

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	page xi
1 Introduction: The Persistence of Romanticism	1
PART I KANT AND POST-KANTIAN ROMANTICISM
2 Kant, Hölderlin, and the Experience of Longing	31
3 Modernity and Expression: Kant on the Value of Absolute Music	52
4 How Is the Kantian Moral Criticism of Literature Possible?	71
5 Hölderlin’s Ethical Thinking: “The Processes of the Actual” in “Heidelberg”	85
6 Internal Transcendentalism: Wordsworth and “A New Condition of Philosophy”	102
PART II TWENTIETH-CENTURY PHILOSOPHICAL ROMANTICISMS: WITTGENSTEIN, CAVELL, AND THE ARTS
7 Hypotheses, Criterial Claims, and Perspicuous Representations: Wittgenstein’s “Remarks on Frazer’s The Golden Bough ”	127
8 How Can Tragedy Matter for Us?	145
9 Althusser and Ideological Criticism of the Arts	165
10 “A Continuing Task”: Cavell and the Truth of Skepticism	189
11 Plights of Embodied Soul: Dramas of Sin and Salvation in Augustine and Updike	205
12 Cavell and Hölderlin on Human Immigrancy	229
Index	247