CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

Index

abortion, 1, 6, 130, 131–43 (passim), 145, 150, 160; and constitutional status of fetus, 132–40; and distinction between fetus and newborn, 136–8; illegitimacy of prohibiting by statute, 133, 134–5, 140; permissibility of prohibiting by statute, 141; and question of humanity of fetus, 133, 135–40, 142; right to, 133, 134; and right to bodily integrity, 134–6, 140; and right to freedom of conscience, 134, 141–2; and right to life, 132–3, 134, 135, 136; and state's concern to protect respect for human life, 140–1; see also conservative communal ideal, and abortion; Roe v. Wade; Supreme Court, and abortion affirmative action, 1, 6, 108, 110, 130, 143–50 (passim), 160; Christian affirmation of, 148; contemporary meaning of, 144; criticisms of, 144, 145–6, 148, 149; and "equal protection of the laws,"145–8; and the Fourteenth Amendment, 145; substantive purpose of, 147; see also conservative communal ideal, and affirmative action; liberal communal ideal, and affirmative action; Supreme Court, and affirmative action American Revolution, 33–4, 126; and popular sovereignty, 34
Anselm, 67n.
Apel, Karl-Otto, 44, 52
apocalypticism: defined, 12n.3; Jewish, 12, 26
Aquinas, Thomas, 8, 29, 30n.3, 31n., 32, 59, 62, 66, 167; and assertion of natural inequality, 29–30, 50; and assertion of political inequality, 24n., 30–1; comparison with Augustine's political theory, 31; God and creation in, 30; and majority voice, 66, 67n.; and monarchical or aristocratic rule, 29, 31, 50; and political accommodation, 25n.; relation of philosophy to theology in, 65, 67n.; and revolution, 31; understanding of justice in, 82 aristocratic rule (or rule by the few), 24, 28, 30, 32, 34, 112, 120; see also Aquinas, Thomas, and monarchical or aristocratic rule Aristotle, 109, 121n.
Augustine, 12, 21, 25–7, 28–9, 59, 88, 101; affirmation of earthly good in, 21–4; and City of God (or Heavenly City), 13–16, 21, 23, 127; and early account, 13–17, 21–4, 28, 61, 62, 97, 112, 127; God and creation in, 22–4, 30, 66, 127–8; see also Aquinas, Thomas, comparison with Augustine's political theory; disobedience (civil or political), in Augustine authenticity, human, 71–2, 74, 82–3, 86, 109, 171; decision for or against, 71–2, 73–4, 75n., 82, 103, 106

Beer, Samuel, 30n.2, 34

Calvin, John, 59
Christian belief (see also Christian faith), 4, 20, 28, 73, 110–11, 123, 128; and government by way of reason, 5, 52; and special revelation, 5, 51–2, 59, see also God, (special) revelation of; status of assessment by argument, 51, 52–3, 71n., 76, 99–100, 104–5, see also Christian faith, and way of reason or humanistic commitment; as substantively consistent with democracy, 80–105 (passim); see also

