David and Judith MacDougall 143;
 notion of in Turkana trilogy 138
 Corner, John, and John Grierson 61
 Craiglockhart hospital 41; and W.H.R.
 Rivers 33
Crisis 83
 Cubism 9, 32–3, and: diagram as emblem of 38; nature of 38, 39; origins of 37;
 Radcliffe-Brown 67

- Demolishing a Wall* 18
- diagram, as emblem of modernity 38; characteristics of 40
- Diary of a Maasai Village* 151, 163–7, and: change 166–7; intentions of 163–4; Llewelyn-Davies on 163; feminist approach 165–6; male viewpoint 164; nature of fieldwork 163; as soap-opera 163, 164–5; social integration 167; structure of 164; style of 164–5
- direct cinema 75, 77, 78, 82–5, and: Bazin 83–4; continuation of Italian neorealism 82; context of 81–2; Drew 82–3; features of 81; influence of television 84; observational cinema 84–5; origins 83; preoccupations of 84; techniques 83–4; technological innovation 83
- Disappearing World* 124, 150, 151, 153, 155, 167, 169; constraints of 158; origins of 154
- documentary, postwar redefinition of 153
- documentary cinema, and: characteristics of 29; Flaherty's conception of 51; Grierson and educative nature of 62; influence of First World War 30; interwar development of 29, 30–1, 58; political control 58–9, 63; postwar developments 72, 78–9, 81–2; Robert Flaherty 47; role of Grierson 59; theme of work 61
- documentary film, development of 17
- documentary television, nature of 153, 154
- doubt, and: Cézanne 37; W.H.R. Rivers 40
- Drew, Robert 72, 79, 81, 82–3, 98, 162; features of his cinema 84; on direct cinema 82
- Durkheim, influence on Radcliffe-Brown 65
- Eaton, Mick 96
- Eisenstein, Sergei 9, 39, 40, 109; on montage 11; technique 51
- Eliot, T.S. 60
- Ely Cathedral 5
- Empire Marketing Board 124
- enlightenment cinema, and David and Judith MacDougall 121, 122, 123
- enlightenment project, characteristics of 51; and Radcliffe-Brown 45
- enlightenment vision, and: characteristics of 58; David and Judith MacDougall 122; John Grierson's work 62–3; Gormley on character of 58; illumination 58; scientific ethnography 67
- enlightenment way of seeing 9, 57, 66, and: David and Judith MacDougall 122; Evans-Pritchard 66–7; vision 58
- epicritic personality 34
- ethnographic film 89; problems with 89
- ethnographic film-makers, Weinberger's satire on 1
- ethnography, and: changing concerns of 39; collapse of scientific paradigm 6; Malinowski's contribution to 51–2; rejection of hearsay 52; scientific, and Malinowski 45, 53, 54; scientific, and role of vision 53–4; scientific, development of 17
- Evans, Walker 27
- Evans-Pritchard, Edward Evan 64, and: enlightenment way of seeing 66–7; illumination 66–7; literary style 66; public profile of 149; role of vision 66; structural-functionalism 67; visualism of 66–7
- exhibitionism, and early cinema 19
- experiential knowledge, and Malinowskian anthropology 53
- experiential techniques, and ways of seeing 9
- eyes, Pat Barker's visual metaphor of 33–4
- Fabian, Johannes 6, 64, 66, 67; critique of visualist paradigm 58
- Familiar Places* 142–3
- Fellini, Federico 74, 77, 78; on neorealism 74
- feminism, and Masai Women 155, 156–7; Melissa Llewelyn-Davies 152, 155, 170
- feminist anthropology 170, 171–2
- feminist ethnography, and Melissa Llewelyn-Davies 166
- fieldwork, and: changes in visual representation 39; Diary of a Maasai Village 163; Haddon's recognition of importance of 20–1; Malinowski's innocent eye 45; Malinowski's model of 54, 55
- film, centrality to visual anthropology 2
- film criticism, emergence as intellectual discipline 72
- Fine Cut* TV series 152
- First World War 25, and: consequences of 44; graveyard of the eye 41; influence on development of documentary cinema and scientific ethnography 30; influence on emerging discipline of anthropology 29; turning point 17
- Firth, Raymond, and contrast between Radcliffe-Brown and Malinowski 64
- Fiske, John 161, 166; on television 165
- Flaherty, Robert 9, 30, 45–6, 73, 74, 75, 128; background of 47; centrality of

