

Cambridge University Press 978-0-521-81097-5 — Epidemiological Studies Alan J. Silman, Gary J. Macfarlane Index More Information

Index

Numbers in italics indicate tables or figures.

```
to minimise confounding 88, 190-1 age, effects on disease occurrence 4-5 nested 40, 41, 43
age-restricted populations 54
                                                         odds ratios see odds ratio calcuation age-specific rates 25-8, 163, 165
                                                         study size 90-2
age-standardised rates 21-4, 164-7, 197-9 subject selection see subject selection for case-agreement assessment see observers: agreement control studies
       assessment
antipathy to research 132
                                                         see also study types: choice cases
archived data 157
                                                         ascertainment 65-6
association
                                                         selection see subject selection for case-control measures 45
     attributable risks 48-9
                                                              studies: cases
                                                         verification 66, 78, 79-81
     odds ratios see odds ratio calculation catchment population methods 55 precision 49
                                                         accuracy of population data 56-7 rate ratios 46-7, 179-81
     risk ratios 45-6, 181-2, 194, 196
                                                         incidence measurement
                                                           definition of cases 65-6 term 5
                                                           prospective notification 63, 64-5, 66
attributable risks 48-9, 180
                                                           retrospective review 63-4 suitability of approach 60, 61, 62 back pain 36
bias 201
                                                         prevalence measurement 69-70
                                                      census data 53, 55, 56
  defined 201
                                                      chi-square (\chi^2) 172–3, 175, 176 direction of 202
  effects on validity 203
                                                      clinical epidemiology 6 clinical trials 6
  feasibility of unbiased studies 212
  information bias
                                                        see also study types
                                                      closed questions 106-8
     observer 122, 125, 209-10
     subject (recall) 210-11 cluster (multistage) sampling 59 cohort effects 26
  non-directional misclassification 202-3 cohort studies 39-41
  selection bias
     non-response 205-8
                                                         analysis 179-87
     of participants 204-5
                                                         bias 201, 205
     special situations 208-9
                                                         follow-up see follow-up of study cohorts birth-cohort effects 26, 28 multiple exposure effects 96 prospective 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44 breast cancer 34
buddy controls 86-7
                                                         retrospective 39, 40, 42, 43
                                                         study size 97-9
                                                         subject selection see subject selection for case-control studies 37-9
                                                              cohort studies
  bias 201, 206
                                                         see also study types: choice
  matching 88
     frequency 89-90
                                                      commercial mailing lists 56
     individual 88-9
                                                      computer programs 90, 146, 169
```

237

Cambridge University Press 978-0-521-81097-5 — Epidemiological Studies Alan J. Silman, Gary J. Macfarlane Index More Information

computer use	cohort studies 179-87
data analysis 169	resource wastage on 236
data preparation 145, 146	statistical packages 169
conditional logistic regression 178	collection 39, 103 see also questionnaires confidence intervals 49, 170	consistency checks 152, 153, 154 incidence rates 159-60, 161	interpretation 8, 9
incidence rate ratios 180-1	missing 155–6
odds ratios	preparation for analysis 145, 146, 147
matched pair analysis 178	costs 231, 232, 233, 234
'test'-based method 172-3	initial checking 147–9
Woolf's method 173-4	linkage from multiple sources 149 prevalence proportions 161–2	data coding schedule development
risk ratios 182	149–51
confidentiality see ethical issues: confidentiality of	database development 151-3
data	data entry 153–4
confounding 9, 188–90	checking entered data 154
analysis of	consideration of missing data 155-6 baseline comparisons 192–3	recoding entered data 156–7
multivariate techniques 199-200	storage 157
standardisation 197–9	use of computers 145, 146
stratification 193–7	protection 218
in ecologic studies 32	qualtiy 8–9, 56–7
minimisation in study design 190	range checks 152, 154
matching 88, 190–1	repeatability 9, 120
unknown confounders 89, 191	analysis of 123–7
monitoring studies for 191–2	observer bias 122, 125
negative 189	observer consistency 121–2, 140–1
consent 225–7	studies to measure 122–3 continuous exposures 49, 50	storage 157
control selection see subject selection for case-	validity 9, 111
control studies: controls	bias and 203
correlation studies 31–3	misclassification 116, 118–19
costs	non-dichotomous variables 115–16
costing a study 229	sensitivity and specificity 112–15
flowchart 230	validation approaches 116–18
personal time 231–3	database packages 146, 169 databases 77–8
reduction 233–4	in-built checks 152–3 personal costs 234
postage/printing 235	subject identification numbers 152
reimbursement of subjects 131	dichotomous exposures 49, 50, 115, 171 disease causation studies 4, 5 and study design 42, 228–9 of wastage 235–6	disease controls 85–6
cotinine 118	disease definitions 3–4
Cox's (proportional hazards) regression 200	disease management 4, 6
cross-sectional studies 35–7	disease occurrence 4–5 analysis 169	measures 13
bias 201, 206	choice 17–19
incidence measurement 67–8	incidence see incidence see also study types: choice	prevalence see prevalence crude rates of disease 163	population selection for studies see population cumulative incidence 15, 16, 18, 160-2, 181-2	selection cumulative prevalence 17, 18, 160–2	rate comparisons 20–1
cut-off assignment 113–15	age-specific 25–8
	over time 24–5
data	standardisation methods see standardisation
accuarcy 56–7	disease outcome 4, 5–6, 40
analysis 168–9, 170	disease prevention 4, 6
case-control studies see odds ratio	distress in study participants 224–5
calculation	double data entry 153