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

Christian belief (cont.)
God, in alternative or neoclassical Christian conviction; God, in traditional or classical Christian conviction Christian community, see church
Christian faith (see also Christian belief), 5, 10, 36, 63, 71n., 98, 102, 104, 106, 112, 114, 127, 157, 171; abiding content of, 17–20, 23, 25–7, 29, 36, 51–2, 61–2, 71, 75, 82, 98, 99, 100–1, 106, 109, 111–13, see also Great Commandment, as norm of abiding Christian content; and affirmation of democratic politics or popular sovereignty, 4, 25, 28–9, 44, 51–2, 56, 59, 61, 78, 79–80, 81, 92–3, 97, 106, 111–12, 134; and appropriateness to Jesus (Christ), 19, 27n., 75n., 103; as asserting political inequality, 28; and Christian praxis, 109–10; and citizenship, 24; and democratic equality, 51; and democratic justice, 5, 29, 111; distinction between meaning and validity of, 59–60, 75n.; explicit or implicit meaning of, 14–15, 19–21, 61, 69, 70–2, 74, 76, 78, 82–3, 100, 104, 108, 111, 113, 127–8; general relation to particular political decisions, 108–13, 115, 130; and the good life, see good life; and ideal for community or substantive ideal, see community of love; implied principles of justice or morality, 4, 81, 82, 91, 93, 97, 99, 106, 109–12, 113, 126, 130, 149; primary norm of, 19–20, 59, 75; and philosophy as critical discourse, 65–8; and philosophy as way of life, 64–6; and political quiescence or accommodation, 4, 10–11, 13, 15, 17–18, 24–5, 27n., 56, 97, 112, 127, see also Aquinas, Thomas, and political quiescence or early account; as "politicized," 107; and politics in general, 1–3, 5–7, 14, 38, 61, 82, 89, 98–9, 107–8, see also Paul, relation of Christian faith to politics in; as "privatized," 107; relation to United States politics, 1, 56–7, 71n., 99, 108, 113, 123–9, see also social gospel or politics, as a common Christian vocation or Christian vocation, and contemporary politics; and religious freedom, 57; and responsibility for nonhuman world, 88, see also good life, in relation to nonhuman world or principle of environmental respect; and way of reason or humanistic commitment, 5, 51, 55, 56–78 (passim), 79–80, 81, 93, 99–100, 105, 106, 138n., 162–3, 168, see also Christian belief, status of assessment by argument; see also Great Commandment, and Christian faith
Christian religion, 15, 74–5, 77; relation to non-Christian religions, see God, possibility of proper re-presentation in non-Christian religions
"Christian Right," 127, 128
Christian self-understanding, 62; early, 4, 11–15, 62–3, 64n., 99, see also church (or Christian community), early understanding of; early account; majority voice
Christian tradition, 19, 37, 63, 65, 88, 102, 117; majority voice of, 4–5, 58–9, 60–1, 99, see also majority voice
Christian vocation, 98, 111; common, 3, 13, 98, 113, see also politics, as a common Christian vocation or theology, as common vocation; in contemporary (democratic) politics, 1, 4–5, 17, 25, 27, 58, 61, 79, 81, 106, 108, 117, 128–9, 130, see also Christian faith, relation to United States politics or politics, as a common Christian vocation; historical meanings of, 2; as dependent upon Christian faith, 29, 98; in relation to early account, 11, 15, 17, 97; specifically religious, 2, 18n., 98; specifically secular, 2, 18n., 98; see also common good, and vocation; God, and Christian vocation; medieval period, and Christian vocation; Protestant Christianity, and Christian vocation; Reformation, and Christian vocation; theology, as specialized vocation
Christian witness, 1, 18, 59–60, 69, 75, 97–8, 106, 108, 110, 126, 128–9, 130; and democracy or democratic citizenship, 4, 29; and relation to contemporary political context or order, see Christian vocation, in contemporary (democratic) politics church (or Christian community), 2–3, 10, 12–14, 17, 19, 63, 75n., 82, 98, 107, 108–9, 126–7, 131; early understanding of, 10–11, 14, 16–17, 21, 98, 127; and (inclusive) purpose of, 3, 12, 127; relation to Greek political thought, 10–11; see also conservative Christian churches; mainline Christian churches Civil War, 112–13, 119, 126, 158 common good, 24n., 32, 89, 92, 147, 154; Christian conception of, 5, 28–9, 69,

