

Contents

Acknowledgments	page vii
List of illustrations	viii
List of contributors	ix
List of abbreviations	x
Introduction: “Those thoughts that wander through eternity” Juliet Cummins	1
PART I MILLENNIUM
1 Milton and the millennium Barbara K. Lewalski	13
2 Mede, Milton, and More: Christ’s College millenarians Sarah Hutton	29
3 Milton and millenarianism: from the Nativity Ode to Paradise Regained Stella P. Revard	42
4 Astronomical signs in Paradise Lost : Milton, Ophiucus, and the millennial debate Malabika Sarkar	82
5 The millennial moment: Milton vs. “Milton” William B. Hunter	96
6 Confusion: the apocalypse, the millennium John T. Shawcross	106

vi	Contents
PART II APOCALYPSE
7	John Martin's apocalyptic illustrations to Paradise Lost Beverly Sherry	123
8	The enclosed garden and the apocalypse: immanent versus transcendent time in Milton and Marvell Catherine Gimelli Martin	144
9	Matter and apocalyptic transformations in Paradise Lost Juliet Cummins	169
10	"New Heav'ns, new Earth": apocalypse and the loss of sacramentality in the postlapsarian Books of Paradise Lost Claude N. Stulting, Jr.	184
11	The apocalypse in Paradise Regained Ken Simpson	202
12	Inspiration and melancholy in Samson Agonistes Karen L. Edwards	224
	Afterword: "The time is come" David Loewenstein	241
	Index	250