216 Index

Flaherty, Robert (cont.)

distinction between exploration and revelation 49; characteristics of films 49, 51; context of cinematic project 47; contrasted with D.W. Griffith 48; his cinema described as 'taxidermic' 50; humanist impulse of 47; innocent eye 47; intentions of 47; Malinowski 45–6, 54–5; Moana described as documentary 47; modern reception of work 62; non-preconception 50; on relationship with Inuit 48; painterly nature of work 56; repudiation of montage 51, 56; reputation established by Nanook of the North 47; romantic impulse 46, 50–1; similar approach to ethnographic fieldworkers 48; technique and method 48, 49, 50; transitional figure 30; utilisation of personal experience 48; vision of 47, 49–50, 50–1

Forman, Denis 153; and innovative programme-making 154

Fortes, Meyer 64

400 Blows 78

Frazer, Sir James 20, 55

Free Cinema, British 77; context of 78

French New Wave, see New Wave, French 77

Gardner, Robert 88

Geertz, Clifford, on Evans-Pritchard 66–7; on Malinowski 53, 55

gender, and: Diary of a Maasai Village

165–6; Masai Women 155, 156–7, 160;

Melissa Llewelyn-Davies 152, 155; The Women's Olamal 159–60, 162 genealogical method, and: contribution of W.H.R. Rivers 35–6; ways of seeing 9

General Ethnography 22

Gennep, Arnold Van 96

Germany, Degree Zero 75

Ginsburg, Faye 158, 171

Gioia, Herb di 129, 130

Gluckman, Max, and David and Judith MacDougall 139

Godard, Jean-Luc 112

Gormley, Antony, on character of enlightenment vision 58

Granada Television 150; Disappearing World series 153; innovative programme-making 154

Grass 60

Great War, see First World War

Griaule, Marcel 97–8; hostility to Les Maîtres Fous 90

Grierson, John 9, 31, 57, and:

characteristics of films 63; collaborators 61; commitment to social democracy 60; context of work 58; contrast with Radcliffe-Brown 65; development of documentary cinema 29; different vision from literary establishment 60; diversity of work 61; educative nature of documentary 62; enlightenment vision of 62–3; establishment of principles of documentary 59; establishment of professional identity 57; interests and methods 59–60; Lumière brothers 15, 17; modern resistance to his work 62; on Flaherty's Moana 47; portrayal of society 62; pursuit of state support 68; subject matter of 60; synthetic nature of films 63; vision of, and state power 59; work as a theme of his films 61

Griffiths, Alison 23

Griffith, D. W. 9, 23, 32, 33, 39, 40, 109, and: cinematic technique 26–7;

characteristics of his cinema 42;

contrasted with Robert Flaherty 48;

development of cinema 25–8; influences on 28; James Agee on 27; limited modernism of 28; stylistic innovations

138; see also The Birth of a Nation

Gruber, Jacob W. 23

Gunning, Tom, 23, 133; on exhibitionism of early cinema 19

Haddon, Alfred Cort, and: anthropological ideas of 23–4; conversion to anthropology 19–20; enthusiasm for new cinematic technology 15–16; man of his time 19; recognition of importance of fieldwork 20–1; salvage anthropologist 23; theatrical cinematic technique 26; Torres Straits expedition

