

Index

- action research study, 258–65
 Activity Based Learning (ABL), 4, 63, 65–72. See also innovative education programmes adaptive/adapted preferences, 54, 204, 240–1, 277–8 admissibility, individual rights, 23–8 agency: action research study, 258–65; in the capability approach, 150, 260–5; integrating social theories and the capability approach, 276–9; structuration theory, 267–9 aggregation functions: leading to different social outcomes, 17–18; properties of, 19–23 Albó, X., 326–33
 altruism, 174. See also self-interest
 Anand, P. B., 94–5
 Andean philosophy, 333–41
 anonymity, collective choice theory, 29
 Archer, M., 269–70, 275–6
 Aristotle, 247–9
 Arrow's theorem, 19–23, 42–3 automation, 294–5, 297–8 autonomy, self-determination theory (SDT), 249–50
 the ayllu, 333–41
- Balinski and Laraki's majority judgement method, 21–3
 Becker, G., 356–7
 Bentham, J., 142–3, 145
 biocentric turn in development, 341–6
 Borda count, 19–23
 Borda rule, 17–18
 Bourdieu, P., 270–1
 Buchanan, J. M., 28–9
 'buen vivir' (BV), 328–30, 333–41, 344–6
- capability approach: agency, 150, 260–5; development as capability expansion, 149–54; emotional dimension in, 202–5, 214–17; functioning prospects, 78; generalizability assumption, 43–50; generalizability tables, 54–8; human development, 147–54, 160–5; inclusiveness, 6–7, 139–40, 152–4; justification of, 154–60; measuring and comparing capability sets, 33–8; 'people's advantage' 53–4; pluralism, 6–7, 42–3, 58–9; procedural aspects, 28–33; public services, 403–5; RCSS and capability, 129–31; social choice theory (SCT) as part of, 1–2; social theory contributions, 257–8, 265–7; specific function of, 3–4; subjective well-being, 241 capability as concept: fractal structure, 306–10; living well, 229–30; measuring and comparing capability sets, 33–8 carbon dioxide emissions: smart cities, 102–3; sustainable cities, 92–4 cities, 4–5; addressing injustices, 106–8; an enigma of a sustainable city, 89–98; and freedom, 86; nudges and public policy, 98–101; smart cities, 101–6; urban sustainability, 85–7
 Claassen, R., 264–5
 Coase's theorem, 28
 Cobb–Douglas production function, 289 collective choice theory, 29 collective conversion factor, family as, 359–63 collective space, 11–12
 Comim, F., 202

- commitment: dating example, 178–84;
 as discussed by Sen, 170–6, 260–1;
 in practice, 186–9; two types of,
 177–8, 190–8
- communication: digital technology, 295–6; emotions as essential to,
 210–12; power of, 74–5
- communicative action, 271–3
- consciousness, structuration theory, 268–9
- consensus building, 148–9, 164–5
- constrained choice, 275
- conversion factors: family as, 359–63;
 public service reform examples, 408–18; public services as, 406–8;
 theory and practice, 401–2, 418–19
- corporate social responsibility
 (CSR), 96–7
- Covid-19 pandemic, 98
- creativity and capabilities, 284–6;
 innovation, growth and change, 286–93; technology, change and valuable lives, 293–8
- Crisp, R., 232
- critical theory, 207, 272
- Crudem, A., 296–7
- Cudd, A. E., 192
- cultural pluralism, 234–5
- cultural values, 11–12
- culture, in cities, 89
- Dalton, H., 163
- data privacy, 104
- Deci, E. L., 249–50
- ‘dependent’ persons: capability to live independently, 305–6; estimation of an individual capability set, 314–18;
 formulating the capability approach, 306–10, 320–1; functioning achievement and utilization ability, 310–12; main and sub-functionings,
 318–20; measuring the achieved
 functioning vectors, 312–14
- Desai, M., 144–6
- development: connections with indigenous philosophies, 330–41;
 contemporary trends in Latin America, 326–33; economics of human development, 149–54; ethics of, 323–6; household configurations and access to education, 371–8;
 Human Development Index (HDI), 146, 154–60; the Pachamama and the biocentric turn, 341–6; Sen’s capability approach, 147–8; two conceptions of, 143–9
- Diamond, J., 294
- digitization, 294–9
- dignity see human dignity
- disabilities, 12, 106–7; dependence vs self-support, 305–6; and disadvantage, 387–8; Equality Act, 2010, 385; health and work,
 388–93; ‘Improving Lives’ strategy,
 UK, 393–9
- Dodgson’s rule, 21, 22
- Doyal, L., 234–5
- Drèze, J., 404–5
- Eco, U., 210–12
- economic growth: development approaches, 323–5; income per capita, 284, 286, 291–3; innovation, growth and change, 286–93; supply-side effects, 284–5; technology, change and valuable lives, 293–8;
 theories of, 287–91
- economics: of human development, 149–54, 160–1; Marxist, 286–7;
 welfare, 1–2, 19–23, 151–2
- the economy, 9–10
- Ecuador, constitution of, 341–2
- Edgeworth box allocation, 28–9
- EDOREN (Education Data, Research and Evaluation in Nigeria) initiative, 115–18. See also RCSS (Research Capacity Strengthening Strategy)
- education: Human Development Index
 (HDI), 157–8; standard of living, 228–9
- education policy: diffusion mechanisms, 71–6; educational outcomes, 62–4; innovation and educational choice, 76–9; innovative education programmes, 65–7, 72–6;
 in northern Nigeria, 114–15; the Paretian liberal, 64–5; rationale for educational innovation, 68–72
- educational choice: in cities, 89;
 and innovation, 76–9; innovative

