RELIGION IN REPUBLICAN ITALY

This volume explores how recent findings and research provide a richer understanding of religious activities in Republican Rome and contemporary central Italic societies, including the Etruscans, during the period of the Middle and Late Republic. While much recent research has focused on the Romanization of areas outside Italy in later periods, this volume investigates religious aspects of the Romanization of the Italian peninsula itself. The chapters strive to integrate literary evidence with archaeological and epigraphic material as they consider the nexus of religion and politics in early Italy; the impact of Roman institutions and practices on Italic society; the reciprocal impact of non-Roman practices and institutions on Roman custom; and the nature of “Roman,” as opposed to “Latin,” “Italic,” or “Etruscan,” religion in the period in question. The resulting volume illuminates many facets of religious praxis in Republican Italy, while at the same time complicating the categories we use to discuss it.

CELIA E. SCHULTZ is Assistant Professor of Classics at Yale University and has taught at the Pennsylvania State University, Bryn Mawr College, and the Johns Hopkins University. She is the author of Women's Religious Activity in the Roman Republic (2006).

PAUL B. HARVEY, JR is Associate Professor in the Departments of Classics and Ancient Mediterranean Studies, History, and Religious Studies at the Pennsylvania State University. He has published numerous articles on topics in classics and late antique studies and is a co-author of volumes II and III of The Laws of the Medieval Kingdom of Hungary.

Acknowledgments

Though not technically conference proceedings, the essays collected in this volume were presented at a festive weekend gathering at the Whitney Humanities Center, Yale University in March 2003. All the contributors to this project thank those in the audience for substantial critical, collegial commentary. From the inception of this project there has been extensive consultation among the authors. The reader will frequently encounter in the notes to these studies references to consultation among the contributors and several citations of contributors' published and forthcoming studies – an index of the level of genial collaboration. All involved have deeply appreciated the friendly fashion in which the project proceeded.

Those who have contributed to the value of this volume as a whole are legion; the following friends and colleagues deserve formal thanks for their assistance: Cecilia Beer, John L. Berry, Larissa Bonfante, M. Rosaria Borriello and Stefano De Caro of the Soprintendenza Archeologica di Napoli; Guy Bradley, Monica Castillo, Thomas Chen, Annamaria Comella, Glenys Davies, Valeria Sampaolo for permission to publish materials from the sanctuary of Marica in the Museo Archeologico Nazionale di Napoli; Nancy T. De Grummond, David D. Driscoll, Gary Farney, Barbro Santillo Frizell, Margarita Gleba, Karen J. Harvey, Carlo Livi, Donatella Mazzeo and Paola Matteo of the Museo Nazionale d'Arte Orientale for permission to publish materials from Monte d'Argento; Brian E. McConnell, William E. Metcalf, Elisabeth O'Keef, Giorgio Pala, Silvio Panciera, Carlo Rescigno, S. Dominic Ruegg, Russell T. Scott, Martin Söderlind, Giuseppe Tonsini and Augusto Briotti of the Soprintendenza Archeologica per il Lazio for photographs of materials from Monte d'Argento and the Temple of Marica; Stefano Tortorella, Leni Wendt, Aidan Westin-Lewis and his colleagues at the National Gallery of Scotland; Susan Walker of the British Museum; and Valerie Warrior.

Finally, this project would not have developed if we had not had the support of John Matthews, Victor Bers, Susanna Morton Braund, and Kay

Claiborn of the Department of Classics at Yale University. Special help came from Ayelet Haimson Lushkov, Pramit Chaudhuri, Ornella Rossi, and Katherine Wasdin. To them we all offer our most sincere thanks.

Finally, in the time between the issuing of invitations to participate and the last stages of production for Religion in Republican Italy, contributors to this volume gave birth to six children. We wish to thank the babies for arriving safely. We also thank them for their foresight in always arriving after deadlines for the volume had been met.