15, 19–24; use of cinematographe 22–3;

use of photography 22; visual anthropology 25

Hancock, David 129; working method of 130

Hauka cult, see Les Maîtres Fous

Head, Henry 41

hearsay, rejection of in ethnographic practice 52

Heider, Karl 88

Hockings, Paul 2

Hollywood, postwar crisis in 82, 71–2

Housing Problems 61

Howes, David 6

'iconophobia' 5

illumination, and: enlightenment vision of

- the world 58; Evans-Pritchard's anthropology 66–7; Radcliffe-Brown 64; work of David and Judith MacDougall 122–3
- images, and: attitude of academic anthropologists 5; ethnographer's relationship with subject of study 3; 'iconophobia' 5
- Impressionists 37, 39
- Industrial Britain* 61
- innocence, and Malinowski's anthropology 45
- innocent eye, and: the ethnographer's eye 45; Jean Rouch 119; Malinowski 52; Robert Flaherty 47
- Instinct and the Unconscious* 42
- Intolerance* 25–6, 28, 42
- Inuit 47, 48
- Italy, postwar developments in cinema 74–8
- Ivens, Joris 128
- Jackson, Michael, and influence of W.H.R. Rivers 43
- Jaguar*, 92, 102–110 and: as development of themes of Les Maîtres Fous 102; as re-creation 108–9; audience response 108–09; characters in 103, 106; city 104, 106; contrasted with Les Maîtres Fous 108–110; cyclical time 107; record 105; experiment in improvisational cinema 102; history 106, 109; human agency 106; migration 105, 106; modernity 109–110; montage in 104, 106; origins of idea for 102; reintegrative impulse of 105; rejection of modernization paradigm 107; rite of passage motif 105, 107; satire on anthropology 107–8; structure 103–104, 105, 106, 107; summary 102–105; techniques 103, 104; themes of 102; transition 105–6; village as symbol of authenticity 106
- Jay, Martin 5, 25, 35, 91; on trench warfare 41
- Jennings, Humphrey 61
- Jie, the 133; in To Live with Herds 125–6, 127
- Kaplan, E. Ann 152
- Kern, Stephen 37; on birth of modernism 16
- kinship diagram 33, and: modernism of Rivers' vision 40; modernist interpretation of method 36–7; visual form of 36; W.H.R. Rivers 35–7
- Klee, Paul 32; on art 37
- knowledge, and: abstract representation of 37; David and Judith MacDougall 122, 123; Tempus De Baristas 147; The Wedding Camels 137; vision as source of 5, 7, 8, 67
- La Chasse au lion à l'arc* 92
- La Pyramide Humaine* 92
- Langham 35, 36; and Rivers' vision 40–1
- Lawrence, D.H. 60
- Leach, Edmund 57; public profile of 149
- Leacock, Richard 72, 81, 98, 162, 170; and direct cinema 83
- Les Dames de d'Avignon* and modern art 37, 37–8
- Les Maîtres Fous* 80, 92, 92–101, and: African urban life 96; audience reaction 94; commentary of 99–100; contrasted with Jaguar 108–110; as critical stage in development of Rouch's anthropological cinema 97–8; criticism of 'mechanical civilization' 97; criticisms of Rouch 95–6; as a game 99; hostile reception 90; integration 97; making of 98; modernity 109–110; montage 96; mythology surrounding 94; order/disorder 94, 96; possession 94; reason 100, 101; re-creation 108; rites of passage motif 95; ritual 95, 100, 101; Rouch's intentions 100; Rouch's vision 97; setting 92–3; sound 99–100; as start of Rouch's distinctive work 98; structure of 94–5, 96–7, 99; summary 93–4; techniques 93, 95, 96, 98–9; technological limitations 98; transformative power of 94–5
- Let Us Now Praise Famous Men* 27
- Lévi-Strauss, Claude 86; public profile of 149
- Llewelyn-Davies, Melissa 10, 72, 89, 151; anthropology of women 157; to The Women's Olamal 161–2; development of her approach 159; docu-soap form 165; distinctive approach of 170; experimentation 152; feminist ethnography 166; feminist perspective 152, 155, 165–6, 168, 170; influences on 154–5, 162; limitations of her approach 158, 159; Maasai film cycle 151–69; on Diary of a Maasai Village 163; on Memories and Dreams 169; on To Live with Herds 124–5; significance of 73; television 166, 170; visualist approach of early work 159
- Lorang's Way*, and: central character 135; individual agency 135; structure of 135

