

Index

- absence of answers, 343–344, 345, 350, 351, 352–353, 356
- absent presence, 227–231
cultural reverberations of, 231–236
mobile phones and, 236–239
- access to phones, in Philippines, 276, 278–279, 282, 283
- accessibility, 9, 23, 115–116, 118, 119, 140, 152, 194–197 management of, 8, 24, 54, 115, 154–155
teenagers and, 149–150, 262
- acknowledgment calls, 186
- address, terms of, 333–335
- adolescence
role of, in contemporary society, 147–149 role of mobile phones for, 149–151
see also teenagers; young people
- aesthetics, 54, 59–60, 61
- age, and use of mobile phones, 51, 63, 84, 104, 124
in Finland, 20–21, 28
see also teenagers
- allocation problem, 327–328
- answering machines, 123, 186, 237
- Apparatgeist*, 11, 305–312
theory of, 312–314, 316
- appointment-making, 70–71, 143–144, 198
- artificiality, 58
- Aspden, P., 83, 84
- asymmetry of information, 196–197, 290–291, 293
- asynchronous discourse, 159–161
- attitudes to mobile phones, 52, 53, 208–209
non-users, 116, 117, 119
users, 88, 116, 117
- audacity (chutzpah), 39–40
- availability, 22, 108
of another party, for conversations, 331, 333, 353, 357–358, 361, 368–369 control of, 9, 102–104, 203
gender and, 23
for teenagers, 149–155
- Bezeq (Israel), 31, 40
- bonds, maintaining, 105, 106, 108
- Bourdieu, P., 256
- boys, 256, 261, 271–272
and functional qualities of mobile phones, 262–263, 268
use of language in text messages, 184, 185
- Brown, M.E., 230
- Bulgaria, 18, 126–128
mobile phone use, 130–133
in emergencies, 134
mobile phones in popular culture, 135–136 promotion of mobile phones, 128–130
- business use, 21, 68, 118, 301
see also work, and leisure
- Calhoun, C., 141
- call waiting, 120, 122
- Caller ID, 120, 122, 293
- Calling Party Pays (CPP), 82
- care-giving, remote, 145–146
- CDMA (Code Division Multiple Access), 81
- Cellcom, 32–33, 37
- chain messaging, 158, 179–180
- chatting, 116, 124
- children
mobile phone use, 28, 213
telephone lines for, 120
text message users, 172
- class, 215
and mobile phone use, 208, 256, 259–261, 267–268
- clearance cues, 336, 337, 359, 360
- collective orientation, 71–72
- collective text messaging, 181–182

Cambridge University Press

0521807719 - Perpetual Contact: Mobile Communication, Private Talk, Public Performance

Edited by James E. Katz and Mark A. Aakhus

Index

More information

Index

387

- commitment, 105, 106, 107, 108 communication, pure, 307–308, 309
 communication technologies dialogic, 230–231
 models, 242–254
 see also ICTs; PCTs
 communications devices, reasons for use, 115–116
 communicative aspects, 22–23, 43–44, 60
 computing, and mass surveillance, 245, 246 concealed use, 164–166
 conditional relevance, in conversation analysis, 343–358
 consumption, 207–208, 209, 212, 216–219
 control, 9, 116
 of accessibility, 8, 115, 118
 by employers, 37, 73
 by parents, 73, 157, 196, 203–204
 conversation analysis, 321, 322–33
 conversations, 204–205
 formal/informal, 138, 200–202, 309
 speaker sequencing organization, 331–332
 ‘targeting’, 330, 357
 two-party, 326–327, 337–338
 utterance fitting, 332–333
 coordination, 140, 142–143, 157–158 primary/secondary levels, 235
 see also hyper-coordination;
 micro-coordination
 cost of mobile phones, 5–6, 123
 in Bulgaria, 130–131
 in Israel, 32
 in the Philippines, 276–277
 for teenagers, 150, 151
 credit barrier, 84–85
 credit cards, and mass surveillance, 245
 crime, and mobile phones, in Bulgaria, 132–333
 cronymism, in Korea, 69
 cultural artifacts, for text messaging, 187–188
 cultural differences, 110, 112–113, 117–121, 124–125
 cyber-community, 232
 cynicism, 218, 219

 deaf people, usefulness of mobile phones, 263, 270
 de-contextualization effects, 96–102
 DeSanctis, G., 304–305
 digital competence, 257, 263, 265–267, 269

 distribution rule, 328–329, 356
 Dittmar, H., 268
 driving, using mobile phone, 97, 117, 239
 Dudley, K., 92
 dyslexic people, usefulness of mobile phones, 263, 270

