

Contents

PART ONE. DEVELOPING THE APPROACH

- | | | |
|---|---|--------|
| 1 | An Invitation to Feel | page 3 |
| 2 | The Emotion System and Nonprototypical Emotions | 15 |
| 3 | The Mood-Cue Approach to Filmic Emotion | 41 |
| 4 | Other Cognitivismisms | 65 |

PART TWO. ANALYZING EMOTIONAL APPEALS IN FILM

- | | | |
|---|--|-----|
| 5 | “Couldn’t You Read between Those Pitiful Lines?”: Feeling for Stella Dallas | 85 |
| 6 | Strike-ing Out : The Partial Success of Early Eisenstein’s Emotional Appeal | 108 |
| 7 | Lyricism and Unevenness: Emotional Transitions in Renoir’s A Day in the Country and The Lower Depths | 122 |
| 8 | Emotion Work: The Joy Luck Club and the Limits of the Emotion System | 138 |
| 9 | “I Was Misinformed”: Nostalgia and Uncertainty in Casablanca | 151 |

PART THREE. AFTERWORD

- | | | |
|----|----------------------------|-----|
| 10 | An Invitation to Interpret | 169 |
|----|----------------------------|-----|

- | | | |
|--|--|-----|
| | APPENDIX. The Neurological Basis of Psychoanalytic Film Theory: Metz’s Emotional Debt to Freud the Biologist | 174 |
| | Notes | 195 |
| | Index | 217 |