218 Index

- Lumière, Auguste 15, 17
- Lumière, Louis 15, 17–19, 22, and: inspiration for documentary film-makers 47; as man of his time 18; film techniques 18–19, 26; methods of 17; subject matter of first films 17–18
- MacDougall, David, and: exploratory faculty 74; innovations in film-making style 138; intellectualism 148; knowledge 147; on A Wife Among Wives 136; on Aurukun films 141; on Song of Ceylon 127, 132; on The Wedding Camels 136; on visual anthropology 171; privileged camera style 138; reason in his cinema 101; significance of 73; writings of 122; see also MacDougall, David and Judith
- MacDougall, David and Judith 10, 72, 89, 100–1, 162, and: Aboriginal politics 145; audience 123; character of their enlightenment cinema 121, 122, 123; cinematic style 126; collaboration with Australian Institute of Aboriginal Studies 140; contrast with Jean Rouch 122, 122–3, 124; conversation 143; enlightenment project of anthropological cinema 122, 123; evolution of their work 123; hierarchy 146; historical and political context of their work 123–4, 125–6; knowledge 122, 123; metaphysics of 122, 139–40, 142; methodological innovations 141–2; move to Kenya 133; observational cinema 129–30; parallels with Max Gluckman 139; participatory cinema 133, 141–2; participatory politics 145; postwar cinema 121; process of illumination 122–3; progressive innovation of 123; romanticism 145–6; technical roles 121; techniques 130–1, 131–2; vision of 122, 132–3, 145; work in India 146–7; see also A Wife Among Wives; Aurukun films; Lorang's Way; Photo Wallahs; Tempus De Baristas; The Wedding Camels; To Live with Herds; Turkana trilogy
- Malinowski, Bronislaw 3, 4, 9, 30, 35, 129, and: compared with Flaherty 54–5; contrast with W.H.R. Rivers 43; contrast with Radcliffe-Brown 64; contribution to modern ethnography 51–2; development of modern anthropology 20, 29; effect of First World War on 44; ethnographer's goal 47; exploration and revelation 49, 54, 55; fieldwork 54, 55; foundation of scientific ethnography 52; idiosyncratic method of 45; innocent eye 45, 52; literary aspirations of 45; literary style of 55; monographs 55; painterly nature of texts 55–6; portrait of Trobriand society 56; professionalisation of anthropology 63–4; repudiation of montage 56; revelatory nature of vision of 45; Robert Flaherty 45–6; romanticism 46, 52, 54, 55; techniques of participation and observation 53; transitional figure 30; vision of 45, 51–2; visionary nature of 53, 54; visual nature of his texts 45, 55–6; way of seeing 51–2
- Manchester ethnographers 139
- Marcus, George 11, and: influence of W.H.R. Rivers 43; Italian neorealist cinema 77; on characteristics of montage 28
- Marcus, Millicent 76
- Marshall, John 88
- Maasai film cycle 166
- Maasai film cycle 166, and: changing character of 152–3; and innovation 170; intellectual consistency of 152; Melissa Llewelyn-Davies' 151–69; see also Diary of a Maasai Village; Masai Women; Memories and Dreams; The Women's Olamal; Masai Manhood
- Masai Manhood* 151, 153, 155, 156
- Masai Women* 151, 153, 155–9, and: anthropology of women 157; argument of 158; as move away from salvage anthropology 155; feminist perspective 155; focus of 155; gender 156–7, 158–9, 160; limitations of 158, 159; narration 157, 158; partiality of 155; structure of 155–6; style of 157
- material culture, and visual anthropology 2
- McDougall, William 20
- Mead, Margaret 2; influence on emerging discipline of visual anthropology 87–8; interest in film and photography 87–8; public profile of 149
- Melville, Herman 117
- Memories and Dreams* 151–2, 166, 167–9, and: change 167; elegiac quality 169; ethical issues 167; feminism 168; Llewelyn-Davies' changing focus 168–9; montage 168; salvage paradigm 167; structure 167–8; theme of 167
- metaphysic 7–8; of David and Judith MacDougall 122, 139–40, 142; of presence 135; of To Live with Herds 132–3; of W.H.R. Rivers 33

