

Contents

	List of figures	xi
	Preface and acknowledgements	xiii
	Abbreviations used in the text and bibliography	xvi
1	Phrasing the problem	1
	Introduction	1
	The Dorians in a 'sociology of knowledge'	4
2	The nature and expression of ethnicity: an anthropological view	17
	The rise and fall of instrumentalism	17
	Defining the ethnic group	19
	The genesis and maintenance of ethnic groups	26
	Summary	32
3	The discursive dimension of ethnic identity	34
	Ethnic groups in ancient Greece	34
	Myths of ethnic origins	40
	The Athenians: Ionians or autochthons?	51
	Dorians and Herakleidai	56
	Conclusion	65
4	Ethnography and genealogy: an Argolic case-study	67
	The ethnic populations of the Argolid	67
	The genealogies of the Argolid	77
	Decoding the genealogical grammar	83
	Staking the Heraklid claim	89
	Ethnicity and cult: Hera, Herakles and the Herakleidai	99
	Conclusion	106
5	Ethnicity and archaeology	111
	Excavating the ethnic group	111
	Archaeology and the 'Dorian invasion'	114
	Ethnic groups and archaeological cultures	128
		ix

Contents

	The archaeology of social praxis	131
	Conclusion	142
6	Ethnicity and linguistics	143
	Scripts and alphabets	143
	Greek dialect history: a synopsis	153
	Problematising linguistic diversity	162
	The Greek attitude to dialect	170
	The role of language in ethnicity	177
	Conclusion	180
7	Conclusion	182
	Chronological table	186
	Chronological table of authors cited in the text	188
	Bibliography	190
	Index	213