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

132, 148, see also community of love; and vocation, 2–3 communal ideals, 5, 117, 127, 148, 161, 162; see also community of love; conservative communal ideal; individualism (as a communal ideal); liberal communal ideal community of love (or human mutuality), 5, 82–3, 88–9, 90, 97, 99, 100–1, 105, 109, 112, 113, 117, 124–5, 128, 130, 142, 143, 145, 148, 151, 155–6, 158, 162; and affirmation of democracy or popular sovereignty, 93, 97, 106, 132, 135, 140; dependent upon or requiring substantive justice, 95, 108, 148; as maximal human mutuality, 87–90, 92, 97, 98, 107, 108, 119n., 123–4, 137n., 143, 145, 162; and justice as general emancipation, 5, 90–5, 96n., 97–100, 106–7, 109–12, 119n., 123–4, 127–9, 130, 143, 148, 150, see also economic distribution, and justice as general emancipation; as source and end of the good life, 83, 86–7, 89, 106, 123, 149, 162 conservative Christian churches, 107, 127–8 conservative communal ideal, 117–18, 120–2, 124, 125, 161; and abortion, 142–3; and affirmative action, 148–50; Christian complicity with, 125–8; and the economic order, 157, 160; essence of, 121, 142; and the good life, 122–5, 127, 143, 149; and private virtue, 120–3, 124, 125, 126–7, 142–3, 149, 160, 161; and "traditional values," 121, 124, 160 Constantine, 12
constitution (see also constitutional principles), 34, 39, 44, 71n., 89, 95–6, 106, 130, 134, 146, 147, 165; amendment of, 96n., 131, 140; determination of its members, 138–9; and formative principles (of justice), 46, 54n., 80–1, 112, see also constitutional principles, equivalent to formative principles of justice; and prohibition of religious establishment, 36, 47, 115, 131, 133; proper character of democratic, see popular sovereignty, constitutional implications of; self-democratizing, 39, 40–2, 43–5, 48, 52, 54–5. see also constitutional principles, and a self-democratizing constitution; (solely) formative, 46, 47–8, 54–5, 81, 94, 96, 134, see also religious discourse, and a formative constitution; solely procedural, 41–3, 44; and statutory enactments or laws, 47, 95–6, 133, 134–5; and substantive principles (of justice), 45–6, 96, 147; United States, 34–6, 49–50, 71n., 89, 134–5, 145, see also First Amendment or Preamble to the United States Constitution; and way of reason, 53, 135 constitutional principles (see also constitution), 39, 147, 150; as authorized by valid substantive principles, 80, see also constitution, and substantive principles (of justice); defined, 38; (equivalent to formative principles) of justice, 46, 48, 81, 130, 145; implications of proposing, 39; in relation to state, 94, 135, see also state, activity or duty in respect to constitutional rights; and a self-democratizing constitution, 45; see also rights, formative or properly constitutional; rights, legitimate compromise of constitutional; rights, to private liberties; rights, to public liberties creativity, 85, 87–8, 97, 101, 106, 123, 162; general conditions of, 90–2, 95, 97, 106, 124, 127, 130, 148, 150–1, 154, see also community of love, and justice as general emancipation; local conditions of, 90–1, 124; opportunities for, 85, 86–8, 97, 102, 107–8, 151, 154, 155n.11, 156; two aspects of, 85–6, see also authenticity, human or emancipation (or empowerment) or good life, and two creative aspects

Dahl, Robert, 89n.
DeFunis, Marco, 143, 144n.
democracy (see also popular sovereignty), 5, 25, 29n., 30, 36, 38, 48, 63, 71n., 79, 81, 100, 106, 111, 114–15, 119n., 131–2, 134, 138, 139n., 140; character of, 5, 24–5, 29, 61; and constitutional, formative, or political equality, 29, 135, 136, 137n., 145, 148; as full and free (political) discourse, 4, 45, 49–50, 54, 57–8, 60–1, 70, 79–81, 89, 93, 95–6, 106, 131, 138, 140, 145–6, 165; meaning of, see popular sovereignty, meaning of; membership defined exclusively by constitutional rights, 94–7, 148, 151; and modern conditions or communities, 4, 24–5, 27, 28, 145; modern emergence of, 5, 29–30, 32–5, 61–2, 69, 79, 111; as a modus vivendi, 42, see also constitution, solely procedural; and necessity of