- mise-en-scène* 12, 73, 84; and direct cinema 83–4
- Mitchell, Denis 170
- Moana* 47
- modernism, and: break with realism 37; birth of, Stephen Kern on 16; D.W. Griffith 28; development of anthropology and cinema 16–17; optimism of 39; way of seeing 9
- Modleski, Tania 166
- Moi, Un Noir* 92, 110–12; the city 111; epic quality of 110; journey motif of 111–12; origins 110; rite of passage motif 111–12; Rouch's commentary 110–11; structure 111–12; summary 110–11; transformation 112
- monographs, and Malinowski 55
- montage, and: definition 11; Eisenstein on 11; George Marcus on characteristics of 28; in Jaguar 104, 106; in Les Maîtres Fous 96; in Memories and Dreams 168; in To Live with Herds 126, 131; repudiation by Flaherty and Malinowski 51, 56; use of by D. W. Griffith 26–7; used in city symphony genre 128; ways of seeing 10–11
- Montaigne 107–8
- Moore, Henrietta 172
- Morin, Edgar 112–16, 118; on cinema 112
- Morphy, Howard 2
- Moser, Brian 124, 154
- multi-media, and visual anthropology 2
- museum ethnography, and visual anthropology 2
- Myers, Fred 20; on Aurukun films 141
- Nanook of the North* 46, 47, 48
- native culture, Haddon's view of 23–4
- natural science of society, see comparative sociology
- neorealism, Italian 74–8, and: André Bazin 74–5; Bazin and Rossellini 75, 76–7; Bondanella on 75; characteristics of 75–6; Fellini on 74; motivations of leading figures 75; role of director 76; social and political context of 75, 77; techniques 76; vision of world 74
- New Wave, French 77, 78; see also Chronique d'un été
- Nichols, Bill 137
- non-preconception, and Flaherty's cinema 50
- Nouvelle Vague, see New Wave
- objectivity, and photography 25; Victorian concerns over 21–2
- observation, Malinowski and technique of 53, 54
- observational cinema 75, and: audience 130; character of 129; direct cinema 84–5; film-makers role in 130; Hancock on working methods 130; To Live with Herds 129, 131–3
- ocularcentrism, crisis of 5–7, 25; and Jean Rouch 90; and W.H.R. Rivers 35
- On the Pole* 82
- Paisan* 75, 77
- Parsons, Talcott 86
- participant-observation, in Italian neorealist cinema 76
- participation, Malinowski and technique of 53, 54
- participatory cinema, and: Aurukun films 141–2; David and Judith MacDougall 133; Turkana trilogy 137–8
- Pennebaker, Donn 81; and direct cinema 83
- Photo Wallahs* 145, 146–7, and: hierarchy 146; location 147; nostalgia 147; photography 146; To Live with Herds 147
- photography, and: Berger on contrast with film 24; centrality to visual anthropology 2; condemnation by intellectuals 60; guarantor of objectivity 21–2; in Photo Wallahs 146; introduction as anthropological tool 21–2; problems with objectivity of 25; racial classification 21–2; Torres Straits expedition 21, 22, 24
- Picasso, Pablo 39, and modern art 37
- Pinney, Christopher 54, 146–7
- Potter, Dennis 170
- Primary* 82
- Principles of Visual Anthropology* 1–2
- progress, collapse of confidence in idea of 37
- protopathic personality 34
- Pudovkin, Vsevolod 11
- race, and use of photography for classification 21–2
- Radcliffe-Brown, Alfred Reginald 5, 9, 31, 35, 38, 57, 86, and: characteristics of structural-functionalism 67–8; comparative sociology 65; conceptualisation of society 66; context of work 58; contrast with John Grierson 65; contrast with Malinowski 64; Cubism 67; enlightenment project of 45; illumination as impulse 64; influences on 65;