- education programmes, 65–7;
 the Paretian liberal, 64–5; policy
 diffusion mechanisms, 72–6
- educational outcomes, 62–4
- egoism, 174, 197–8
- ‘El Retorno del Indio’ (Albó), 326–33
- elderly people, 10–11; capability to live independently, 305–6;
 estimation of an individual
 capability set, 314–18; formulating
 the capability approach, 306–10, 320–1; functioning achievement
 and utilization ability, 310–12;
 main and sub-functionings, 318–20;
 measuring the achieved functioning vectors, 312–14
- emergency planning, 98
- emotions: as another reality, 205–6; as essential to being a communicating human, 210–12; as key to progress, 207–8; as obstacle to progress, 208–
 10; in Sen’s capability approach, 202–5, 214–17; understanding power, 212–13
- employment, automation as threat to jobs, 294–5, 297–8
- energy use: in cities, 92–4; ‘nudging’ 100
- environmental issues: and economic growth, 293–4; energy use, 92–4, 100; an enigma of a sustainable city, 89–98; ‘nudging’ 98–101; smart cities, 102–3; sufficiency approach, 236–7; water and food security, 90–2
- Equality Act, 2010, 385
- equality of opportunity, 87–8
- Erasmus, Desiderius, 208–10
- ethics: commitment and self-interest, 188–9; of development, 323–6.
See also morality
- eudaimonia, 247, 251–3
- EuroQol indicator, 312
- external goods, 247–9, 251–3
- extrinsic motivation, 249–50
- family: as a collective conversion factor, 359–63; household configuration as a mediator for differences in access to education, 371–8; quality of life in different types of households, 363–71, 378–81; situating within the capabilities framework, 356–9
- Family Meal and Homework Club (FMHC), 412–15
- feasibility, individual rights, 23–8
- fiduciary responsibility, 188–9, 193–7
- field (Bourdieu), 270–1
- Fitzgerald, F. Scott, 209
- food security, in cities, 90–2
- Foucault, M., 212–13
- fractal structure of capability, 306–10
- freedom, individual rights, 23–8
- functionings: control over one’s functioning bundle, 26–8; emotions, 214–15; formulating
 the capability approach, 306–10;
 human development, 155–7, 161–2; improving functioning prospects, 78; independence of ‘dependent’ persons, 310–20;
 main and sub, 306–10, 318–20;
 measuring and comparing capability sets, 33–8; measuring independence, 312–14; migration interview example, 218–20;
 professional capabilities, 130–1;
 public service reform, 417; in social evaluation, 150–1
- Gaertner, W., 34–8
- gender equality, 105–6
- generalizability tables, 54–8
- generalizability theory (GT): origins of, 47–8; Sen’s capability approach, 43–50
- Giddens, A., 267–9, 276
- globalization, 294–9
- Gough, I., 234–5
- gross domestic product (GDP), 284
- groups see social group memberships
- growth see economic growth
- Habermas, J., 271–3
- habitus (Bourdieu), 270–1, 277–8
- happiness research, 164–5, 240.
See also subjective well-being;
 sustainable human development
 (SHD)
- Haq, M. ul, 144, 160–5
- Harford, T., 292–3