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

democracy (cont.)
distinguishing between constitutional and substantive justice, 147–8, 150; and necessity of substantive justice, 95, 105; pre-modern forms of, 25–6; promise of, 162; and purpose of political rule, 35, 38; and the religious question, 57, 116, see also religious beliefs, meaning within a democracy or religious freedom, as essential to popular sovereignty or democracy or religious plurality, implications for democracy; and way of reason or humanistic commitment, 4, 32–3, 46, 48–55 (passim), 56, 59, 89, 135, 142; see also Christian belief, as substantively consistent with democracy; Christian faith, and affirmation of democratic politics or popular sovereignty; God, God's purpose and democratic ideals; politics, democratic; rights, (democratic) community of; state, and democracy or popular sovereignty Dewey, John, 119n.
disobedience (civil or political), 95n.; in Augustine, 15, 17
Douglas, Justice William, 143–5
Dworkin, Ronald, 133n.

early account, 26, 63; assessment of, 15–27 (passim), 61–2; in church history, 17–18; in contemporary context, 18, 27n., 61, 127–8; description of, 4, 9–15; God and government in, 9–12, 14–15, 17; relation to Christianity's abiding content, 17–18, 21, 23–7, 28–9, 61–3, 97, 111–12; see also Augustine, and early account; Christian faith, and political quiescence or accommodation; medieval period, relation to early account; Reformation, relation to early account economic distribution, 1, 6, 130, 150–61 (passim); disparity in the United States, 150, 151–4; effects of its impermissible disparity in the United States, 154–7; and justice as general emancipation, 151, 154, 155n.11, 156–7; and need for governance of large economic corporations, 157; permissible inequality of, 154; and state complicity in disparity of, 154, 155n.11, 156n.; see also conservative communal ideal, and the economic order; liberal communal ideal, and the economic order emancipation (or empowerment), 86–8, 90–1, 95, 97, 98, 102, 107, 124–5, 149, 151, 154, 155, 158, 161–2; see also community of love, and justice as general emancipation empowerment, see emancipation England, 34, 126
English constitutionalists, 32 Enlightenment, 33, 49–50 ethics of citizenship, 38–9, 40–2, 44, 45–6, 52, 80, 96
Europe, 123, 126
Eusebius, 12

faith, see Christian faith
First Amendment, 50; see also religious freedom, and the First Amendment Franklin, Benjamin, 49 freedom of assembly or association, 48, 49, 91, 92, 93, 132, 151 freedom of conscience, 32, 94n.; see also abortion, and right to freedom of conscience Furnish, Victor, 9n.

Gamwell, Franklin, 35n., 67n., 137n., 167n.
God, 4, 10, 18n., 20, 65, 75n. 80–1, 83, 86, 106, 125–6, 168, 171; as all-embracing love, 8, 10, 20, 23, 25, 36, 51, 71–2, 74, 76, 77, 82–3, 86–8, 97, 99, 100, 103–5, 114, 128, 162, 171; in alternative or neoclassical Christian conviction, 69, 100–5; and Christian vocation, 2, 83; explanation for no universal belief in, 72–3; God's call, 16n., 20, 71, 74, 76, 77, 79, 82–3, 88, 97–8, 100, 103, 106, 130, 135, 140, 142, 162; God's purpose and democratic ideals, 56, 97, 135, 162; kingdom of, 12, 16; possibility of proper re-presentation in non-Christian religions, 162–63, 171; present in common human experience, 71–8, 79, 104, 162, 171; primal belief in, 73–4, 76, 77–8, 105n., 171; and "render to Caesar," 7–9, 15; (special) revelation of, 51, 53, 59, 61, 67n., 167, see also Jesus (Christ), as revelatory of God; in traditional or classical Christian conviction, 12–13, 21, 30, 64–7, 69, 76–8, 100–1, 104, 127, 167, see also Aquinas, Thomas, God and creation in or Augustine, and City of God (or Heavenly City) or Augustine, God and creation in or early account, God and government in or medieval period, understanding of