220 Index

- Radcliffe-Brown, Alfred Reginald (cont.) intellectual interests of 65; negligible literary output 65; normative stance of vision 66; professionalisation of anthropology 57, 63–4; pursuit of state support 68; sterile intellectualism 67; unsatisfactory nature of his fieldwork 65; vision of 64, 69; way of seeing 64
- Ray, Sidney H. 20
- Read, Herbert 8; on Cézanne 37
reality, and cinema 73–4
Regeneration 33
- Reisz, Karel 78
- Reith Lecture, Edmund Leach's 1967
149
- Renoir, Jean 73, 74
Reports of the Torres Straits Expedition 22
- Resnais, Alain 77
Rethinking Visual Anthropology 2
- revelation, and: Malinowski's vision 45, 49, 54; Flaherty 49
- Richardson, Tony 78
- Richman, Michèle 107–8
- Rigby, Peter 125
- Rivers, W.H.R. 5, 9, 10, 20, 21, 32–43, and: background of 39; cinema 40; conflict of objective and subjective 40–1;
contrasted with Malinowski 43; Cubists 40; D.W. Griffith 42; death of 43; development of modern anthropology 29; doubt 40; Dziga Vertov 42–3; early and late modernism phases 33; effect of First World War on 42, 44; genealogical method 35–6; inability to visualize 40; influence of 32; influence on Radcliffe-Brown 65; intellectual context of 32–3; kinship diagram 35–7, 40; late modernism of 42; modern ambivalence towards 32; modernism of his vision 32, 33, 35; modernist phases of 39;
ocularcentrism 35; Pat Barker's First World War trilogy 33–4; personality of 40–1; Rivers-Head experiment 41–2;
significance of 33; Torres Straits expedition 35–6; treatment of shell-shock victims 41; vision, centrality of 34–5; visual anthropology 25
- Rivers-Head experiment 41–2
- romantic way of seeing 9, and: David and Judith MacDougall 145–6; Jean Rouch
119; Malinowski 45, 52, 54, 55; Robert Flaherty's cinema 46, 50–1
- Rome, Open City* 75, 77; as reflection of new world society 71
- Rony, Fatimah, on Robert Flaherty's
cinema 50
- Rossellini 71, 72, 73, 74, 76, and: Bazin's interpretation of 75, 76–7; cinematic techniques 71; on his methods 76
- Rotha, Paul, on Robert Flaherty 46, 49, 50
- Rothman, William, on Flaherty's Nanook of the North 50; on Jean Rouch 102
- Rouch, Jean 10, 72, 89, and:
anthropological cinema 90–1, 91–2, 118–20; cinéma vérité 79, 80; cinematic concerns 79–80; cinematic form 117, 118; consistency of theme 117, 118;
context of his cinema 80, 91–2, 117–18;
contrast with MacDougalls' 90–1;
criticisms of 95–6; decolonisation movement 92; determinism and spontaneity in his practice 99; distinctive use of camera 98; Dziga Vertov 80; experimentation 117; features of his cinema 80; film-making style 98–9; film as a game 99, 118–19; fusion of realism and fantasy 118; innocence 119;
interplay of freedom and constraint 99;
Les Maîtres Fous as crucial stage in development of his anthropological cinema 97–8; location of films 80; ocularcentrism 90; on filmgoers' understanding 91; on filming techniques 81; on the MacDougalls 101;
participatory anthropology 101;
personality 91; playful approach 118–19; reason 100, 101; romance 119; significance of 73; subject matter 98;
technological limitations 98;
transformative power of his cinema 94–5, 119; vision 97, 118, 119; as visionary 91; voice 119; *see also Chronique
d'un été; Jaguar; Les Maîtres Fous; Moi, Un Noir; Russian Revolution*, as watershed event 30
- Ruttman, Walter 113, 128
- salvage anthropology 23–24; and Masai Women 155
- salvage paradigm, and: Memories and Dreams 167; To Live with Herds 139
- Schaffer, Simon 21
- Schoedsacks, Ernest 60
- scientific ethnography, and: critique of 149–50; development of 17; distinctive vision of 57; enlightenment vision 67; establishment of 29, 30; foundations of 52; influence of First World War 30; influence on Melissa Llewelyn-Davies 154; interwar development of 30–1; interwar influences on 58; Malinowski