 education, in Finland, 175–176
 efficiency, 24, 215
 Ellul, J., 250
 e-mail, 231, 232 embarrassment, 98–99, 116, 117
 emergency use, 8, 55, 103, 119, 134
 emotional support, use of phones for, 280, 281 emotions, 27–28
 endogenous relations, 237–238
 English, use of, in text messages in Finland, 184
 epideictic discourse, 6–7
 Europe, comparisons of mobile phone use, 110, 113
 everyday life, coordination of, 8, 23, 55, 95–96, 146
 exchanges of mobile phones, 212–213
 expert framing, 7, 9–10
 expressive use, 140, 158–162, 166, 171

 family coordination, 56, 172, 198 family relationships, 56, 278, 280–281 fashion accessory, 48, 54, 59, 60
 Federal Communications Commission, 89
 fetishization of communication, 201
 Finland, 15–16, 20–24
 lifestyle, 24, 27–28
 speech culture, 24–27
 teenagers’ social position, 175–177
 text messaging by teenagers, 170–175, 177–191
 first-speakership rules, 327
 floating world, 234–236
 folk framing, 7–9
 France, 17–18, 138
 behavior of mobile phone users, 94–108 communications technology, 193–194
 mobile phone use, 193–205
 freedom, 24, 50
 functional needs, 315–316
 functional use, 142, 155–158 functionality of mobile phones, 163–164

 gaming, 167
 Geist, 306
 gender and drinking after work, 74

Cambridge University Press

0521807719 - Perpetual Contact: Mobile Communication, Private Talk, Public Performance

Edited by James E. Katz and Mark A. Aakhus

Index

More information

388 Index

gender (cont.)

- and importance of family life, 71, 75
- and use of mobile phones, 21, 22–23, 51, 256, 261–263, 268–269

see also boys; girls; women

Giddens, A., 96, 107, 304

girls, 256, 261, 269, 271–272

- collecting messages, 178

- and symbolic qualities of mobile phones, 262–263, 268

- use of language in messages, 185–186

Glaser, A., 148

Goffman, E., 10, 165, 321–322

greetings exchanges, 341–342

group boundaries, 162

GSM (Global System for Mobile Communications), 81

Haaland, T., 154

Habermas, J., 201–202

Haddon, L., 209, 212, 305, 312

Hagerstrand, I., 143

handiness, 58

hearship, acknowledgment of, 354

Hegel, G.W.F., 306

hierarchical authoritarianism, in Korea, 68–69, 71

Hirsch, E., 209, 212

hobbies, of Finnish teenagers, 176 households, role of mobile phones in, 138, 211–216, 216–219

hyper-coordination, 139, 140, 147–155

- expressive use, 158–162

- instrumental use, 155–158

- and presentation of self, 162–166

ICTs (information and communication technologies), 148, 149, 209, 210–211, 223

- adopter curve, 121–122

- see also* mobile technology; PCTs identification, 291–292, 327

identity, 213, 214

- teenagers', 149, 255–257

immediacy, 194

incipient talk, continuing state, 225, 284–285

income, of Finnish teenagers, 176

independence, 213, 215–216

indifference, 207

individuality, 206–207, 210, 211, 213, 214, 216, 220, 309

information, asymmetry of, 290–291, 293

in-group differentiation, 162

instrumental use, 140, 145, 155–158, 166

interactions, 141–142

- expressive, 158–162

- in Finland, 23–24, 25–27

- instrumental, 140, 145

- interpersonal, 2, 153, 154, 164, 294

- interruptions, 91, 99, 238, 296, 297, 347–349, 364–365, 366

- with parents, 155–157

- risk to, 96–101

Internet, 111, 121, 122, 123, 231, 233, 303, 308

Internet-enabled mobile phones, 80

intimacy, 48–53, 199–200

Israel, 16, 30–35

- army and use of mobile phones, 38–39

- patterns of mobile phone use, 36–40

Italy, 16–17, 42–43, 44, 53–61

- and fashion, 54

- and technology, 53–54

Japan, influence on American tastes, 90–91

Katz, J., 83, 84, 116, 309

keeping in touch, 8, 39, 198

keypads, redesigning, 188

Kim, K.-D., 68, 69

Kopomaa, T., 22, 28

Korea, 17, 72–78

- life after work, 70–72

- and new technologies, 65–66, 67

- social characteristics, 68–70

Kornhauser, W., 243

language, 162, 228, 235–236

- influence of messaging on, 183–184

- use of, 200–201

leisure, 8, 176–177

- see also* work, and leisure

length of calls, 25–26, 105–106

Lien, I.L., 154

lifestyle, 46

- Finnish, 24, 27–28

Ling, R., 268

locations, for using mobile phones, 40, 44, 45, 97–98

logic, 305, 307–312

logistics, 143, 144–145

logs of perpetual contact, 248–249

loneliness, 27–28

MacFarlane, A., 209, 213

McIntyre, A., 234

manners, 65, 117

marketing, 37–38

mass society, 223–224, 242, 243–244, 248

Cambridge University Press

0521807719 - Perpetual Contact: Mobile Communication, Private Talk, Public Performance

