VICTORIAN VISIONS OF GLOBAL ORDER

This wide-ranging and original collection analyses some of the diverse visions of global politics that circulated during a pivotal era in the history of the British empire. A distinguished group of contributors explore topics including: the evolution of international law; the ways in which the world was imaginatively divided into the 'civilised' and the 'barbarian'; the role of India in shaping conceptions of civil society; grandiose ideas about a global imperial state; the emergence of an array of radical critiques of empire; the varieties of liberal imperialism; and the rise and fall of the ideology of free trade. Spanning canonical figures (including Bentham, Cobden, Marx and Mill) as well as many important but neglected figures (including J. R. Seeley, Henry Maine and James Fitzjames Stephens), this collection is a significant contribution to the study of political thought and intellectual history.

DUNCAN BELL is a University Lecturer in International Relations in the Centre of International Studies, University of Cambridge, and a Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge. He has previously published The Idea of Greater Britain: Empire and the Future of World Order, 1860–1900 (2007) and was editor of Memory, Trauma, and World Politics: Reflections on the Relationship Between Past and Present (2006).

IDEAS IN CONTEXT

Edited by Quentin Skinner and James Tully

The books in this series discuss the emergence of intellectual traditions and of related new disciplines. The procedures, aims and vocabularies that were generated are set in the context of the alternatives available within the contemporary frameworks of ideas and institutions. Through detailed studies of the evolution of such traditions, and their modification by different audiences, it is hoped that a new picture will form of the development of ideas in their concrete contexts. By this means, artificial distinctions between the history of philosophy, of the various sciences, of society and politics, and of literature may be seen to dissolve.

The series is published with the support of the Exxon Foundation.

A list of books in the series will be found at the end of the volume.
