THE CAMBRIDGE COMPANION TO THE SUMMA THEOLOGIAE

Arguably the most influential work of theology in the history of Christianity, Thomas Aquinas' Summa Theologiae has shaped all subsequent theology since it was written in the late thirteenth century. This Companion features essays from both specialists in Aquinas' thought and from constructive contemporary theologians to demonstrate how to read the text effectively and how to relate it to past and current theological questions. The authors thoroughly examine individual topics addressed in the Summa, such as God, the Trinity, eternity, providence, virtue, grace, and the sacraments, making the text accessible to students of all levels. They further discuss the contextual, methodological, and structural issues surrounding the Summa, as well as its interaction with a variety of religious traditions. This volume will not only allow readers to develop a comprehensive multi-perspectival understanding of Aquinas' main mature theological work but also promote dialogue about the vital role of the Summa in theology today.

PHILIP MCCOSKER is Director of the Von Hügel Institute and Fellow of St Edmund's College, University of Cambridge, and Departmental Lecturer in Modern Theology, University of Oxford. He is the editor of What Is It that the Scripture Says? (2006) and author of Christ the Paradox: Expanding Ressourcement Theology (2017). He is also the editor of the journal Reviews in Religion and Theology.

DENYS TURNER is Horace Tracy Pitkin Professor Emeritus of Historical Theology at Yale University. His most recent publications include Julian of Norwich, Theologian (2011) and Thomas Aquinas: A Portrait (2013).

Acknowledgements

Above all, we would like to thank the scholars who have written this book for their expertise, collaboration, and extreme patience. The original idea for this Companion – when we were both located in Cambridge – came from Kate Brett at Cambridge University Press: we thank her for her inspiration and encouragement. The project was taken on in due course by Laura Morris and Alexandra Poreda, and finally brought firmly to eventual publication by Beatrice Rehl and Isabella Vitti, all through the disruptions of our own several criss-crossing transatlantic moves as well as the illnesses of a number of contributors. In the course of the preparation of the volume, one of its contracted contributors, Servais Pinckaers OP, died before his essay was complete: we would like to record our appreciation here for his scholarship on Thomas and ethics more broadly. Brian Davies OP, one of our contributors, is also the literary executor for Herbert McCabe OP, another of our contributors. He undertook the careful editing of Herbert's text for this publication: for this, as well as the permission to publish the piece here, we are extremely grateful. We also wish to thank Pauline Matarasso for translation work en route and John Trappes-Lomax for vital assistance at the end. Any infelicity remains ours alone.

A Note on Citations of the ST and other Texts by Thomas Aquinas

Citations of the ST in this volume follow this basic tripartite format: III.3.5. The initial capital roman letters indicate the part (in this case the third part), the second element in arabic numerals indicates the question within that part (in this case the third question), and the third element in arabic numerals indicates the article within that question (in this case the fifth article). The second part of the ST is divided in two sub-parts: I-II and II-II. More elaborate references will indicate the precise location within an article using further indicators found in the list of abbreviations. These are clearly explained in Frederick Christian Bauerschmidt's chapter in this volume. Other texts by Thomas are cited in standard format. These are published in many editions and online: bibliographical references to the best editions can be easily found, for example, in Bauerschmidt's Thomas Aquinas: Faith, Reason, and Following Christ (Oxford University Press, 2013), 317–22.