- health: in capability approach, 386–7;
 disability, health and work, 388–93;
 Human Development Index (HDI),
 157–8; standard of living, 228–9;
 and work, 386–7
- Homo oeconomicus*, 323–5, 339
- household configuration see family
- human development, two conceptions of, 143–9. See also development;
 sustainable human development
 (SHD)
- Human Development Index (HDI), 146, 154–60
- human dignity: conceptions of, 223–4;
 social choice theory (SCT), 7–8;
 standard of living, 223–6
- human rights: adequate standard of living, 222; smart cities, 105–6
- identities: and commitment, 190–8;
 social, 5, 123–6; technological change, 285
- impartiality, standard of living, 223–6
- impossibility theorem, 42–3, 87–9, 107
- ‘Improving Lives’ strategy, UK, 385–6;
 aims and goals, 393–9; disability,
 health and work, 388–93; disability and disadvantage, 387–8; health and work, 386–7
- inclusiveness: in cities, 86–9;
 development as capability expansion, 149–54; exclusionary and inclusionary commitments,
 140–2; Sen’s capability approach, 6–7, 139–40, 152–4; sustainable
 human development, 139–40, 160–5
- income inequality, 163
- income per capita, 284, 286, 291–3
- independence of ‘dependent’ persons, 305–6; estimation of an individual
 capability set, 314–18; formulating
 the capability approach, 306–10,
 320–1; functioning achievement
 and utilization ability, 310–12;
 main functionings production by transforming sub-functionings, 318–20; measuring the achieved
 functioning vectors, 312–14
- India, innovative education case study see innovative education programmes
- indigenous populations: and the capability approach, 325–6, 346–7; contemporary trends of human development in Latin America, 326– 33; cultural values, 11–12; ethics of development, 323–6; ontological challenges to the capabilities approach, 333–41; the Pachamama and the biocentric turn, 341–6
- individual rights, 23–8
- Industrial Revolution, 289–90, 294
- information governance, 104
- informational pluralism, 6–7, 42–5, 50
- informational spaces, capability approach, 51–2, 54–8
- in-groups, 113–14, 126–9
- innovation, 286–93. See also technological change
- innovative education programmes:
 as case study, 65–7; educational outcomes, 62–4; innovation and educational choice, 76–9; the Paretian liberal, 64–5; policy
 diffusion mechanisms, 71–6;
 rationale for, 68–72; sampling criteria, 67–8
- the internet, 295–6
- intra-/intergenerational equity, 343–4
- intrinsic motivation, 249–50
- intrinsic pluralism, 42–3
- Jevons, W. S., 162–3
- Joas, H., 267, 272
- justice: addressing injustices in cities, 95–8, 106–8; inclusiveness, 87–8;
 morality, 142–3; smart cities, 105–6;
 subjective well-being, 249–53
- Kafka, F., 213
- Kaminski, J., 65–7, 74–5
- Keynes, J. M., 295
- knock-down arguments, 197
- Latin American indigenous peoples, and human development, 326–3
- Layard, R., 145, 164–5
- Lewis, W. A., 85

