

Contents

Contributors	page vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Abbreviations for Cavell's Works	ix
Introduction	1
Part I Ordinary Language and Its Philosophy
1 Must We Mean What We Say? and Ordinary Language Philosophy SANDRA LAUGIER	15
2 Revolutionary Uses of Wittgenstein in Must We Mean What We Say? JULIET FLOYD	34
3 Actions and Their Elaboration JEAN-PHILIPPE NARBOUX	56
4 Faces of the Ordinary ELI FRIEDLANDER	77
Part II Aesthetics and the Modern
5 "Language-Games" and "Forms of Life": Cavell's Reading of Wittgenstein and Its Relevance to Literary Studies GREG CHASE	89
6 Philosophic and Aesthetic Appeal: Stanley Cavell on the Irreducibility of the First Person in Aesthetics and in Philosophy ARATA HAMAWAKI	103

vi	Contents
7	Reading Into It or Hearing It Out?: Cavell on Modernism and the Art Critic's Hermeneutical Risk ROBERT ENGELMAN	121
8	Must We Sing What We Mean?: "Music Discomposed" and Philosophy Composed VINCENT COLAPIETRO	135
Part III Tragedy and the Self
9	Philosophy as Autobiography: From Must We Mean What We Say? to Little Did I Know NAOKO SAITO	151
10	The Finer Weapon: Cavell, Philosophy, and Praise VICTOR J. KREBS	167
11	On Cavell's "Kierkegaard's On Authority and Revelation " – with Constant Reference to Austen KELLY JOLLEY	179
12	Tragic Implication SARAH BECKWITH	198
13	Gored States and Theatrical Guises PAUL STANDISH	210
	Bibliography	231
	Index of Names and Subjects	240
	Index of References to Cavell's Works	249