

Contents

Acknowledgments	page ix
Introduction	1
1 Canonical prayer (ṣalāt) and supplication (du‘ā’): Development and rules	10
Ṣalāt : conditions and components	20
Supplication: Du‘ā’	29
2 Valid prayer and ideal prayer	44
Intent (nīya)	44
Reverence (khushū‘) and concentration (huḍūr al-qalb)	56
The cultivation of emotion	62
Ethical transformation	70
Conclusion	73
3 Interpretive models: What is ṣalāt , and what does it do?	75
The model of the royal audience	84
Prayer as communication	98
Ṣalāt as an exercise in self-discipline	102
Ṣalāt as a reflection of the cosmos	114
Modern developments	121
4 The community at prayer: Congregational prayer, prayer leadership (imāma), and the boundaries of the religious community	128
Friday prayers	130
Leadership in prayer (imāma)	139
Prayer behind a leader of another legal school	150
Knowledge of prayer and its distribution in the community	155
Failure to pray	162
Modern developments	172

viii	Contents
5	Women and prayer	177
	Women's prayer leadership (imāma) and placement within the congregation	180
	Women's mosque access	190
	Knowledge and mastery of prayer	209
	Conclusion	215
	Bibliography	217
	Index	235