- lexical priority, 230–1
 life expectancy, 96
 lifeworld (Habermas), 273 living standards see standard of living living well, 224–5, 229–30, 233–7
 localism, 98
- Mali, household characteristics, 358–63; access to education, 371–8;
 quality of life in different types of households, 363–71
- Malthus, T., 288, 294
- Mann, T., 206
- marginal utility, 260–5
- Marx, K., 230–1, 272–3, 286–7
- Meeks, J. G., 6–7
- Melville, H., 211–12
- metric pluralism, 42–3
- Millennium Development Goals, 164–5
- morality: commitment and self-interest, 188–9; and development, 323–6; integrating aspects of social theory into the capability Approach, 274–6; sustainable human development (SHD), 142–3;
 welfarism, 142
- morphogenesis, 269–70
- Mother Nature, in indigenous philosophy, 341–6
- motivation: human development, 160–1;
 intrinsic and extrinsic, 249–50; self-determination theory (SDT), 241
- motivational pluralism, 42–3
- neoclassical economics, 288–90
- Nietzsche, F., 207–8
- Nigerian education case study, 114–
 15; EDOREN initiative, 115–18;
 RCSS and capability, 129–31; RCSS and social choice, 126–9; RCSS and social identity, 123–6; RCSS design, 118–20; RCSS evaluation, 132–4;
 RCSS in practice, 120–3
- nimbyism, 96–7
- Nozick, R., 29
- ‘nudges’ 98–101
- Nussbaum, M.: agency, 263; ‘ample minimum’ standard of living, 222, 233–4; central capabilities, 242–6;
 emotions, 202; the family, 356–7;
 human needs, 243–4; internalization,
 250; necessity of external goods,
 246–9; public reason, 224; striving,
 224–5; values, 45–6
- older people see elderly people
- Operation Modulus (OM), 408–12
- optimum social capability, 228–9, 232–3
- Pachamama*, the, 341–6
- Paretian liberal, the: innovative education programmes, 64–5; smart sustainable cities, 106–8; urban sustainability, 86–9
- Pareto extension rule see Sen, Pareto
 extension rule
- Parsons, R., 265, 266
- Pattanaik, P. K., 26–8
- ‘people’s advantage’ 53–4
- Pettit, P., 190–1
- pluralism, in Sen’s social choice
 approach, 6–7, 42–3, 58–9
- policy: indigenous populations and development, 326–33; nudges and sustainability, 98–101; smart sustainable cities, 106–8. See also education policy; ‘Improving Lives’
 strategy, UK
- political voting example, 193–7
- pollution reduction, 100
- population growth, 288
- poverty: disability and disadvantage, 387–8; empirical examples of public service reform, 408–18; and the family, 356–9
- power: asymmetries, 188–9; of communication, 74–5; emotions as key to understanding, 212–13, 215
- principle pluralism, 44–5
- privacy, 104
- procedural aspect, decision theories, 28–33
- professional capabilities, 129–31
- psychological needs, 242–6
- public reasoning, standard of living, 222–6
- public services: capabilities approach, 403–5; changing role of, 402–3; as conversion factors, 406–8; reform, 12–13, 408–18

- Qizilbash, M., 50
 quality of life, 240; in different types of households, 363–71, 378–81; happiness research, 164–5, 240; situating the family within the capabilities framework, 356–9. See also standard of living; subjective well-being
- rational choice theory: dating example, 178–84; models of, 178; reflexivity, 275–6; revealed preference, 260; the self, 171–2, 176. See also self-interest
- Rawls, J.: inclusiveness, 87–8; morality, 142–3; the Paretian liberal, 64; public reason, 224; resources and human well-being, 45; second principle of justice, 29, 30; theory of justice, 142–3
- RCSS (Research Capacity Strengthening Strategy): and capability, 129–31; design, 118–20; evaluation, 132–4; Nigerian context, 114–15; in practice, 120–3; and social choice, 126–9; and social identity, 123–6
- reflexivity, 275–6
- relational ontology, 337–9, 342, 345–6
- revealed preference, 99, 197–8, 260
- Ricardo, D., 288
- Ridley, M., 292
- rights see individual rights
- Robeyns, I., 274–6
- robotization, 294–5, 297–8
- Ryan, R. M., 249–50
- Samaritan approach to emotions, 203–4, 215
- Sartre, J.-P., 205–6
- scaffolding (learning process), 75
- self-centred welfare (S1), 176–83
- self-determination theory (SDT), 8–9; basic psychological needs and capabilities, 242–6; internalization and justice, 249–53; necessity of external goods, 246–9; subjective well-being, 241
- self-goal choice (S3), 175–83, 192
- self-interest: concepts, 171–6; dating example, 178–84; debates, 190–8; definitions, 176–83; as discussed by Sen, 170–84, 260–1; implications and applications, 184–9; politicians example, 193–7
- self-scrutiny, 185–6
- self-welfare goal (S2), 176–83
- Sen, A.: basic needs, 144–5; development as capability expansion, 149–54; emotional dimension in, 202–5, 214–17; ethics of development, 323–6; the family, 356–7; freedom, 23–8, 305–6, 344–5; functioning prospects, 78; generalizability assumption, 43–50; generalizability tables, 54–8; human development, 147–54, 160–5; inclusiveness, 6–7, 87–8, 139–40, 152–4; internalization, 250; justification of, 154–60; measuring and comparing capability sets, 33–8; Pareto extension rule, 22–3; ‘people’s advantage’ 53–4; pluralism, 6–7, 42–3, 58–9; procedural aspects, 28–33; public reason, 224; public services, 404–5; RCSS and capability, 129–31; revealed preference, 99; self-interest and commitment, 170–84, 260–1; social choice approach, 50–4; sustainability, 94–5
- Shields, L., 232
- Shipan, C., 72–6
- simple majority rule, 17–18
- smart cities, 101–6
- Smith, A., 42, 44–5, 291–2
- Smith, S., 291–2
- social choice theory (SCT): within field of welfare economics, 1–2; many facets of, 17–18; real-life contexts, 8–9
- ‘social gradient’ 96
- social group memberships, 113–14, 126–9
- social identities, 5, 123–6
- social justice: in the capability approach, 274–6; educational policy making, 76–9; public services, 403–5, 408–18; urban sustainability, 86