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

God's perfection in; see also Great Commandment good life (or human flourishing), 83, 102, 121, 122–3, 144, 149, 162; defined, 83; in relation to nonhuman world, 86–8, see also principle of environmental respect; and two creative aspects, 86, see also authenticity, human or emancipation (or empowerment); see also community of love; conservative communal ideal, and the good life; liberal communal ideal, and the good life gospel, 12, 15–16
government, 14, 36, 45n.6, 82, 95, 108, 118, 122, 147, 157; and Christianity, see Christian belief, and government by way of reason or Christian faith, and politics in general or early account, God and government in; by discussion and debate, see democracy, and way of reason or humanistic commitment; by the people, see democracy or popular sovereignty; United States, 1, 90, 96n., 120, 122, 143, 160, 161, see also Christian faith, relation to United States politics; see also state Great Commandment, 87; and Christian faith, 8–10, 14, 17, 21, 23–5, 28, 36, 51, 71–2, 74, 79, 82–3, 87, 100–1, 103, 109, 111, 128; as norm of abiding Christian content, 20; see also Christian faith, and Great Commandment
Greco-Roman world, 10, 63
Greek metaphysics, 66, 68–9, 99, 101–2, 104, 127

Habermas, Jürgen, 44, 52
Hadot, Pierre, 63–4, 65
Hartshorne, Charles, 102
Hellenism: ethics of, 11; philosophic orientations of, 64
Hooker, Richard, 31 human flourishing, see good life human mutuality, see community of love humanistic commitment, see way of reason individual-in-community, 123 individualism (as a communal ideal), 122–3, 126, 149–50; see also conservative communal ideal; liberal communal ideal Irenaeus, 12

Jefferson, Thomas, 49–50, 162
Jesus (Christ), 9–10, 13, 16, 19–21, 63, 75n.; historical, 16n., 19; meaning of, 71; and "render to Caesar," 7–8; as revelatory of God, 5, 8, 18, 20–1, 36, 51, 58–9, 61, 71, 74–7, 82, 97, 103, 109, 162, 167; see also Christian faith, and appropriateness to Jesus (Christ) justice, 1, 9, 24, 41–2, 47, 90–1, 92n., 97, 125, 133, 142, 149–51; broad meaning of, 82; and Christianity, 5, 24–5, 28, 97, see also Aquinas, Thomas, understanding of justice in or Christian faith, and democratic justice or Christian faith, implied principles of justice or morality; compound character of democratic, 81, 95, 130, 148; as constitutional or formative equality of all citizens, 146, 148; formative (principles of), 46, 48n., 145, 146–7, 148, see also constitution, and formative principles (of justice) or constitutional principles, (equivalent to formative principles) of justice; as general emancipation, see community of love, and justice as general emancipation or economic distribution, and justice as general emancipation; and political claims, 35, 45n.6, 114, see also politics, as pure procedural justice or politics, as implying religious convictions or decisions; principle(s) of, 5, 51, 82, 89, 90, 100, 114, 139n., 148; related to religious convictions, 37, 43; separated from religious convictions, 40, 43, 52, 114, 119n., 139n., 165; statutory, 96; strict meaning of, 82, 90; substantive (principles of), 40–4, 45–7, 48n., 69, 80–1, 89, 94, 96, 130, 145, 146, 147–8, 150, 155n.10, see also constitution, and substantive principles (of justice) or democracy, and necessity of substantive justice; see also democracy, and necessity of distinguishing between constitutional and substantive justice; rights; state, relation to justice or morality

King, Martin Luther, 56 kingdom of God, see God, kingdom of Lemann, Nicholas, 143–4 liberal communal ideal, 117–18, 122, 124–5, 142–3, 155n.11, 161; and affirmative action, 148–50; and the economic order, 118–20, 157–60; essence of, 118, 148, 161; and the good life, 118, 123, 149, 157, 159, 161; as libertarian, 118–20, 122, 148–50, 159, see also state, minimal; reduction of

