

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation, 1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

HUMANISM AND AMERICA

Humanism and America is the first major study of the impact of the Renaissance and Renaissance humanism upon the English colonisation of America. The analysis is conducted through an interdisciplinary examination of a broad spectrum of writings on colonisation, ranging from the works of Thomas More to those of the Virginia Company. Andrew Fitzmaurice shows that English expansion was profoundly neo-classical in inspiration, and he excavates the distinctively humanist tradition that informed some central issues of colonisation: the motivations of wealth and profit, honour and glory; the nature of and possibilities for liberty; and the problems of just title, including the dispossession of native Americans. Dr Fitzmaurice presents a colonial tradition which, counter to received wisdom, is often hostile to profit, nervous of dispossession and desirous of liberty. Only in the final chapters does he chart the rise of an aggressive, acquisitive and possessive colonial ideology.

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

IDEAS IN CONTEXT

Edited by Quentin Skinner (General Editor), Lorraine Daston,
Dorothy Ross and James Tully

The books in this series will discuss the emergence of intellectual traditions and of related new disciplines. The procedures, aims and vocabularies that were generated will be set in the context of the alternatives available within the contemporary frameworks of ideas and institutions. Through detailed studies of the evolution of such traditions, and their modification by different audiences, it is hoped that a new picture will form of the development of ideas in their concrete contexts. By this means, artificial distinctions between the history of philosophy, of the various sciences, of society and politics, and of literature may be seen to dissolve. The series is published with the support of the Exxon Foundation.

A list of books in the series will be found at the end of the volume.

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

HUMANISM AND AMERICA

*An Intellectual History of English
Colonisation, 1500–1625*

ANDREW FITZMAURICE

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge University Press
0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation, 1500-1625
Andrew Fitzmaurice
Frontmatter
More information

PUBLISHED BY THE PRESS SYNDICATE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE
The Pitt Building, Trumpington Street, Cambridge, United Kingdom

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
The Edinburgh Building, Cambridge, CB2 2RU, UK
40 West 20th Street, New York, NY 10011-4211, USA
477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
Ruiz de Alarcón 13, 28014 Madrid, Spain
Dock House, The Waterfront, Cape Town 8001, South Africa

<http://www.cambridge.org>

© Andrew Fitzmaurice 2003

This book is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2003

Printed in the United Kingdom at the University Press, Cambridge

Typeface Adobe Garamond 11/12.5 pt System L^AT_EX 2_ε [TB]

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

ISBN 0 521 82225 4 hardback

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

For my parents

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More informationContents

Acknowledgements	page	ix
1 Introduction		I
2 The moral philosophy of Tudor colonisation		20
Tudor moral philosophy: the vita activa and corruption		21
Alexander Barclay's scepticism		25
John Rastell's apology		28
Richard Eden's projections		32
Thomas Smith and Ireland		35
Humphrey Gilbert's projects		39
The moral philosophy of Gilbert's projects		47
Walter Raleigh's projects		50
The moral philosophy of Raleigh's projects		53
3 The moral philosophy of Jacobean colonisation		58
The Virginia Company		58
The participants		62
The vita activa and corruption		67
Moral philosophy after tobacco		87
Newfoundland and Nova Scotia		92
New England		97
4 Rhetoric – 'not the Words, but the Acts'		102
The foundation of commonwealths		102
Linguistic possession		111
Plain style and 'Asiatic' corruption		129
5 Law and history		137
Religious justifications		138
Natural law: res nullius , trade and friendship		140
Conquest and just war		146
Legal humanism		148

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

viii

Contents

	Nostalgia for native virtues	157
	The denial of dispossession	164
6	The Machiavellian argument for colonial possession	167
	William Shakespeare, The Tempest	171
	John Smith	177
7	Conclusion	187
	Bibliography	195
	Index	208

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

Acknowledgements

This book has a history embracing more than ten years, in various characters, and has accordingly acquired some profound debts.

I have received generous support from St John's College, Cambridge, Churchill College, Cambridge, and also from the Cambridge Commonwealth Trust. Since arriving at Sydney University I have received invaluable guidance from Michael Jackson, Richard Waterhouse and Shane White.

Early versions of the chapters have been delivered in a number of conferences and seminars. In particular the Atlantic History Seminar in August 1997 at Harvard University was an invaluable forum in which to present ideas and I thank Bernard Bailyn for the opportunity to participate and for the inspiration which he and the other participants provided. My thanks also to the participants in The touch of the real: A symposium hosting Stephen Greenblatt, at the Humanities Research Centre, the Australian National University, June 1998. Stephen Greenblatt's generous suggestions were also greatly appreciated. I am grateful to the editors of The Historical Journal, The Journal of the History of Ideas and to Manchester University Press for permission to reproduce and revise previously published material.

More people than I can remember have aided in various ways. They include Richard Bourke, Martin Dzelzainis, Sam Glover, Mark Goldie, Neil Kenny, Andrew McRae, Jonathan Scott, John O. Ward and Iain Wright. Karen Kupperman and Anthony Pagden contributed greatly in advising on the direction the project should take. David Armitage has been untiring in his encouragement and unflinching in his intellectual generosity. My students have many times forced me to reconsider my convictions concerning some of the book's central arguments. I am indebted also to Richard Fisher at Cambridge University Press for his great patience. The anonymous readers for the Press have been particularly helpful in the final stages.

I have several special debts. Conal Condren set me on the path that led me here. He has tried to teach me to be more sceptical, as well as the best

Cambridge University Press

0521822254 - Humanism and America: An Intellectual History of English Colonisation,
1500-1625

Andrew Fitzmaurice

Frontmatter

More information

x

Acknowledgements

way to cook broad beans. Saliha Belmessous has read and commented on the manuscript more times than she would care to remember. She has tried to teach me to be less sceptical. I promise her never to mention the Virginia Company again, certainly not after 7 pm.

My greatest debt in the writing of this book is to Quentin Skinner. His support over the years is beyond praise. The example of his research and writing is surpassed only by his commitment in teaching – the two virtues are not always found in company.

At proof stage the text has been copy-edited with the greatest care by Hilary Scannell.