

THEOLOGICAL DETERMINISM

This volume unites established authors and rising young voices in philosophical theology and philosophy of religion to offer the single most wide-ranging examination of theological determinism—in terms of both authors represented and issues investigated—published to date. Fifteen contributors present discussions about theological (or divine) determinism, the view that God determines everything that occurs in the world. Some authors provide arguments in favor of this position, while others provide considerations against it. Many contributors investigate the relationship between theological determinism and other philosophical issues (the principle of sufficient reason; the compatibility of determinism and free will; moral luck), theological doctrines (creation ex nihilo; divine forgiveness; the inevitability of sin; the unity of Christ's will with God's), or moral attitudes and practices (trusting God; resenting the ill-will of others; resisting evil). This book is essential reading for all those interested in the relationship between theological determinism and philosophical thought.

PETER FURLONG is Professor of Philosophy at Valencia College. He is the author of The Challenges of Divine Determinism: A Philosophical Analysis (Cambridge, 2019).

LEIGH VICENS is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Augustana University. She is co-author, with Simon Kittle, of God and Human Freedom (Cambridge, 2019), in Cambridge Elements in the Philosophy of Religion.

Acknowledgments

We are indebted to the many people who made this book possible. First are the thirteen other contributors who wrote and revised their chapters in the midst of a pandemic, managing many commitments (and stressors) while seeing this project through to completion. We would also like to thank Hilary Gaskin at Cambridge University Press and a pair of anonymous reviewers for their comments and suggestions. Finally, we are grateful to our families for helping us find the time to work on this book.
