How did the cities of Ionia construct and express a distinct sense of Ionian identity under Roman rule? With the creation of the Roman province of Asia and the ever-growing incorporation of the Greeks into the Roman Empire, issues of identity gained new relevance and urgency for the Greek provincials. The Ionian cities are a special case as they, unlike many other cities in Asia Minor, were all old Greek poleis and could look back on a glorious tradition of great antiquity. Martin Hallmannsecker provides answers to this question using studies of the extant literary sources complemented with analyses of the rich epigraphic and numismatic material from the cities of Ionia. In doing so, he draws a more holistic and nuanced picture of the region and furthers understanding of Greek culture under the Roman Empire.

Martin Hallmannsecker obtained his doctorate in ancient history at the University of Oxford and works now as a postdoctoral researcher and lecturer at the University of Vienna with a specialisation in Greek epigraphy and Roman Asia Minor.
The Greek culture of the Roman Empire offers a rich field of study. Extraordinary insights can be gained into processes of multicultural contact and exchange, political and ideological conflict, and the creativity of a changing, polyglot empire. During this period, many fundamental elements of Western society were being set in place: from the rise of Christianity, to an influential system of education, to long-lived artistic canons. This series is the first to focus on the response of Greek culture to its Roman imperial setting as a significant phenomenon in its own right. To this end, it will publish original and innovative research in the art, archaeology, epigraphy, history, philosophy, religion, and literature of the empire, with an emphasis on Greek material.

I would like to thank the Faculty of Classics, University of Oxford, and New College, Oxford whose generous support allowed me to work on my DPhil there from 2015 to 2018. Thanks to a scholarship from the Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies I was able to work at Fondation Hardt in Geneva in September and October 2018 in an ideal and stimulating environment. Warm thanks also go to Thomas Corsten who hosted me as a visiting PhD student at the University of Vienna in the academic year of 2018/19, funded by a scholarship from the Österreichischer Austauschdienst, Agentur für Bildung und Internationalisierung. For the final weeks before the submission of my DPhil, Christof Schuler kindly invited me to use the facilities at the Kommission für Alte Geschichte und Epigraphik in Munich. The Faculty of Historical and Cultural Studies at the University of Vienna generously helped me to shoulder the permission costs for the image rights.

I was lucky enough to be able to travel through Western Turkey on several occasions and would like to thank my travel companions for unforgettable days and nights in Ionia: Leah Lazar, Marcus Chin, Charles Crowther, Peter Thonemann, İlnur Karakaşlar Kunczewicz, Florian Forster, Alexander Free, Henry Heitmann-Gordon, Emyr Dakin, Georgios Tsolakis, and Angelos Chaniotis (not only for funding one of the trips with his characteristic megalopsychia but also for deejaying from the back seat).

Beate Dignas, Christina Kuhn, Georgy Kantor, and Christof Schuler acted as my examiners at various stages and have read parts or all of my thesis, which greatly benefited from their helpful comments and criticism. My friends Philippa Adrych, Supratik Baralay, Marcus Chin, Elizabeth Foley, and Leah Lazar took on the burden of proofreading chapters of the thesis as yet another expression of their continuing support throughout the years.
I am extremely grateful to the editors of Greek Culture in the Roman World for accepting my book for publication as part of this series. The many comments of the two anonymous reviewers helped me to sharpen my arguments and hopefully to make the book more accessible to non-specialists. Michael Sharp, Liz Davey, and Katie Idle from Cambridge University Press as well as Vigneswaran Viswanathan from Integra and Juliet Wilberforce supported the publication process with great empathy and patience.

Robert Parker kindly stepped in as my supervisor during the first year of my DPhil, and I am very grateful for being able to learn from his unfathomable wealth of knowledge. Without my main supervisor Peter Thonemann, this book would simply not exist. One can only dream of a supervisor answering emails within minutes, thoroughly correcting and proofreading chapter drafts within a few days, and always providing the necessary amount of pressure, guidance, and input. The many stimulating discussions with him have not only motivated me to stay on track during this laboursome journey, but have also fundamentally shaped the content and arguments of this book. I am immensely grateful to him for everything.

Finally, I want to thank my family for putting up with my various career changes, for supporting me throughout my studies in all ways imaginable, and most importantly for keeping me grounded.