Edited by James E. Katz and Mark A. Aakhus

Index

More information

Index

389

- mass surveillance, 244–246
 infrastructure of, 246–247
- Mazur, A., 304
- men, use of mobile phones in Finland, 21
- message collecting culture, 177–179
- message consultants, 182
- micro-coordination, 139, 142–146,
 157–158
- Miller, D., 216
- misinterpretations, 341–342
- Mobikom (Bulgaria), 127, 128–129, 130
- mobile technology, 10, 60–61, 63, 65–66, 92
 effect on lives, 2–4
 and mobility, 44, 46
- mobile telephony
 basic characteristics, 43–53
 future of, 251–252
 growth, 4–5, 19–21
 social role, 253–254
- mobility, 44, 46, 194, 216
 differences in perspective, 113–115, 124
- Mobiltel (Bulgaria), 127–128, 130
- modernity, 96, 107
- monitoring of users, 302
see also mass surveillance
- monological presence, technologies of,
 229–230
- moral economy, 206–207
 of mobile phones, 211–216
- Musil, R., 233–234
- necessity
 changing perceptions, 118, 122, 123
 or luxury, cultural differences, 118–119
- Netherlands, 18, 113–114
 non-users, 121
 public–private spheres, 119, 120
 reasons for mobile phone use, 115–116, 118–119
- networks, see social networks
- Nokia, 28
- non-listening, 331, 348
- non-repeatability, 339
- non-terminality, in conversation analysis, 337–343, 344, 359, 362–363
- non-users, 151
 attitudes, 116, 117, 119, 121–124
 social behavior, 71, 73–78
- non-verbal performance, 23
- norms of ICT use, 65, 110, 112, 117, 124
 redefinition of, 195
- Norway
 role of mobile phones for identity of teenagers, 255–272
- teenagers' use of mobile phones, 139, 147–166
- obligation to talk again, 337–341, 342
- obligations, 24, 27, 28
- Ong, W., 59, 228
- openness, 26
- Orlikowski, W., 304
- ownership of mobile phones, 142
 in Bulgaria, 130–131, 134
 in Finland, 20–21, 28
 in Israel, 33, 34–35
 in Korea, 63
 in USA, 82–85
- paggers, 107, 214, 296
- parallel front stages, 160, 165
- parents, 212–213
 control by, 73, 157, 196, 203–204 independence from, 152–153
 micro-coordination by, 144–146
- particularizing communications, 242, 244–246, 309
- parties, 154–155
- Partner–Orange (Israel), 33–34, 37
- PCTs (personal communication technologies), 10, 11, 303–304
Apparatgeist, 310–314
- Pele-Phone (Israel), 31, 34, 37
- penetration rate, 4–5, 19, 80 cost and, 5–6
 in France, 95, 193
 in Israel, 31, 33, 34–35
- personalism, in Korea, 69
- Philippines, 2–3, 275
 mobile phones in, 276
 use of phones, 274, 275, 276–283
- politics, mobile technology and, 2–3, 314
- Poole, M.S., 304–305
- popular culture, appearance of mobile phones in, 135
- popularity, quantification of, 161–162
- portability, 46–48, 56, 58, 59
- presentation of self, 162–166
- pre-sequence utterances, 337–343, 349, 357, 359–360, 367
- print technology, 228–229
- priority assessment, 294–295, 363–364, 367
- privacy, 49, 89
 erosion of, 301–302
see also public–private distinction; public space, privatization of monologic
 technologies

390 Index

- privatization of monologic technologies, 230 problematic answers to summonses, 358–369 promotion of mobile phones, in Bulgaria, 128 public personhood, 212–213 public–private distinction, 72–73, 119, 198–200, 214, 316
 cultural differences in, 119–120, 124
 erosion of, 8, 253
 public space
 intrusion into, 8–9, 24, 50, 97–99, 238 privatization of, 23–24, 48–49, 50–51, 73, 97–99, 198, 286 symbolic behavior in, 89–90 use of mobile phones in, 40, 44, 45, 97–98, 118–119, 124 reachability, see accessibility reasoning, latent and manifest, 309–310, 311 reasons for ownership, 57, 115–116 reciprocity, 71
 recognition, 291–292
 relatedness, 216
 relationships
 asymmetry in, 196–197
 cultural differences in, 112, 118
 establishment of, 160
 horizontal/vertical, 232–233 text messages and, 182–183
 see also social relations religious confirmation, in Finland, 176 repetitions, in conversation analysis, 332, 345, 350, 356, 357 re-productive work, 55
 research into mobile phone use, 90–91, 189–191
 resentment, 238
 risk to interactions, 96–101
 roll-calls, 378n
 Roos, J.P., 19
 Rosenlund, L., 256
 Rubin, L., 148
 rules on availability, 102–104