Cambridge University Press 978-0-521-81097-5 — Epidemiological Studies Alan J. Silman, Gary J. Macfarlane Index More Information ecologic fallacy 33	episode 15, 18 ecologic studies 31–3, 42	first-ever 14–15, 18 electoral registers 56, 84	life-table analysis 182–5

environmental factors in disease, migrant studies	measurement
33–4	approaches summarised 60-3
EPI INFO package 90	catchment population methods see epidemiology	catchment population methods: incidence analytical 168–87	measurement
clinical 6	indirect 71–3
defined 3
	population surveys 67–8
descriptive 158–67	rates (densities) 13–14, 158–9 ethical issues 215–27	confidence intervals 159–60, 161 , 180–1 population 6	ratios 46–7, 179, 180–1
research issues 7–9	incidence/prevalence bias 205
scope 3–6	individual matching 88–9
episode incidence 15, 18	information see data ethical issues 215	information bias 209-11
confidentiality of data	inner-city populations 57 collected for the study 219–20	internal validity of studies 203
from third parties 220–1	interpretation of results 8, 9 consent 225–7	intervention studies 6
data protection 218	interview-administered questionnaires see detection of previously unrecognised disease	questionnaires: interview-administered
221	interviewers 105, 148
not requiring intervention 222–3	see also observers requiring intervention 223–4
unrelated to the study 224	Kaplan–Meier curves 185 distress among participants 224–5	kappa (κ) statistic 123–6 ethical approval 215–16
in maximisation of response rate 216–17	Latin square design 122–3 opt out or opt in 217	left censorship 68
scientific validity 216	life-table method 182–5, 200 exposure categorisation 49–50, 95–7	lifestyle factors in disease, migrant studies 34 linear trend determination 175–7 external validity of studies 203
f : 1	logistic regression 171, 178, 199–200
family controls 86–7	LogRank test 185–7 feasibility of studies 41	longitudinal studies see cohort studies first-ever incidence 14–15, 18	lung cancer, age-specific mortaility rates 26, 27, 28 follow-up of study cohorts 39–40, 184 losses and life table use 184	Mantel-Haenszel estimates 194-5 participation 132–3	measures of association see association: measures disease status ascertainment 133–5	measures of disease occurrence see disease loss minimisation 135–7	occurrence: measures sample size and 99	medical record access 220-1, 222
frequently matching 89–90	melanoma skin cancer 31, 32
friend controls 86–7	migrant studies 33–5, 42
iriena controis 80–7
1 55 6 124	misclassification of subjects 116, 118–19
general practice registers 55–6, 134	multistage (cluster) sampling 59 generalisability of results 9 genetic factors in disease, migrant studies 34	National Health Service Central Register 221
geographical/geopolitical populations 53, 54	national surveys 54 neighbour controls 85
hazard ratios 183	nested case-control studies 40, 41, 43
health service delivery 6	new incidence 14–15, 18
home visits 130, 217	non-response bias 205–8
identification numbers 152, 219, 220	observers incidence 13	agreement assessment 122 8
cumulative 15, 16, 18	for categorical measures 123–6

Cambridge University Press 978-0-521-81097-5 — Epidemiological Studies Alan J. Silman, Gary J. Macfarlane Index More Information