- 45, 53, 54; political control 58–9; role of vision 53–4; visualism 64
- Seligman, Charles 20
- Sica, Vittorio De 72, 74, 65, 76, 77, 78
- sight, First World War and loss of confidence in 41
- soap-opera, and Diary of a Maasai Village 163, 164–5
- social democracy, and John Grierson's work 60
- society, natural science of, see comparative sociology
- Song of Ceylon* 61, and: continuation of earlier tradition 128; David MacDougall on 127, 132; humanism of its vision 128; inspiration for To Live with Herds 124; Wright's intentions in 127
- Spencer, Baldwin 16
- Stalin, Josef 43
- Steiner, George 8
- Stocking, George 35
- Stoller, Paul 6–7, 102
- structural-functionalism 66, 67; characteristics of 67–8
- Take-Over* 142, 143–5
- Tanner, Tony 117
- Taussig, Michael, and influence of W.H.R. Rivers 43
- Taylor, Lucien 5, 171
- technology, and problem of objectivity 21–2
- television, and: nature of anthropological 150, 151; as medium for anthropology 150; attitudes towards 170; development of 153–4; documentary 153, 154; influence on direct cinema 84; Melissa Llewelyn-Davies 170; nature of viewing 153; postwar competition with cinema 71–2; soap opera 164–5; wariness of anthropologists 150
- Tempus De Baristas* 121, 125, 145, 146, 147–8, and: knowledge 147; as redemptive experience 148; time 147–8
- The Andaman Islanders* 64, 65
- The Ax Fight* 88
- The Bicycle Thief* 77
- The Birth of a Nation* 25, 42, and: attitude of critics 28; cinematic technique 27
- The Bridge* 128
- The Card Player* 22
- The Chair* 83
- The Confidence Man* 117
- The Drifters* 60–1; vision of 62
- The Eye in the Door* 33
- The Ghost Road* 33
- The House-Opening* 142
- The Origins of Ethnographic Film* 23
- The Predicament of Culture* 29
- The Wedding Camels*, and: contested society 137; David MacDougall on 136; exploration of knowledge 137; focus of 135–6; MacDougalls' intention 137; production of meaning 137; structure of 137
- The Women's Olamal* 151, 159–63, and: focus of 159–60; gendered perspective of 162; influences on 162; Llewelyn-Davies' perspective 161; partiality of 160; social reintegration 163; structure of 160–1; style of 161–2; techniques 162
- theatre, and influence on early cinema 18–19, 22–3, 26
- Three Horsemen* 142
- Thurn, E. F. Im 22
- To Live With Herds* 107, 121, 124–33, 146, and: argument of 126; anthropological cinema 124–5; cinematic style 126; classicism of 131; Colin Young on 132; cyclical rhythm of 126–7; didactic nature of 128–9, 132; historical context of 128; influence of Basil Wright 127, 128; integrity of pastoral life 139; MacDougalls' intentions 128–9; metaphysics of 132–3; montage 126, 131; observational cinema 129, 131–3; oppositions within 133; paradoxical nature of 132; realism of 131; structure of 125, 126–7; rejection of linear notion of progress 127; salvage paradigm 139; summary 126–7; techniques 130–1, 131–2; vision of 132–3
- Torres Straits expedition 9, 15, 19–24, and: academic dismissal of 4; modern anthropology 20; genealogical method 35; investigation of vision 52; methods used 20, 21; motivation for 19–20; photography 21, 22; problems of objectivity 21–2; recognition of importance of fieldwork 20–1; use of cinematographe 22–3; visual content of report on 20; W.H.R. Rivers 35–6
- tree imagery, and kinship method 36
- Trinh, Minh-ha 6, 166
- Truffaut, Francois 78, 80, 112; attack on cinematic conventions 80
- Turkana, the 133
- Turkana trilogy, and: central idea of 134; exploratory nature of 133–4; features of 137–8; limitations of 140; MacDougalls' original plan 134; metaphysics of presence 135; method 139; notion of

