FROM THE TETRARCHS TO THE THEODOSIANS

An integrated collection of essays examining the politics, social networks, law, historiography, and literature of the later Roman world, this volume treats three central themes: the first section looks at political and social developments across the period and argues that, in spite of the stress placed upon traditional social structures, many elements of Roman life remained only slightly changed. The second section focuses upon biographical texts and shows how late antique authors adapted traditional modes of discourse to new conditions. The final section explores the first years of the reign of Theodosius I and shows how he built upon historical foundations while unfurling new methods for utilizing, presenting, and commemorating imperial power. These papers analyze specific events and local developments to highlight examples of both change and continuity in the Roman world from 284 to 450.

SCOTT MCGILL is Associate Professor in the Classical Studies Department, Rice University. He is the author of Virgil Recomposed: The Mythological and Secular Centos in Antiquity (2005) and is currently writing Plagiarism in Classical Latin Literature, exploring the concept of plagiarism in Latin antiquity.

CRISTIANA SOGNO is Assistant Professor of Classics at Fordham University, New York. Her book Q. Aurelius Symmachus: a Political Biography (2006) offers a reconstruction of the political career of Symmachus through close analysis of his extensive writings, while also proposing a critical reevaluation of his historical importance. Among her current projects is a study on curiositas in Latin literature.

EDWARD WATTS is Associate Professor of History, Adjunct Associate Professor of Religious Studies, and Adjunct Associate Professor of Classics at Indiana University, Bloomington. His book City and School in Late Antique Athens and Alexandria (2006) won the Outstanding Publication Award from the Classical Association of the Middle West and South in 2007. His current book Riot in Alexandria: Tradition and Group Dynamics in Late Antique Pagan and Christian Communities (2010) explores the cultural and religious interactions of late fifth-century Alexandrian pagan intellectuals, Christian ascetics, and bishops.

Acknowledgments

We owe debts of gratitude to a range of people who have made this project possible. Christina Kraus and the Yale University Department of Classics have been enthusiastic in their support of our initiatives. Michael Sharp and Elizabeth Hanlon of Cambridge University Press have been important resources throughout the process of preparing and assembling this volume. The Departments of Classics at Rice University and Fordham University have also made our efforts easier through their financial support. We also must thank Veronika Grimm who offered good advice even while keeping our activities a secret.
