Contents

Preface .......................................................... ix
Acknowledgments ............................................... xxvi
Introduction ..................................................... 1

Part I Toward a Smarter Data Science

1. Why Textual Data from the Past Is Dangerous ........ 25
2. From Fantasy to Engagement ................................ 57
3. Words Are Keys and Words Are Barriers ............... 101
5. To Predict or to Describe? ................................. 135

Part II The Hidden Dimensions of Temporal Experience

6. The Many Windows of the House of the Past .......... 161
7. Of Memory .................................................... 190
8. The Distinctiveness of Certain Eras ...................... 229
9. The Measure of Influence ................................... 272
10. The Fit of Algorithms to Temporal Experience ......... 290
11. Whither Modernity ........................................ 333
12. Attacks on Environmentalists in Congress ............ 352
viii  Contents

PART III DISCIPLINARY IMPLICATIONS

13  A Map of World Culture, Purged of Bias  407
14  The Future of the Art  419

Appendix: Notes on Data, Code, Labor, Room for Error, and British History  445
Index  454