 Sacks, H., 287, 323, 324, 327, 337, 380n safety, see security schools, use of mobile phones in, 165, 171, 191 screening calls, 102, 115, 153, 156, 237, 296 security, 89
 use of mobile phone for, 48, 97, 116, 142, 156, 166

 Sefton-Green, J., 269
 self, presentation of, 162–166
 self-esteem, 256–257, 263–265 selfhood, 234
 consumption and, 216–219
 individuation and, 211–216
 Sennett, R., 201
 shamelessness, 65
 short messaging service (SMS), see text messaging showing off, 54, 118, 164
 silence, in Finnish speech culture, 25, 26
 Silverstone, R., 209, 212, 305, 312
 Simmel, G., 50
 situational factors, in acquisition/use of ICTs, 123–124
 slang, use of, 162
 small talk, 25, 26
 SMS (short messaging service), see text messaging SMS guidebook, 188
 sociability, 199, 202–204
 social aspects of mobile phone use, in Finland, 22–23
 social behavior, 193
 of users and non-users, 71, 73–78
 social context as risk, 97–99 social networks, 24, 26, 51, 114, 202, 204
 in Israel, 39
 mobilization of, 154–155
 social relations, 24, 69–70, 148, 301
 in Italy, 55–56
 in Korea, 71
 normative redefinition of, 195–205 social success, criteria of, 198–200 sociality, communicative, 44, 46, 55 spatial indeterminacy, 96, 100–101, 304
 speech culture, Finnish, 24–27 status, 54, 68, 132, 256, 267, 315
 Strathern, M., 209–210
 structuration theory, 304–305, 315
 style, 90, 163–164
 summons–answer sequences, 289–291, 333–337 conditional relevance in, 343–358 non-terminality of, 337–343
 problematic answers, 358–368
 summons terms, 335–336
 symbolic nature, 89–90
 synchronization, 105–107, 108

 Tapscott, D., 257
 technological innovation, 68, 186, 225, 240, 250–251, 303

Cambridge University Press

0521807719 - Perpetual Contact: Mobile Communication, Private Talk, Public Performance

Edited by James E. Katz and Mark A. Aakhus

Index

More information

Index

391

- technology, 58–59, 304–305, 307
 conditions for diffusion of new, 66–68
 digital, 81, 91
 in Israel, 35–36
 in Italy, 53–54
- teenagers
 identity and mobile phone use, 255–272 social position, in Finland, 175–177
 text messaging, 170–175, 177–191
 use of mobile phones, 138, 139, 147–166
- telephone conversations, 287–290
 openings, 289–294, 328–329
- telephones, traditional, 1–2, 67, 152, 236–237
- television, in Israel, 36
- text message repertoires, 184–187
- text messaging, 44, 140, 144, 158–162, 165, 255, 262
 collective reading and composing, 181–182 cost of, 150–151
 and popularity, 159, 161–162
 in Finland, 170–175, 177–191
- theory, 303–305
 of Apparatgeist, 312–314, 316
- Thomas, K., 209
- time, 2, 100
 constructions of, 215
 cultural differences in attitude towards, 112, 120–121 ‘softening’ of, 143
- traceability, 37, 102, 104–105, 106, 108
- trains, use of mobile phones on, 97–98
- transitions to adult life, 147–148
- Trompenaars, F., 112–113, 118, 119, 120
- trust, 100, 101, 106, 107, 108
- Turkle, S., 256, 267
- United States of America, 17, 18, 82–85, 90–91
 mobile phone market, 81–82
 non-users, 85–89, 121–122
 public–private spheres, 119–120
 reasons for mobile phone use, 115, 116, 118
- urbanization, 20, 46
- utility, 124, 207, 217
- Vodafone, 302
- voice mail, 120, 123
- WAP (Wireless Application Protocol), 80, 164, 166, 190, 255, 262
- wearability, 46–48, 56, 58, 59, 60–61
 ‘weediness’, 253
- Wireless Application Protocol, see WAP
- wiretapping, 89
- women, use of mobile phones, 23, 51, 83–84
- work, and leisure, 119–120, 146
 in Finland, 22–23
 in Korea, 70–72
- wrestlers, in Bulgaria, as mobile phone owners, 132
- young people, use of mobile phones
 in Korea, 63
 in USA, 90, 120, 124
see also teenagers