observers (cont.)	incidence measurement for continuous measures 126–7	left censorship 68
kappa statistic 123–6	single or duplicate surveys, 62, 67–8
study designs for 122–3	prevalence measurement 70–1
bias 122, 125, 209–10	sample size requirements 58
consistency 121–2, 140–1	populations
see also interviewers	age-restricted 54
occurrence of disease see disease occurrence	free-living 7, 33 odds ratio calculation 47-8, 171-2	geographical/geopolitical 53, 54 confidence intervals see confidence intervals:	inner-city 57 odds ratios	reference 164
dichotomous exposures 171	standard 21–2, 164–5
Mantel-Haenszel estimates 194-5	world standard 22, 23
matched pairs 177–8	postal surveys 71
multiple exposure levels 174–5	mining inconvenience 130
Office for National Statistics 221	strategy following poor response 217
open questions 106–8	prevalence 16
optical scanning of questionnaires 154, 234	cumulative 17, 18, 160–2
overmatched cases and controls 87, 89	measurement approaches 68
p values 170	catchment population methods 69-70
participation	indirect 72
bias 204–5	population surveys 70–1
ethical constraints in maximisation	period 17, 18, 35
216–17	point 17, 18, 35
in follow-up see follow-up of study cohorts:	proportions 16, 160
participation	confidence intervals 161–2 pilot studies to estimate 139	risk ration estimation from 181-2 reasons for non-participation 128	prospective cohort studies see cohort studies:
antipathy to research 132	prospective anxiety about health 131	proxy respondents 37, 76, 103 avoidance of discomfort 131
cost 131	questionnaires
inconvenience 129–30	confidentiality 219–20
lack of interest 129	formulation 106
period prevalence 17, 18, 35	design 108–10
person-years 14	open and closed questions 106-8 personnel costs 231-3, 234	front sheets 219
pilot studies 138–41	interview-administered point prevalence 17, 18, 35	by telephone 106
Poisson distribution 159	compared with self-completed 103-5
Poisson regression 200	data checking 148
population attributable risk 48, 180	immediate data entry 153-4 population registers 55-6, 82, 84	missing data 155
population sampling 57–9	pilot-testing 139–40
population selection	pre-coded 147, 150
criteria	resource wastage on 235-6
access 55-6	self-completed
data accuracy 56–7	compared with interview-administered 103-5
representativeness 54–5	data checking 147–8
study size 57–9
population groups 53–4	ranked exposures 49, 50
problems 7–8	rare diseases
see also subject selection for case-control	retrospective studies 65 studies; subject selection for cohort	subject recruitment 78, 79 studies	rate comparisons see disease occurrence: rate population surveys 55	comparisons costing model 229–33	rate difference 48, 179, 180
data accuracy 57	rate ratios 46–7, 179–81

Cambridge University Press 978-0-521-81097-5 — Epidemiological Studies Alan J. Silman, Gary J. Macfarlane Index More Information

rates	study samples 58
age-specific 25-8, 163, 165	study size see sample size age-standardised 21-4, 164-7, 197-9	study types 31
crude 163	case-control see case control studies incidence see incidence: rates (densities)	choice 41–4 prevalence see prevalence: proportions	cohort see cohort studies recall bias 210–11	cross-sectional see cross-sectional studies recall by subjects 38, 105, 107	ecologic (correlation) 31-3, 42
receiver operating characteristic (ROC) curves	migrant 33-5, 42
113, 114	subject
registers 133	identification numbers 152, 219, 220
electoral 56, 84	misclassification 116, 118-19
general practice 55–6, 134	participation see participation linked 134	variation 120
National Health Service Central Register 221	subject (recall) bias 210-11 population 55–6, 82, 84	subject selection for case-control studies reliability 120	cases
repeatability see data: repeatability	diagnosed cases 77–8, 79
retrospective studies 63–4, 69	exclusion criteria 81–2 case-control 43, 44	hospital-based series 77 cohort see cohort studies: retrospective	incident vs. prevalent cases 74, 75 right censorship 184	issues 74
risk difference (attributable risk) 48, 180	patient registration form 80 risk ratios 45-6, 181-2, 194, 196	pilot studies for recruitment rate estimation risks 5, 15	139
attributable 48–9, 180	population-based series 76–7
relative 45–7 see also rate ratios; risk ratios	strategies 75
ROC (receiver operating characteristic) curves	verification of cases 78, 79–81
113, 114	controls 82
Rochester Epidemiology Project 63	disease controls 85–6
Rose Angina Questionnaire 111	family/friend controls 86-7
8	ideal options 83
sample size 57, 58	population-based selection 82, 84–5
case-control studies 90–2	two groups 87–8 cohort studies 97–9	sample size 90–2 pilot study estimation 141	see also case-control studies: matching sample surveys of non-responders 208	subject selection for cohort studies 93 sampling from populations 57–9	exposure categorisation 95–7
sampling units/frames 57, 82	prospective cohorts 94–5 selection bias see bias: selection bias	retrospective cohorts 93–4 self-completed questionnaires 103–5, 147–8,	sample size 97–9
155	subject-observer interactions 121
self-reported diagnosis 80, 81	survey centre visits 130
sensitivity 112–15	survival curves 184–7
seven-day weighed-diet surveys 118	systematic sampling 58
sex, effects on disease occurrence 4–5	-/
simple random sampling 58	telephone interviews 106
SIRs (standardised incidence ratios) 23, 164	telephone recruitment of controls 84–5 specificity 112–15	test cut-off assignment 113-15
standardisation 21	time-period effects 26
analysis of confounding by 197–9	tracing individuals 137 direct 21–2, 164, 166
indirect 22–4, 164–5, 166–7	urine cotinine 118 standardised incidence ratios (SIRs) 23, 164
statistical packages 169	validity see data: validity stomach cancer 38
stratification of confounders 193–7	waste of resources 235-6
stratified random sampling 58–9	world standard population 22, 23
study instruments see questionnaires	written consent 225