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

liberal communal ideal, (cont.)
politics to economic bargaining, 158–9; as welfare, 118–20, 122, 149, 150, 159, 160, see also state, welfare liberalism: alternative understandings of, 119n.; see also liberal communal ideal liberation theology, 16, 107; in relation to early account, 16 libertarian liberal, see liberal communal ideal, as libertarian.
Lincoln, Abraham, 73, 166; and popular sovereignty, 34
Locke, John, 31
Lowi, Theodore, 120n.
Luther, Martin, 59

Madison, James, 49
mainline Christian churches, 128 majority voice, 63, 67, 70, 71n., 75, 76; assessment of, 62–3; philosophical context informing, 63–6, 68–9; relation to abiding content of Christian faith, 61–3, 69–70, 76; see also Aquinas, Thomas, and majority voice; Christian tradition, majority voice of Mark, Gospel of, 7–9, 100; meaning of "paying taxes" in, 7 martyr, see martyrdom.
martyrdom, 11, 15, 17
Marxsen, Willi, 12n.3
medieval period: and Christian vocation, 2, 18; hierarchical understanding of reality in, 30, 32–3, 51, 69; philosophy of, 65, 69; relation to early account, 17; thought inseparable from religious authority, 32–3, 48; understanding of God's perfection in, 67
Meeks, Wayne, 10
Miller, Perry, 126 minorities, 42; political, 70
Mitchell, Margaret, 9n.
Milton, John, 32
monarchy (or rule by one), 12, 24, 28, 30, 32, 34, 112; see also Aquinas, Thomas. and monarchical or aristocratic rule; early account; Roman Empire (or monarchy)
Murray, John Courtney, 70n.

New Testament, 7–8, 19, 126
Niebuhr, Reinhold, 70n., 83, 108

Ogden, Schubert 16–17n., 19, 75n., 105n.
Origen, 12
Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), 154, 156–57
"ought implies can," 72, 170

Paul: imminent eschatology in, 12–13, 26; relation of Christian faith to politics in, 9–12, 15–17, 26, 28, 61, 97, 112
Perry, Michael, 137n.
Phillips, Kevin, 156n.
political accommodation, see Christian faith, and political quiescence or accommodation political activity: defined, 3–4 political claim, 4, 38, 39, 45, 52, 53n., 54, 99, 112; assessment of, 35, 40, 41, 44, 93–4, 96, see also popular sovereignty, and (assessment of) religious or political claims; defined, 35, 45n.6; implications of making, 37, 44, 48, 52, 54, 114; pragmatic character of, 54n., semantic character of, 54n., stipulation of, 40–1, 53, 96n.; see also justice, and political claims political (democratic) discourse, 45n.6–7, 52n., 53n., 93, 96n., 97, 99, 105, 115, 118; full and free, 48, 50–1, 53, 54, 81, 94, 95n., 99, 116, 135, 137, 139–40, 162, see also democracy, as full and free (political) discourse; practice of, 46, 48, 80, 116, 135; about religious convictions, 116; and way of reason, 50, 89 political equality, 95, 161; and freedom of choice, 141; and way or reason or humanistic commitment, 51; see also democracy, and constitutional, formative, or political equality; justice, as constitutional or formative equality of all citizens; rights, political political inequality, 29n.; as basis of political accommodation or quiescence, 24n.; denied by way of reason or humanistic commitment, 50, 79; theory of, 29n., 31; see also Aquinas, Thomas, and assertion of political inequality; Christian faith, as asserting political inequality political quiescence or accommodation, see Christian faith, and political quiescence or accommodation political realism, 88–9 political rule: abiding purpose of, 35; formal institutions of, 45n.7, 116; see also state politics, 37, 89, 98, 106, 137, 160; as a (common) Christian vocation, 2–5, 11, 15, 17–18, 21, 23–4, 28–9, 51, 56,