- social optimum, 228–9, 232–3 social theory, contributions to the capability approach, 257–8, 265–7; analysis of agency, 276–9; communicative action, 271–3; habitus, 270–1; integrating approaches, 274–6; morphogenesis, 269–70; structuration theory, 267–9 social welfare see welfare economics Solow model of economic growth, 288–90 standard of living: adequate standards, 222; ‘enough for all’ and further questions, 233–7; growth in income per capita, 291–3; public reasoning, 222–6; sufficiency, 226–33. See also quality of life; subjective well-being Stoics, 247–8, 252
 Stoker, B., 207–8
 Streeck, W., 74
 striving, 224–5
 structuration theory, 267–9 subjective well-being: adaptive preferences and internalization, 240–1; basic psychological needs and capabilities, 242–6; happiness research, 164–5, 240; internalization and justice, 249–53; necessity of external goods, 246–9; quality of life, 240. See also quality of life; standard of living subsistence standards, 227–8. See also standard of living sufficiency, 226–33. See also standard of living Sugden, R., 29
sumak kawsay (SK), 328–41, 344–6
 Sunstein, C., 98–101, 148–9 supply-side effects (economics), 284–5 sustainability: addressing injustices in cities, 95–8, 106–8; an enigma of a sustainable city, 89–98; indigenous philosophy and SK/BV, 326–41; intra-/intergenerational equity, 343–4; nudges and public policy, 98–101; the Pachamama and the biocentric turn in development, 341–6; smart sustainable cities, 106–8; and urbanization, 85–7 sustainable development (SD), definition, 141–2. See also environmental issues Sustainable Development Goals, 85–6, 164–5 sustainable human development (SHD): in cities, 94–5; development as capability expansion, 149–54; exclusionary and inclusionary commitments, 140–2; inclusiveness, 139–40; inclusivity, indicators and Haq’s paradigm, 160–5; justification of, 154–60; morality, 142–3; two conceptions of, 143–9 sympathy, 260–1
 technological change, 9–10; automation as threat to jobs, 294–5, 297–8; creativity and capabilities, 293–8; Industrial Revolution, 289–90, 294; innovation, growth and change, 286–93; smart cities, 101–6
 Thaler, R., 98–101
 Thelen, K., 74
 two-thirds majority rule, 17–18
 UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, 305–6
 United Kingdom (UK): Family Meal and Homework Club (FMHC), 412–15; ‘Improving Lives’ strategy, 385–6, 393–9; Operation Modulus (OM), 408–12 urbanization: an enigma of a sustainable city, 89–98; growing urban populations, 89–90; and sustainability, 85–7. See also cities utilitarianism, 45, 142–3, 145 utility: and agency, 260–5; human development, 162–3; welfare economics, 151–4 utilization ability, 306–12
 Veblen, T., 209
 Volden, C., 72–6
 waste reduction, 100–1
 water scarcity, in cities, 90–2

430

Index

welfare economics: aggregation functions, 19–23; Sen’s capability approach, 151–2; social choice theory (SCT) as part of, 1–2
welfarism, 47, 142
well-being, sufficiency in, 226–7.
See also standard of living; subjective well-being ‘well-being freedom’ 150

work: disability, health and work, 388–93; disability and disadvantage, 387–8; and health, 386–7; ‘Improving Lives’ strategy, UK, 393–9

Xu, Y., 26–8, 34–8

Young, I. M., 231