222 Index

- Turkana trilogy (cont.)
 conversation 138; participatory cinema 137–8; portrait of Turkana society 134; social flux 140; structure 134; style of 138–9; theatrical conception of 138; vision of 139–40; voice of 139–40; see also A Wife Among Wives; Lorang's Way; The Wedding Camels
- Turner, Victor 139
- Turton, David 151; on changes in anthropology 169
- UCLA film-makers, and observational cinema 129
- Umberto D* 75–6, 77, 78
- Un Chien Andalou* 5
- Under the Sun* TV series 150
- Vaughan, Dai, on Louis Lumière's film 18
- Vertov, Dziga 9, 11, 33, 39, 40, 128, and:
 characteristics of his cinema 80;
 development of cinematic technique 28;
 modern reception of work 62; modernist vision of 42–3
- video camera, and visibility of users 3
- Vincent, Joan 86
- Visconti, Luchino 74, 76
- vision, and: demise of perspectival mode 39; enlightenment way of seeing 58; Evans-Pritchard 66; films of Jean Rouch 90; First World War and loss of confidence in sight 41; position in modern anthropology 3, 5–7, 7–8, 171; role of in Malinowskian ethnography 44–5, 53–4; source of knowledge 5, 7, 8, 67; status in Western culture 5; Torres Straits expedition 20, 52; W.H.R. Rivers 34–5, 40; ways of seeing 7; see also ocularcentrism
- visual anthropology, and: academic marginality 2, 4; American influences on emerging discipline 87; content of a new 171–2; David MacDougall on 171; emergence as sub-discipline 1–2; experimentation 3; fields of enquiry 2; influence of Margaret Mead 87–8; postwar emergence of 72, 86–7, 87–9; scope for practitioners self-expression 3; seen as means of acquiring technical skills 4
- visualism 6, 67; and scientific ethnography 64
- visualist bias 67
- visualizing anthropology, and: centrality of W.H.R. Rivers 34; enlightenment way of seeing 57; influence of Pat Barker 33; Malinowski 45
- voice, and modern anthropology 6
- ways of seeing, and: anthropology 7; anthropological cinema 90–1; divergence of anthropology and cinema 31; emergence of different ways of 16; enlightenment 57, 58, 66; enlightenment, and David and Judith MacDougall 122; forms of 9; Malinowski's 45–6, 51–2, 52–3, 54; montage 10–11; origin of term 34; types of 9
- Weinberger, Eliot, satire on ethnographic film-makers 1
- Welles, Orson 73, 76
- Wilkin, Anthony 22
- Williams, Raymond 75
- Winston, Brian 63, 68, 88
- women, anthropology of 157
- women's movement 157; see also feminism
- Woodhead, Leslie 151
- Woolf, Virginia 60
- work, as theme of documentary cinema 61, 114–15
- Worlds Apart* TV series 150
- Wright, Basil 61, 127, and Song of Ceylon 124; see also Song of Ceylon
- Yanki No!* 82–3
- Young, Colin: and observational cinema 129; on A Wife Among Wives 140; To Live with Herds 132
- Zavattini, Cesare 74, 78, 129
- Zika, Damouré 98; and origins of Jaguar 102