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

97–100, 106–9, 111, 113, 116, 125, 129, 141–2, 150, 156, 161, 162, see also Christian faith, and politics in general or Christian vocation, in contemporary (democratic) politics or Paul, relation of Christian faith to politics in; democratic, 4, 52n., 94–5, 116, 145, see also democracy; as implying religious convictions or decisions, 5, 114–17, 125, 142–3, 148–50, 157–62; as pure procedural justice, 42–3, see also constitution, solely procedural; relation to principles of justice or morality, 82, 92, 132; as specialized profession, 3; United States, 1, 5, 42, 90, 113, 117–23, 131, 158, 160, see also Christian faith, relation to United States politics or religion, and United States politics or religious plurality, and United States politics popular sovereignty (see also democracy), 34, 36, 50, 57, 70, 79, 96–7, 99, 111; and (assessment of) religious or political claims, 37, 45n.7, 52, 54, 57, 113, 139n., 162, 165; constitutional implications of, 34, 38–9, 44–8, 80–1, 93, 96n., 130, 132–3, 134, 135, 145–6; meaning of, 34–6, 38, 50, 51; see also American Revolution, and popular sovereignty; Christian faith, and affirmation of democratic politics or popular sovereignty; religious freedom, as essential to popular sovereignty or democracy; state, and democracy or popular sovereignty

Preamble to the United States Constitution, 46–7 primal (or moral) freedom, 86; see also authenticity, decision for or against; creativity, two aspects of; good life, and two creative aspects; self-understanding, as primal principle of environmental respect, 88

Protestant Christianity: American, 126, 128; and Christian vocation, 2, 18

Puritans, 121, 126

Rauschenbusch, Walter, 16

Rawls, John, 41–2, 92n., 119n.

rebellion (civil or political) 24, 95n.; see also Aquinas, Thomas, and revolution

Reformation, 32, 126; and Christian vocation, 2, 18; in relation to early account, 18 religion, 17, 49, 58n.1, 75n., 96n., 127; de facto established, 71n.; (de jure) established, 39–40, 51, 70, 71n., 96n.; see also constitution, and prohibition of religious establishment; defined, 35–6, 37; privatization of, 1; see also Christian faith, as "privatized"; redemption by argument, see religious beliefs, assessment or redemption by way of reason or humanistic commitment; and United States politics, 1; see also Christian faith, relation to United States politics religious activity, 75n.; function of, 53n., 74, 75n., 77 religious beliefs (or claims or convictions or decisions), 1, 39, 41, 44, 46, 51, 52n., 53n., 55n., 68, 81, 96n., 99, 109, 115–16, 131, 157, 160, 162, 168, 170; assessment or redemption by way of reason or humanistic commitment, 52–5, 57–8, 60, 61, 68, 106, 135, 137, 139, 165–6, 168, 170–1; see also Christian belief, status of assessment by argument or Christian faith, and way of reason or humanistic commitment or popular sovereignty, and (assessment of) religious or political claims; false ones as self-defeating or self-refuting, 170–1; impossibility of suspending, 68; meaning within a democracy, 36–8, 57, 80, 114, 117, see also democracy, and the religious question or political (democratic) discourse, about religious convictions or politics, as implying religious convictions or decisions; secularistic, 37, 117, 125; see also justice, related to religious convictions; justice, separated from religious convictions religious discourse: and a formative constitution, 54

religious diversity, see religious plurality religious freedom, 40, 47, 55, 115, 163, 165; constitutional provision for or right to, 4, 94; see also constitution, and prohibition of religious establishment; as essential to popular sovereignty or democracy, 35, 37, 39, 57; and the First Amendment, 1, 36, 49; principle of, 35n., 36–7, 44–6, 49, 53n., 71n., 89, 114; see also Christian faith, and religious freedom religious plurality, 35; implications for democracy, 37–8, 52–3; and United States politics, 1

