who taught me, by his example, to notice—and to cherish—what is unique in everyone.*

Acknowledgements

A generous grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation supported the research and writing of this book. I would like to thank the Foundation and, in particular, its programme officer for the Public Understanding of Science, Doron Weber.

David Mann provided marvellous drawings that enriched and enlivened the text.

Many friends and colleagues have also contributed in various ways and I am grateful to all of them: Carol Baron, Colin Blakemore, Gregory Bock, Kenneth Boyd, Keith Campbell, Elizabeth Graham, Julia Greenstein, Christopher Higgins, Susan Joffe, Bob Lieberman, Anne McLaren, Laurie Petrick, Tony Rawsthorne, Martin Redfern, Jon Risley, Eric Sharps, Virginia Schultz, Azim Surani, Alan Trounson, Robin Weiss, and Steen Willadsen.

Dr Lindsay Sharp and Heather Mayfield, respectively the Director of the National Museum of Science and Industry and Deputy Director of the Science Museum, have provided me with the wonderful opportunity to be the Museum's Writer in Residence.

My agents, Daniela Bernardelle and Bruce Hunter of David Higham Associates, have been extraordinarily helpful at every stage.
