

Contents

List of illustrations	page vii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	x
List of abbreviations	xii
Introduction	I
PART I: THE REPUBLIC	3
1 Plato on why mathematics is good for the soul	5
2 Long walk to wisdom	73
3 The truth of tripartition	78
4 Plato and the dairy-maids: the distribution of happiness inside and outside the ideal city of the Republic	96
5 Justice writ large and small in Republic iv	119
6 Fathers and sons in Plato's Republic and Philebus	138
7 By the Dog	148
8 Culture and society in Plato's Republic	154
8a Lecture I. Couches, song, and civic tradition	154
8b Lecture II. Art and the menace of mimesis	183
8c Lecture III. Farewell to Homer and the honeyed muse	208

vi	Contents
	PART II: THE PAST IN THE PRESENT	239
9	Plato	241
10	James Mill on Thomas Taylor's Plato: Introduction	264
11	What was 'the common arrangement'? An inquiry into John Stuart Mill's boyhood reading of Plato	272
12	The past in the present: Plato as educator of nineteenth-century Britain	306
	Appendix: The Archaeology of Feeling	329
I	Ancient freedoms	329
II	Anger and revenge	356
III	Happiness and tranquillity	377
IV	Other minds, other faces: philosophy and physiognomics in the ancient world	397
	Bibliography	418
	Index locorum	433