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

religious question, 58n.1, 68, 109, 114, 166; broad meaning, 53n.; status of its rationality, 53–5, 139; as self-affirming or self-answering, 170–1; strict meaning, 53n., 169–70; see also democracy, and the religious question religious toleration, 32, 35 Renaissance, 32
"render to Caesar," 7–9; see also God, and "render to Caesar"; Jesus(Christ), and "render to Caesar"; Mark, Gospel of, meaning of "paying taxes" in Revelation, book of, 11 rights: civil, 40, 143; (democratic) community of, 137n., 138, 140; economic, 40, 46, 48n., 94–5, 96; formative or properly constitutional, 45, 93–4, 97, 119n., 130, 132–5, 139, 140, 143, 145, 147, 155n.10; legitimate compromise of constitutional, 94, 134; political, 40, 48; to private liberties, 93–5, 97, 107, 112, 132, 134, 136, 137n., 140, 145, 148, 151; to public liberties, 93–5, 97, 107, 112, 132, 136, 137n., 145, 148, 151, 155n.10; substantive, 95, 96–7; social, 40, 48n., 94–5, 96; see also abortion, right to; abortion, right to bodily integrity; abortion, right to freedom of conscience; abortion, right to life; democracy, membership defined exclusively by constitutional rights; freedom of assembly or association; freedom of conscience; political equality; religious freedom, principle of; Universal Declaration of Human Rights Roe v. Wade, 131–3, 141–3
Roman Catholicism, 32, 142
Roman Empire (or monarchy), 11–13, 17, 24–6, 28
Romans, Epistle to the, 9–10
Rome, 9, 11, 84
rule by the many, see democracy

Schleiermacher, Friedrich, 76, 78 self-understanding (or decision for inclusive purpose), 83, 86, 101, 104–5, 136, 137n., 171; authentic, see authenticity, human; as implying and implied by some specific purpose, 83–4, 104; inauthentic ones as self-refuting or self-defeating, 171; as primal, 73–4, 76, 83, 114, 139n., 162, 168, 171, see also God, primal belief in; see also authenticity, decision for or against social gospel, 16, 107, 126 state, 4, 13, 36, 42, 45n.6–7, 50, 82, 90, 92, 95, 96n., 100, 105, 107, 114–15, 139, 142, 150; activity or duty in respect to constitutional rights, 40, 70, 94, 96, 115–16, 132–3, 140–1, 146–8; and democracy or popular sovereignty, 35, 45, 47, 60, 80, 114; distinctive task of, 90, 162; minimal, 46, 96n., 148–9, 155n.11, 158–9; relation to justice or morality, 132, 148; welfare, 118, 149, 159; see also abortion, and state's concern to protect respect for human life; constitutional principles, in relation to the state; economic distribution, and state complicity in disparity of stoicism, 64, 65
Supreme Court, 122, 131, 147, 160; and abortion, 131–6, 140; and affirmative action, 143, 144n.

Tertullian, 58–9 theology, 65–6, 69; as common vocation, 3; as specialized vocation, 3; see also Aquinas, Thomas, relation of philosophy to theology in; liberation theology Thessalonians, First Epistle to the, 10
Thoreau, Henry David, 7
Tillich, Paul, 76
totalitarianism, 90

Universal Declaration of Human Rights, 40
United Nations, 40

vocation: secular meaning, 2–3; see also Christian vocation way of reason (or humanistic commitment), 32–3, 49–51, 52–3, 58n.1, 62, 69, 79, 81, 97, 137–8, 139, 165–6, 170; as alternative "faith," 168; defined, 65, 165; as self-affirming, 166–9; see also Christian belief, status of assessment by argument; Christian faith, and way of reason or humanistic commitment; constitution, and way of reason; democracy, and way of reason or humanistic commitment; political (democratic) discourse, and way of reason; political equality, and way of reason or humanistic commitment; political inequality, denied by way of reason or humanistic commitment; popular sovereignty, and (assessment of) religious or political claims;

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
0521838762 - Politics as a Christian Vocation: Faith and Democracy Today
Franklin I. Gamwell
Index
More information

religious beliefs, assessment or redemption by way of reason or humanistic commitment; religious question, as self-affirming or self-answering
"we the people," see democracy or popular sovereignty Weber, Max, 117
welfare liberal, see liberal communal ideal, as welfare Whitehead, Alfred North, 49, 50, 85, 102, 105, 171
Winthrop, John, 126
Wolin, Sheldon, 10–11

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org